PERSHING AND DAWES PLEAD NATION'S CAUSE

Urge Old Ideals in Faneuil Hall.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—[Special.]—"Well, James," said the general of the armies of the United States to a little Boston Boy Scout who stood at rigid salute before him this evening on the illustrious platform of old Faneuil hall. Then John Pershing paused, swallowed hard, brushed something away from his eyes, and resumed:

GEN. J. J. PERSHING.

"Well, James, to be born on Christmas day and to be decorated in Faneuil hall on the 150th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord is about as much honor as could possibly come to a boy.

Pershing Decorates Boy Scout.

"I'm proud to stand on this platform with you, James, and from what you have done I know that your character is such that we will hear from you later on in life."

Then drums rolled and flags dipped and veterans of three wars stood at attention while tall John Pershing bent over the silent boy, who never moved a muscle, and pinned on his coat a jeweled medal for bravery.

Pledge Allegiance to Flag.

After that there was an instant's hush, and then little James Smith, aged 12 years and Boy Scout in Troop 11, East Boston, led the Vice President and the general of the armies, and the New England governors and mayors, and United States senators and old soldiers in repetition of the "pledge of allegiance" to the flag and government of the United States.

Now, that's how it came to pass on this "Patriots' day," as they call this anniversary in Boston, that James Thomas Smith pretty nearly swamped the glories of Dawes and Pershing in the ceremonies at Faneuil hall.

But Dawes and Pershing were tickled pink over being swamped, for they knew James Thomas Smith's story.

Story of Boy's Bravery.

John Pershing read it from a big, important looking document before he pinned on the jeweled medal—the story of how one day last February James went out, at bitter peril to his life, on melting ice that was bending under him, and how, with as much cleverness as daring, he rescued a comrade who, skating there, had gone through a hole in the ice.

Only the other boy's hand showed above the ice when James Thomas Smith reached him, but James got him out, used the first aid manipulations he had learned from the master scout, loaded his comrade on to his sled, dragged him homeward across the bending ice, and then had very little to say about the matter.

Dawes Honors His Ancestor.

As for Vice President Dawes, Boston made him stand out in the cold rain today to honor the memory of a young man—dead now these 126 years—who just a century and a half ago last night leaped to meet his appointed hour and violently fulfilled its perilous demands.

That young man, a young tanner living then just around the corner from Faneuil hall—was William Dawes Jr., great-great-grandfather of Charles G. Dawes, and it was he who, riding furiously by a southerly and westerly route, helped Paul Revere on the night of April 18, 1775, to rouse the colonists to battle on the morrow, Revere taking the northerly and westerly road to Lexington.

"Where Do We Go Next?"

So they took Dawes to the building at 16 North street, which occupies the site of the house his ancestor lived in, and there with many glowing words, which the rain could not dampen, they unveiled a tablet to William the tanner, while Charles, who also is good at tanning, stood bareheaded and hoarsely whipered "Good. Where do we go next?"

Well the next place was old Faneuil hall, beautifully restored by Boston at the insistent demand of Mayor Curley and today rededicated by Dawes and Pershing, as "the oldest center of municipal life in America" and "a thing belonging not to America alone, but to all humanity," the cradle of American liberty.

Gavel Presented to Dawes.

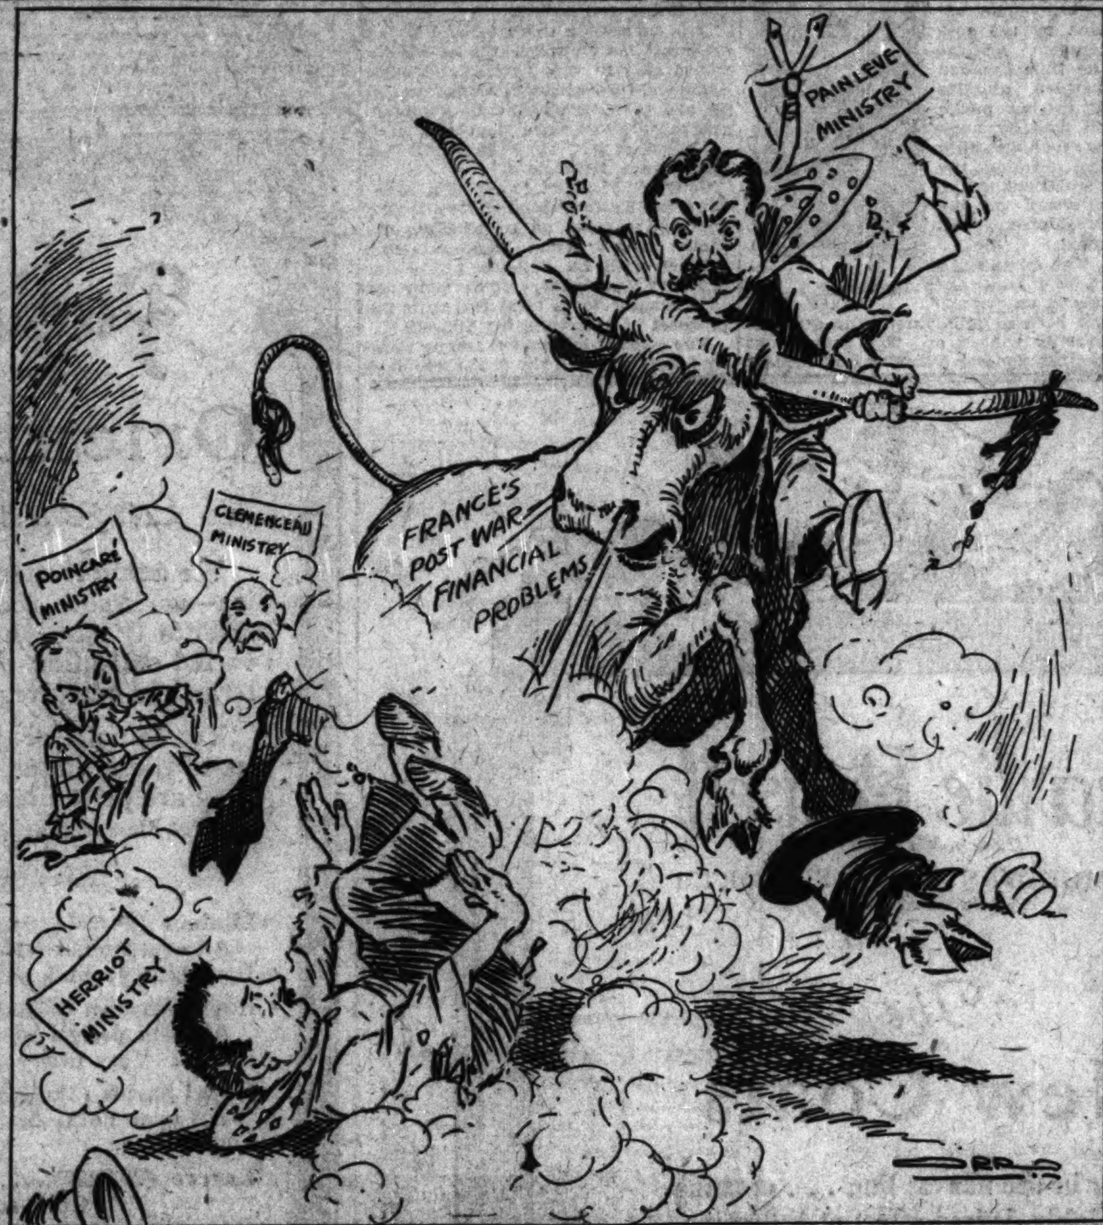
THE BULLDOGGERS



TEACHER MEETS "RICH MAN"; HE ROBS; IS CAUGHT

Irene E. Schwartzenberg, 25 years old, a pretty New York school teacher, met Harry Dick yesterday while on a bus ride. Mr. Dick introduced himself as one of the big men of the town, an official in the Commonwealth Edison company and that sort of thing.

He proposed a ride in his $14,000 automobile and drove her to the Congress hotel to freshen her appearance a bit. The gallant Mr. Dick went with her to her room and while she busied herself he took $90 out of her purse. Whereupon Miss Schwartzenberg locked the door and wouldn't open it until Harry returned the cash. Then she let him out.

Dick ran fourteen flights to the lobby. The teacher took an express elevator and had three policemen waiting for him. At Harrison street station the detectives identified him as Harry Treusch, 4049 West Van Buren street, with a record.

Busy Bee Not So Busy, but It's a Good Bluffer

Washington, D. C., April 19.—The term "busy bee" is a misnomer, experts of the department of agriculture have concluded after elaborate tests. As a matter of fact, the department's scientists declare the honey bee spends more time in the hive than it does outside hunting nectar. It only makes 31.65 trips during its lifetime and gathers only eight-tenths of a gram of nectar.

Tries Out New Parachute; Falls 700 Feet to His Death

Tulsa, Okla., April 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—D. D. Kohle, 38, a professional parachute jumper, was instantly killed at a flying field near Tulsa this afternoon when his parachute failed to remain open. The parachute, a new invention, opened and checked his fall and then closed, allowing him to plunge more than 700 feet to earth.

Milwaukee Avenue Seed Store Burns; Loss $50,000

Fire in Trucker's seed store, formerly Peacock's, at 4011 Milwaukee avenue, early this morning destroyed the building and its stock of seeds, bulbs, and flowers, causing a loss of $50,000. Fear that the flames would spread to adjoining structures caused the fire officials to send in a 4-11 alarm and the fire was soon brought under control.

Crown Prince Cleared of War Crime Accusations

LEIPZIG, Germany, April 19.—[United News.]—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm has been exonerated of the crimes he was alleged to have committed during the war. U. S. TAKES UP GETTELMAN DEFI

Sacramental Wine Is Not for Parties, He's Told.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 19.—The federal government will take action tomorrow to bring State Senator Bernard Gettelman to account for his Saturday night wine and cider party.

John B. Madden, federal dry chief for Wisconsin, who was informed yesterday by Senator Gettelman that the only liquor in his home was sacramenal wine and home made cider, asserted that the first move will be to decide whether or not the senator is entitled, as a member of a Jewish congregation, to obtain sacramental wine.

Plan to Call Rabbi.

If he is found to be a registered member of a congregation, the rabbi will be subpoenaed and forced to give an accounting of all wine dispensed to Senator Gettelman, Mr. Madden said. Regulations permitting the use of sacramental wine contain heavy penalties for its use for other than sacramental purposes.

Mr. Madden is planning to base the preliminary prosecution upon the invitation extended him by the senator to have a drink of sacramental wine. He takes the attitude that this indicates that the senator is not averse to the use of sacramental wine for other than religious purposes. A federal grand jury will convene on Wednesday, and it is probable that the prohibition office may ask the grand jurors to assist in the inquiry.

Gettelman Not Worried.

Senator Gettelman announced today he was pleased with the results of his party, and that he had won a victory for the workingman by proving that any person may manufacture wine in his home without fear of prosecution.

"I kidded the agents when they had the effrontery to come to my home without a warrant to test my liquor," he said. "Before they start any action against me they will have to prove I have sacramental wine in my home which I am not entitled to have. They will also have to prove that I used it illegally."

LONDON, April 19.—[United News.]—Native riflemen have brought a British bombing plane down in flames near the Syrian frontier, according to a dispatch from Bagdad. Two airmen were killed.

Youth Is Shot Dead by Friend Hunting Blackbirds

Peter Baron, 17 years old, 11715 Calumet avenue, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by his cousin, Christ Bosco, when they with other companions were shooting blackbirds at Parsons street and 135th street.

POLICEMAN, 23, NEW ON FORCE, IS SHOT DOWN

Danny Ryan, two months on the force and a fine strapping lad, did his duty last night, though it was his day off. He probably will pay with his life.

Two automobile thieves he encountered at Washington boulevard and Kedzie avenue as he was on his way to a dance answered his questions with bullets. They fled, leaving Ryan, who is only 23 years old, in the street with three bullets in his body.

Probationary Patrolman Ryan and his pal, John Glavin of 3118 Washington boulevard, saw two youths tampering with an automobile and started questioning them. After a word the suspects fired. At Robert Burns hospital it was said Ryan probably would die.

Early this morning Brandon Teahan, 16 years old, 3138 Walnut street, and Thomas Moore, 24, of 2643 Fulton street were taken into custody. Patrolman Glavin partially identified Teahan as one of the youths who shot Ryan.

Twenty-five Hurt When Street Cars Collide

Twenty-five men and women were hurt last night in a collision between two street cars at Lake and Halsted streets, none of them seriously. Five were taken to the county hospital for treatment of cuts received from flying glass. They are Mrs. Frank Osmasky, 2155 Cortez street; Andrem Sims, 2104 Park avenue; Mrs. Mary Ditroska, 2155 Cortez street; Effie King, 653 Liberty avenue, and Grace Lee, 2344 Fulton street.

COURT MARTIAL AVENGES BOMB VICTIMS' DEATH

Peasants Fleeing in Fear of Troops.

BULLETIN.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—King Boris today signed a decree substituting military courts for the ordinary tribunals, and all crimes against public order will be tried by them. Military courts already have sentenced a number of persons, most of whom are reported to have been summarily executed. There have been several sharp clashes between authorities and revolutionaries, both here and in the provinces.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, April 19.—[Ullstein.]—Secret headquarters of the communistic peasants and communists were discovered by the police in Sofia today. They show the communists planned to seize control of the government after the cathedral bomb outrage in which about 200 were killed. Even a list of new ministers was ready. According to the documents discovered, M. Oloff was to be premier and M. Bakaloff and M. Athanasoff were to be ministers. M. Oloff fled to Jugo-Slavia. The two others are in the hands of the police.

KING BORIS.
[U. & U. (C.) Photo.]

The censor controls every word sent from Sofia, and every person trying to leave Sofia is searched, but authentic news was obtained when four men arrived here today reporting that terror of the worst description reigns in Sofia. The court-martial is in permanent session, thousands are in jail, and 400 have been sentenced to death and executed.

Peasants Flee Before Troops.

Gen. Tzaroff directs the terror in Sofia. His cruelty is so terrible that many of his men not communists have rebelled, turning their sympathy to the communists. King Boris is closely guarded.

In the doorway of the cathedral the police yesterday morning found a placard:

"You will be drowned in blood as you drowned us in blood."

Travelers declare the peasants are flying before the military persecution, hiding in the mountains and forming bands under agitators, who excite them by claiming their old chief, M. Stamboulisky, is not really dead, but is about to reappear and take over the government.

Bury Bomb Victims.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 19.—[United News.]—Victims of the terrorists' bomb explosion in the Sveti Kral cathedral were buried today. Among the dead were seven children, one of them a 4 year old tot; nineteen women, thirteen generals, three members of parliament, eight colonels, and eight high civil officers.

SERBS MAY INTERVENE

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, April 19.—Bulgaria, through the intermediary of the interallied military control commission in Sofia, has demanded the council of ambassadors' permission further to increase its army to maintain order. It was recently permitted to enlist 3,000 more men.

The Tribune is informed that the Sofia government intimated to the interallied commission which is liquidating disarmament and demobilization in Bulgaria that it might be necessary to increase the military forces immediately, without waiting for the ambassadors' council to reply. This provoked a repercussion and the Jugo-Slav government already has served warning that any violation of the military clauses of the treaty of Neuilly, limiting Bulgaria's army to [illegible] men, will precipitate intervention.

Reports state that Jugo-Slavia already is taking measures to interfere forcefully if the Sofia government is unable to control the situation, and it is realized here that the Serbs will seize any excuse to deal with the Macedonian question through an occupation of the region if a pretext arises.

War Vet and Woman Slain by Husband

Raymond Buker, 25 years old, and his pretty sister-in-law, Mrs. Violet Raymond, 21, both of whom live at 440 North Albany avenue, were murdered yesterday afternoon.

The slain woman's husband, John Raymond, was arrested early this morning as he attempted to steal through a cordon of police into a flat at 3126 Jackson boulevard.

Says Buker Confessed.

He admitted his guilt and told a dramatic story of how he had become suspicious that Buker's relations with Mrs. Raymond had been more than brotherly.

Raymond seemed more concerned about the condition of his dying mother than he did over his double killing and his own predicament.

"The news of my arrest will end her life," he sobbed. "For God's sake don't tell her, boys," he pleaded with the detectives.

Story of the Slayer.

He said he had called at the Buker flat and had upbraided his wife with going out with other men. She asked him what difference it made to him with whom she went out.

"Then I lost all control of myself and shot her as she sat on a sofa. Buker rushed at me to seize my gun and I shot him twice. When he fell I turned and fired another bullet into Violet.

"It was my intention after I fled to commit suicide. I knew the police would be after me. I planned that when they approached I would shoot over their heads, knowing they would return the fire and kill me. I believed that to be a sure way to end it all, for I didn't have the nerve to kill myself."

Tap Telephone Wire.

Raymond was arrested after a long hunt when police tapped a telephone wire leading into the flat of Austin Fleming at the Jackson boulevard address. Fleming was known to be a close friend of Raymond. At midnight Raymond called Fleming and arranged to go to the Fleming flat.

Fleming was arrested as an accessory after the fact.

The bodies of the slain couple were found when Mrs. Buker returned from an automobile ride. The only witness to the tragedy was Robert, 3 year old son of the slain man.

Parted Nearly a Year.

The Raymonds had been married for two years and parted for nearly a year. Mrs. Raymond went to live with her sister, Mrs. Buker.

For some time Raymond had been attempting to effect a reconciliation.

About 2 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Buker went for an automobile drive with Mr. and Mrs. William Adams, 3265 Fulton street.

Goes to Her Defense.

Lieut. Hugh McCarthy of the detective bureau was not satisfied that Raymond's version of the killing was true in all details. He said there was evidence that Buker was smoking and reading in the parlor while Mrs. Raymond, in negligee, was ironing in the kitchen. He believes that Raymond entered by the rear door and started to fight with his wife.

Then, according to the police theory, Buker rushed to the defense of his sister-in-law, who by this time had fled into the parlor.

Raymond's first shot, the police say, pierced Buker's hand as he reached for the gun. The next felled him.

Then the crazed husband turned his revolver on his cowering wife and fired two shots, according to the reconstructed police picture.

All evening the police held to the theory that there were no illicit relations between the slain man and woman and even after Raymond told his story upon arrest they were inclined to believe that he planned the "ruined home" story to escape punishment for his crime.

TRANSIT FOES HIT BARR BILL AND DEVER, TOO

Antis Claim Only Public Mandate.

What is the Barr bill which proposes "terminable permits" for Chicago's traction lines?

Many politicians have been swift to denounce it. Traction, far from death in the recent election, has leaped to an even more violent prominence than it theretofore enjoyed.

Oscar Hewitt has prepared an article, presented below, endeavoring to describe the purposes of the "terminable permit." In the course of his investigations Mr. Hewitt found a general antagonism to the measure.

The antagonism itself has been examined with the result, presented as a preface to Mr. Hewitt's article, that even the antagonists are divided, declaring the fight private to themselves and no concern of other anti-terminablists.

There's to be a fight against the terminable permit bill introduced by Senator Richard J. Barr in the state legislature in an effort to solve the Chicago traction question.

BOETIUS H. SULLIVAN.
[(C) Paul Thompson]

But there is also to be a fight as to who is to make the fight and involved in it is a considerable amount of mayoralty politics. This became apparent yesterday when the organization which opposed the Dever traction ordinance at the polls—or at least that part of it which had no affiliations with the William Hale Thompson or the Lundin-Robertson organizations announced that it was going to lead the fight against the Barr bill. A statement by Boetius H. Sullivan, who financed the fight on the Dever ordinance, made it plain that it was to make this fight independently of what Mayor Dever or the city council was going to do in this direction.

Seek to Block Dever Renomination.

In other words Mr. Sullivan and his associates—formers Mayors Dunne and Harrison—didn't intend to allow the Dever crowd to make any political capital out of the opposition to the Barr bill which might make Dever an available candidate for renomination and reëlection in spite of the defeat of the Dever ordinance. If there was any political capital to be made they wanted it for their own camp and they set about getting it.

The city council is to hold a special session tomorrow and it is certain that action will be taken against the Barr bill. But whatever action is taken it is also certain that Mayor Dever and his friends will largely control it.

The anti-Dever leaders didn't propose to let the Deverites fire the first shot, so yesterday a meeting of the People's Traction league, the organization that opposed the Dever traction ordinance, was held at the Great Northern hotel. At this meeting a committee of nine was appointed to go to Springfield and oppose the bill.

Members of Committee.

Those named were:

Former Mayor Edward F. Dunne, chairman.
Boetius H. Sullivan, vice chairman.
Former Mayor Carter H. Harrison.
Miss Margaret Haley.
John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.
Tomaz Deuther.
Robert W. McKinlay.
Charles McGowan.

It was noticeable that no Thompsonites or Lundinites, who were prominent in the fight against the traction ordinance, were named on the committee.

In announcing its selection Mr. Sullivan said:

"The committee is going to protest against the Barr bill as representatives of the league and of the people of Chicago who voted to defeat the Dever plan."

FOES LACK PROGRAM

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

For the last two days The Tribune has solicited and published views on "the terminable permit" bill of Senator Richard J. Barr from persons whose position should make them the best informed on the subject. Without exception, every one was opposed to the bill. Without exception no one volunteered an opinion on "the terminable permit" idea, although the impression may have been conveyed that each one is opposed to the terminable permit principle.

Obviously, one reason for the introduction of the bill is because the public utilities have been unable to get the Chicago city council and public to do anything on franchise matters. The surface line officials and their bankers have said they cannot successfully finance on a franchise limited to twenty years.

Officially the city has accepted that view as correct, although no formal investigation has been made to determine its soundness. Years ago the city council, backed by the citizenry, asked the legislature for the law limiting franchises for street car companies to twenty years. It has not asked that the law be modified or repealed, so the city is not prepared to grant a franchise which can be financed; and has not been able to develop a municipal ownership scheme that is acceptable.

Utility Companies for Bill.

If adequate funds to make all necessary extensions can be obtained at a reasonable rate on a twenty year franchise, that reason for changing the law disappears. All of the large gas, electric, and street railway companies in Illinois take the oposite view. They are so certain of their position that they have lined up solidly for the Barr bill and have so announced.

There are states where franchises are limited to twenty years. That is the law in Illinois with reference to street railways, but not with regard to other utilities. The Kentucky constitution has a twenty year limitation. Nevada has a statute limiting street railways to twenty years in cities, although county officials can grant franchises for twenty-five years. South Dakota has a twenty year limitation, and there may be several other states in the same class.

Other states permit longer terms. On the face of the law, twenty-five years is permitted in Arizona, Iowa, Mississippi, Ohio, and Rhode Island.

Thirty years is the technical rule in Michigan and the law in Florida, Idaho, Alabama, and South Carolina. In Kansas thirty-five years is permissible. Sixty years is permitted in North Carolina.

What "Terminable Permit" Is.

Switching to "the terminable permit," which is usually called "an indeterminate franchise," it may be roughly defined as a privilege to operate during good behavior or until the utility is purchased by the city. The permit is terminable whenever the utility gives cause for revocation. If the utility respects the rights of its patrons, supplies satisfactory service at a price considered fair, it will continue to hold its permit, unless the city buys.

While all persons interviewed opposed the Barr bill, few students of franchises have criticized the principle underlying a terminable franchise.

Similar Laws in Minnesota.

Minnesota passed a terminable permit law applicable to telephone companies in 1915 and another applicable to street railways in 1921. Under the later act a company would surrender its existing franchise to the city clerk in the city where the line was operated, but the terms of the original franchise continue in effect.

Ohio adopted a number of so called home rule amendments to its constitution in 1912. The following year the Ohio legislature passed a terminable permit law, of which one section reads:

"Any such municipality may grant an indeterminate permit to any such public utility upon such terms and conditions as may be considered conducive to the public interests and as provided in this act."

Instead of shouting against it, most of the Chicago aldermen would fall all over themselves grabbing a terminable permit law of that kind. It is evident that all of the protests of Chicago officialdom to the Barr bill relate to the principle of home rule rather than to the principle of "terminable permits." The point of the protests lies in the fact that the Barr bill provides that the Illinois Commerce commission shall handle the permits, instead of the city council of Chicago.

Delos F. Wilcox, who was imported into Chicago last month to oppose the Dever ordinance, has expressed himself on the terminable permit as follows:

"I believe that the fundamental characteristic of a model franchise would be the terminable nature of the grant. . . . The form of the indeterminate franchise which I favor would permit the city at any time after a certain initial period to terminate the grant upon taking over the entire property of the company at a price to be determined by the cost of construction less the amount of amortization fund already accumulated."

BOOSTED BY BLACKHALL

J. R. Blackhall, general manager of the Chicago and Joliet Electric Railway company and chairman of the joint public policy committee of the Illinois Electric association, Illinois Gas association, and Illinois Electric Railways association, yesterday made the following statement relative to the terminable permit bill introduced in the senate last week with the backing of these organizations:

"I believe much of the criticism of the Barr terminable permit utility bill introduced in the senate last week is due to misunderstanding and fear that an effort is being made to put something over.

"The manner in which the bill was introduced should be sufficient guarantee that there is no attempt to take advantage. It is the desire of everyone interested in the measure that it shall have the fullest possible hearing and that opponents as well as proponents shall have every opportunity to present arguments.

"The bill is in line with the best thought of the day on public utility franchise legislation. Wisconsin has had a similar law since 1907, and Indiana, Minnesota, California, and several other states have terminable permit laws. The principle involved in this bill has been indorsed by the utility commissioners of the United States in a resolution adopted in 1922, and it is favored by bodies engaged in securing uniformity of legislation in the various states.

"If enacted into law the Barr bill would not curtail any existing power of the city to control the use of its streets by public utilities. Under the provisions of the act the terminable permit, if accepted by the public utility in place of the term franchise now held, or if embodied in a new franchise, would be subject to termination at any time, either for cause or by the city if it should elect to acquire ownership of the property. The utility must specifically recognize the right of the city to purchase.

Puts Utility on Good Behavior.

"The effect of the act is to put the public utility upon its good behavior. It has proved of great advantage in this respect in states where it has been in effect for years. It enables the utility to work out a sound financial policy, which is reflected in more efficient operation, and it preserves to the people the existing rights of contract as to franchise provisions, and in addition prepares the way for public ownership at any time they desire it.

"In all fairness, the effect of similar laws in other states and the full meaning of this bill should be studied before judgment is passed. Committee hearings in the legislature will afford ample opportunity for this study."

CORNER STONE OF $150,000 CHURCH IN BRYN MAWR IS LAID

THE REV. M. R. BOYNTON.

The Rev. M. Russell Boynton is pastor of the Bryn Mawr Community church which laid the corner stone of its new $150,000 building yesterday afternoon. Gale Blocki, chairman of the board of trustees, assisted in the ceremony. The church organization was formed ten years ago and has now a membership of 900, representing twenty different denominations. The campaign for funds for the completed building is headed by Ward S. Perry, chairman; H. S. Bicket, Gale Blocki, Cecil A. Evans, A. S. Irvine, Merril B. Johns, E. G. McDougall, and E. G. Seip. There is also a building committee of ten and twenty-seven team captains.

WEST SINGS HYMN OF HATE FOR OIL LAWS FROM EAST

Wheeler's Trial May Lead to Terrific Scandals.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Great Falls, Mont., April 19.—[Special.]—Underlying the case against Senator Burton K. Wheeler, which will enter its final phase tomorrow night, is an attack by the government against the time honored western practice of getting public oil land by hook or crook, ignoring and evading the regulations in the interests of big development projects.

SENATOR T. J. WALSH.

The oil and gas lands law are about as popular out here as prohibition, and quite as heartily winked at. The proceedings against Senator Wheeler and against his client, Gordon Campbell, who is regarded as one of Montana's great benefactors, are regarded with uneasiness.

Great Scandal Impending.

This uneasiness is felt in neighboring oil states, particularly the Salt Creek district of Wyoming, where Senator Thomas J. Walsh has threatened to begin an investigation as to how titles and control were obtained there. In that field, it is said, lies a greater scandal than Teapot Dome.

The western attitude toward the public land laws is that they are narrow and impossible of fulfillment if a state of small resources and light population is to get anywhere in opening new fields on a scale of millions.

Mr. Campbell goes to trial May 1 on a government mail fraud charge involving methods of title on land in his famous Sunburst-Kevin field, a development which has brought great prosperity to upper Montana, but little to him.

Prosperity Only in His Wake.

He is likely to walk out of this as he has out of other ventures in gold mines, in Devil's Basin, in Calgary, leaving millions to be fought over, but with a hole in his own pocket.

It is charged in this trial and in the other against Campbell that he has obtained title to vast acreages through dummies, through inducing persons to file and then sign blank assignments, and other well known loopholes.

"What of it?" says the west. "It has always been done."

So we will get something of a showdown in this matter as well as in the year old dispute as to whether the junior senator from Montana, campaigner with La Follette, prosecutor of Harry Daugherty, sold his influence as a senator for a legal fee, with the prospect of a fortune for himself.

The general impression among those who have watched the first three days of the trial is that the government attorneys have overshot the mark, that they are not proving what they said they would prove. Several witnesses, notably E. M. Harvey of Eugene, Ore., have failed to live up to the prospectus of their testimony outlined by District Attorney John L. Slattery.

Attorney Peter Q. Nyce of Washington arrived today. He is supposed to be the witness by whom the government hopes to prove its most sensational charge against Senator Wheeler, that he offered to split millions if somebody would perform certain services for Gordon Campbell before the department of the interior.

Denies Offer of Bribe.

"If they are expecting me to tell any such tale as that they are in for a big surprise," said Mr. Nyce.

"Wheeler never made any such proposition to me. I never talked with him but once. That had to do with the financial troubles of Gorden Campbell. It had been suggested that I might be able to get some one to help Campbell. As a result of that talk a telegram was sent to Campbell asking for a list of his properties.

ROBBED OF MONEY AND WATCH.

Two armed men held up Leslie Lytle, 2958 Fletcher street, and obtained $10 and a gold watch. The robbery occurred at Western avenue and Ohio street.

Large and Odd Sizes

We doubt if there is any place in America—we know there is no store in the Middle West—where one can see such a varied collection of Oriental Rugs in the large and odd sizes, usually so hard to find.

Yet, in spite of the very evident character of these pieces, comparisons will show they are priced less than is usual for rugs of this size and quality.

A few of them are mentioned:

Lilahan (24.6x14.10)....................$1500
Royal Kashan (23.3x11.10)................$2800

ECHO OF KAISER DAYS IN PARADE FOR HINDENBURG

Marchers Reviewed by German Candidate.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FIELD MARSHAL VON HINDENBURG.

HANOVER, Germany, April 19.—Following a busy day, marked by the review of thousands of paraders and a brief speech, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, candidate of the German nationalists for president in the election next Sunday, received a small group of newspaper men tonight.

"You will not expect many words from an old soldier," he declared. "I am not a militarist. I learned to know war in my youth and in my old age. I know its misery. I never wish to experience it again. Whoever charges to the contrary speaks calumny. I am also not a mass murderer as I am pictured. I have defended my fatherland. It is a well known fact that there is no guarantee of personal safety in war."

Gen. von Hindenburg's tone was convincing as he spoke. His eyes snapped when he referred to the charges made against him.

"I hope I have convinced you that I will not travel to Berlin in an invalid chair or on top of a cannon," he concluded.

Reviews His Followers.

HANOVER, Germany, April 19.—[By the Associated Press.] — Field Marshal von Hindenburg, dressed in his brilliant gala uniform, today reviewed a huge demonstration. With his left hand resting on the hilt of his sword and with his right hand frequently saluting as detachment after detachment marched past, the Nationalists' presidential candidate stood almost like a statue for ninety minutes.

During this time Hanover's sons and daughters, headed by the "Steel Helmets," made up of Nationalist youth and former service men's organizations, paid homage to the city's distinguished son. The rank and file of the people also marched, some in high silk hats and others in the plain clothes of the working class; some wheeling baby carriages, some riding bicycles, and some even hobbling on crutches.

Echoes of Ex-Kaiser's Days.

The field marshal, who has been so closely guarded since he was nominated for the post of chief executive that even introductions to him from near relatives were unavailing to obtain admission to his presence, was on exhibition today as a symbol of days gone by, but he was not forgotten by his Nationalist followers, who hailed him as "Der Retter" (the Saviour), as they passed in salute.

Echoes of imperial days were recalled not only by the general's uniform but also by the goose-stepping of his followers. "Eyes right" was the command as each detachment reached the Von Hindenburg villa, at the same time the legs of the marchers were thrown up in the manner habitual with the kaiser's guards in drawing up before the castle in Berlin.

Promptly at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon, when the first military band, followed by the "steel helmets," turned from a massmeeting in the park to a quiet Seelehorn street where Von Hindenburg resides, and where thousands of eager folk had been standing since 9 o'clock in the morning, the front door of the Hindenburg residence opened and the gaunt erect figure of the presidential candidate appeared. The field marshal was followed by his adjutant, Lt. Col. von Ineldmann. The adjutant was not in uniform.

Carry Monarchist Flag.

Except for a slight pallor which spread over his face as he confronted the crowd and a slight twitching of the muscles in his cheeks, nothing betrayed the emotion of the field marshal. With serious, impassive mein he stood and reviewed the paraders. Only three times did his face relax into a faint smile—once when a moving picture operator poked his camera straight at him, again when a group of trim girls in scout uniforms broke into a lusty cheer as they faced him, and when a woman in a shrill, high pitched voice shouted "Hoch Hindenburg."

As band after band played the Radetzky march, as "Deutschland Uber Alles" resounded in all keys, and as the black, white and red monarchist flag was dipped before him, and as he was cheered to the echo by the marchers, Von Hindenburg throughout the ninety minutes scarcely shifted his feet. He went through the ordeal far better than did his adjutant, who changed his position frequently and at times even stepped back into the house, leaving the field marshal quite alone.

The pallor observed at the beginning of the review, but which shortly afterwards gave place to a healthy color, returned toward the end and the field marshal gave indications that he was somewhat fatigued.

Hindenburg Tells Policies.

A place in the sun for Germany, restoration of her sovereignty and liberation from "odious domestic party politics which are hampering her internal recovery" are among the things Field Marshal Von Hindenburg purposes to attain in the event he is elected.

The field marshal denies that his candidacy is indicative of reactionary machinations or that it is aimed at the constitution, and denounces as mendacious the charge that his appearance as presidential candidate presages military reaction.

The first formal utterance by Gen. Von Hindenburg in the campaign was addressed today to a gathering of political leaders representing the Nationalist parties and German and foreign newspaper men. The newspaper men were requested to appreciate that the will for German unity as represented in the national bloc, did not concern party politics, but was a reflection of the wholesome spirit of nationalism.

Dodges Big Foreign Issues.

Von Hindenburg studiously avoided discussion of international problems, such as the security pact, the League of Nations and reparations, the only foreign issue referred to being the demand for the renunciation of the confession of war guilt, which he asserted was essential to the restoration of Germany's prestige abroad.

His initial utterances failed to set forth clearly a platform for the issues involved in the present campaign. He made only passing reference to Dr. Wilhelm Marx, candidate of the Weimar coalition, when he refuted the charge made by the republican parties that he was the symbol of reaction. He devoted most of his talk to a plea for unity in the ranks of the German people, without which he believed economic recovery and national reconstruction were impossible.

PIT DEALS MAY YIELD BIG SUM TO STATE SCHOOLS

Springfield, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—The state senate is expected to adopt a plan this week to take $5,00,000 a year from persons who play the board of trade and give it to the public schools of the state. The scheme was devised by Senator Kessinger [Aurora] and has been approved by the senate committee on agriculture.

Briefly, it provides a tax of one-thirty-second part of a cent for each bushel of grain sold for future delivery. It exempts farmers who sell grain they have grown.

The amount of grain sold for future delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade last year was as follows, for the principal grains, in bushels:

Grain.	Bushels.
Wheat	9,597,315,000
Corn	5,759,327,000
Oats	1,766,940,000
Rye	703,488,000
Total	17,827,070,000

The total for the same grains in 1923 was 13,930,551,000 bushels.

Legislators are uncertain what part of these sales would come under the Kessinger bill. If it is assumed that all of the 1924 sales would be subject to this proposed special tax, its amount would be in excess of $5,900,000.

FIND TEAMSTER WAS ALL TURNED AROUND INSIDE

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—A condition known virtually only to medical literature was made public today by Dr. Theodore L. Carriere, coroner's autopsy physician, who yesterday performed a postmortem of the body of a teamster killed when run over by the wheels of his wagon. In all of more than 3,000 operations he has performed, Dr. Carriere said he had never come upon it. Every organ was in reverse position of right to left and left to right from normal.

The condition was described in the autopsy report as "situs invertus viscera." Internally there was a lateral transposition of all the thoracic and abdominal viscera, the report stated.

FRANCE WILL GIVE VISA FREE IF U. S. WILL

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, April 19.—France will agree to abandon visa charges if the United States reciprocates, THE TRIBUNE was advised by an official spokesman today. Quai d'Orsay has not yet received Washington's proposals, but unofficial conversations have been going on for some time. The French are outspoken in their eagerness to eliminate the red tape in travel between countries.

"We were forced to adopt a $10 visa charge when the United States did, but we are anxious to abolish it and make traveling fast for tourists and business people," said a spokesman.

The Belgian government and Switzerland already have waived the necessity of a visa, and Spain and Italy are willing to make reciprocal arrangements with America.

POLICE ELATED OVER CAPTURE OF DARING THIEF

Three Wounded in Fierce Gun Battle.

Capture of Peter Molyn, dangerous burglar, in a fierce gun battle early yesterday morning, meant much to the police department. How much was expressed in the words of Acting Capt. James E. Doherty:

"Yes, it's a big relief to us all, but at what a cost! Three of the bravest policemen wounded."

More arrests followed the sensational battle of 1,000 shots at 2122 North Kedzie avenue. Considerable stolen property was recovered. Promotions and rewards appear to be in store for many of the city's bluecoats and plain clothes detectives.

Three Officers in Hospital.

It was something for the police department to be elated over, but there was Sergt. James J. Cunningham of the detective bureau in a critical condition at the Alexian Brothers hospital and Sergts. Peter Kennelly and David Fitzgerald suffering from minor wounds in another hospital.

Two hundred policemen fired into the third floor apartment. Seventeen tear gas bombs were hurled through the windows broken by revolver bullets and shotgun shells. Detective Capt. John Stege went up the stairs unarmed to negotiate the surrender of the burglar who chose to die fighting.

Captain Tells About It.

Capt. Patrick Harding, in command of the Shakespeare avenue district, who was away Saturday night, but who hastened back yesterday, told the complete story in the simple unaffected language of a policeman used to encounters of this sort.

"That fellow Molyn, alias Podolski, has been prowling homes on the northwest side for more than a year," he began. "He was the terror of this vicinity. At one time I had every man in my command in plain clothes in the hopes of getting him. He seemed to sense the trap and kept low for a while.

"Then he was captured in Austin but he forfeited $45,000 bonds and resumed his prowling. A month ago he shot Policeman Mike Hickey, who wounded him in return. That was notice he might not be taken alive.

Pair Enter Building.

"Two weeks ago Sergt. Michael Furlong told me he had a line on Molyn. He said he frequently visited the janitor in the basement of 2122 North Kedzie avenue. He and his partner, Sergt. James Curran, have kept watch of the place ever since. They had a plant in a basement across the courtyard.

"Last night Sergt. Kennelly, who is in charge of the detectives, was seated in an automobile in front of the house. A big fellow came along carrying a suitcase. It was Nick Slocum, a burglar with a record here and in the east. Molyn was following, about 100 feet behind, ready to kill any policeman who stopped Slocum.

"Before Kennelly could get out of the automobile they entered the flat of the janitor, John Socinic. Kennelly summoned Mike and Jim and stationed them in the rear. He called the station to get help.

Flivver Rushes to Scene.

"Sergts. Dave Fitzgerald and John Finn were pulling a box nearby and they were sent there in a hurry. Acting Capt. Doherty summoned the flivver squad and rushed to the house.

"Molyn suspected he was in a trap. He probably looked out and saw the policemen congregating. The janitor opened the door and peered out. Kennelly grabbed him and pulled him out. Mrs. Socinic was cutting meat and she came to the door with a butcher knife. She was pulled out.

"Red (Slocum) and Molyn started out the back way. Red was first. They stuck him up, but Pete ran up the stairs, shooting back as he ran. He rapped at the door on the second floor and Mrs. Robert Lack, who was home with only her two children, opened it. Pete forced his way in and relocked the door.

Two Are Shot.

"Kennelly saw a telephone and started for it to call for more men. Finn yelled to him to duck. He did as he was passing the door and just in time. A bullet struck him in the back of the neck, one-eighth of an inch from his spinal column. At the same time Fitzgerald was shot.

Policemen Ernest Djupman and Frank Dubec were coming up the front stairs. Kenelly, Fitzgerald and Finn emptied their guns at Pete. Djupman and Dubec fired at him as he went up the stairs to the third floor where there was a vacant apartment.

"Acting Capt. Doherty arrived then and sent the wounded men to the hospital. Then he telephoned the detective bureau for tear gas bombs. Chief William Shoemaker and Detective Capt. John Stege and several squads were immediately on the way.

Bandit Himself Wounded.

"For three hours the siege lasted. Sergt. Cunningham was shot by a bullet coming through the floor, Pete firing down at him. The shotguns were being used to break windows in the apartment so the bombs could be thrown in. Riflemen and the best revolver shots were on nearby roof tops, trying for a shot at him. Others were firing down through the skylight.

Pete was wounded, perhaps by Kenelly, Finn and Fitzgerald or by Djupman and Dubec. Sergt. Tom Alcock thinks one of his shots hit Pete. Pete was lying on the floor, a handkerchief stuffed in his mouth and he was seeking the unpoisoned air. His Leuger gun jammed.

Capt. Stege braved the danger and called to Pete to surrender. He promised Pete he would not be killed. As proof of his good faith he went up the stairs unarmed to meet Pete at the door.

Four Take Part in Capture.

"Lieut. John Egan took a chance and went up, too. So did Sergt. James Shea and Dubec. The four of them participated in the capture."

Mrs. Socinic admitted she had been Molyn's sweetheart and had accompanied him to many places. She revealed a cache at 1024 West Erie street where $10,000 in property was recovered. Ray Slocum, brother of Nick, and his wife were arrested there. Joseph Branea, a boarder, was taken along by the police.

BURGLAR KILLS WOMAN AS HER CHILDREN WATCH

A burglar, battling his way to freedom early yesterday morning after he had been discovered in the flat of Anthony Bartucci, 308 East 38th street, suddenly turned and found Bartucci's mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Console, 44 years old, barring his only means of egress.

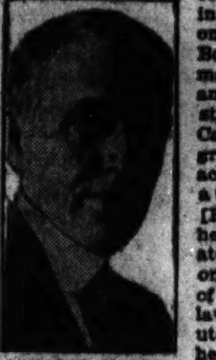
He turned, aimed his gun carefully, and shot her between the eyes. Mrs. Console died instantly. The burglar fled.

Bartucci was awakened when he heard groping fingers ransacking the top of his bedroom dresser. Silently he pulled his revolver from under a pillow and fired at the shadow across the room.

The burglar promptly dived behind some furniture and returned the fire. More than thirty shots were fired as the robber, taking advantage of shelter behind the furniture, slowly backed out of the room and toward the front door of the flat.

WHEAT DEALS ON CHICAGO BOARD ROUSE CAPPER

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]



SENATOR CAPPER

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Investigations of causes for recent fluctuations in prices of wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade may result in amendments to strengthen the Capper - Tincher grain futures act, according to Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.], head of the senate farm bloc and one of the authors of the law. The law is on the statute books to stay, he asserts.

In a statement dealing with the wheat price situation Senator Capper declares that the Chicago Board of Trade always had the power to prevent manipulation of the grain market, but has refused to exercise this power, and in consequence has been forced to submit to federal regulation.

Senator Capper suggests that Secretary of Agriculture Jardine might be justified in going to the extreme of canceling the trading privilege as a contract market of any grain exchange found guilty of not enforcing rules to prevent market manipulation.

"Wheat has been running wild on the Chicago Board of Trade, as it used to do in the days before there was a grain futures act," said Senator Capper. "That seems to be the only word for it. No one can imagine the deliberate law of supply and demand yanking down prices 22 cents in twenty-four hours, nor 51 cents in fifteen days. It has every appearance of a manipulated market.

"Under the anti-grain gambling law, artificial manipulation of wheat prices is a penitentiary offense. Another remedy would be to cancel the trading privilege as a 'contract market' of any grain exchange found not to have enforced the rules for the prevention of illegal trading.

ROSENTHAL'S RESTAURANT

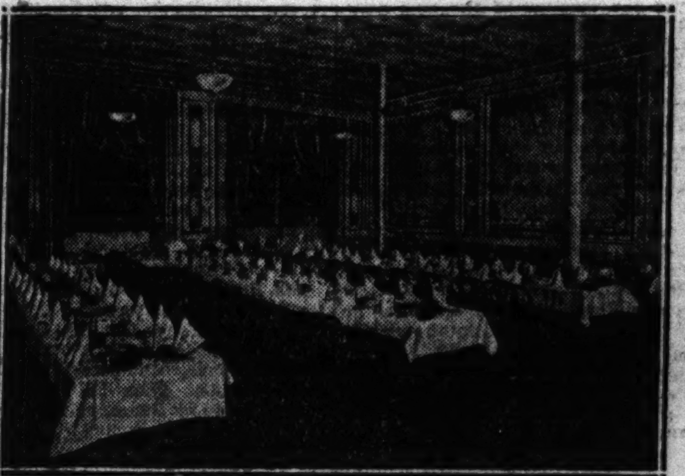
105 W. MADISON ST. 2ND FLOOR.

8,000 New Customers in 8 Days

We believe this is a record for any restaurant in Chicago. During the Jewish Passover holidays more than 8,000 new customers discovered the joys of a delicious Rosenthal meal.

The reason for this popularity lies in the fact that nowhere else in Chicago can you obtain the kind of Jewish home-like cooking and appetizing food that Rosenthal serves.

Many years of catering to fastidious eaters of all races has put into Rosenthal cooking a zest and tastiness that cannot be equaled.



Our New Dining Room

Added to Rosenthal's capacity, made necessary by increased popularity. Available for banquets, dinners and special parties. Make reservations over the phone, or call in person for inspection.

MIDGET BANDIT IDENTIFIED BY DOZEN VICTIMS

Eight Charges of Bank Robbery Promised.

Fifty victims of bank robberies yesterday viewed Henry J. Fernekes, diminutive bank robber, and a dozen of them picked him out from among five men as the one who, carrying revolvers and shotguns, led his band of highwaymen into the institutions where they are officers or employés.

The identifications were made at the Filmore avenue police station. Fernekes and the four others were led in and stood on one side of the room while the victims looked them over from the other side, under the direction of Chief of Detectives William H. Schoemaker.

After the so-called show up Chief Schoemaker said eight charges of bank robbery will be lodged against Fernekes as the result of it. He added that employés of more banks will be asked whether they can identify him today.

These Who Identified Him.

The officers and employés of banks who pointed the suave young highwayman out and told how he robbed them are:

Charles G. Wolf and Rose Juerne of the Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park, robbed of $8,000 on Nov. 22, 1924; Arthur Tuscheck and Agnes B. Gray of the Brookfield State bank, robbed of $28,212 on Dec. 30, 1924; Harry Bigones and Marie Heiman of the Inland Trust and Savings bank robbed of $4,000 on Aug. 22, 1924, and Kenneth Darrow of the Prairie State bank, 11 West Madison street, Oak Park, robbed of $3,281 Feb. 3 of this year.

Called Desperate Criminal.

Fernekes was captured on Saturday by Detectives Michael P. Naughton, George Barker, and Arthur Murphy. They took him after a struggle in the Crerar library, where they had received a tip he might be found. Fernekes, the police say, is, despite his suave and smiling manner, one of the most desperate criminals in the country. He is alleged to have killed four men in his time, two of them being Pennsylvania state troopers and two others, bank employés of Pearl River, N. Y. Chicago police had been searching for him for four years.

Shot Twice While Seated in Automobile

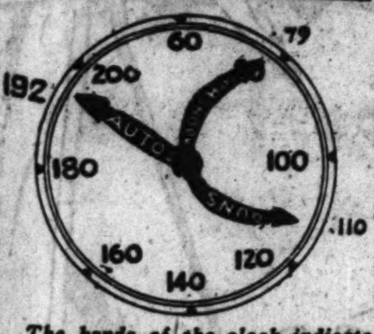
Otto Binder, 26 years old, 2216 West Taylor street, was shot twice in the left arm by an unidentified assailant who fired five shots at him as he sat in his automobile in front of his home last night. Binder was taken to the County hospital and questioned by police. The victim declared he did not recognise the man, nor did he know of any reason why any one should want to kill him.

SLAIN BY AUTOS

STEPHEN O'MARA. GERTRUDE ANDREWS.

Among Saturday's auto victims were Gertrude Andrews, 9 years old, 3535 North Ashland avenue, and Stephen O'Mara, 17, 7732 South Sangamon street.

HANDS OF DEATH



The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1. Yesterday was the one hundred and ninth day of 1925.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASHES, BUT NONE DIES

Sunday, usually filled with auto accidents, passed yesterday without a death and with only two persons hurt.

One was the Rev. William J. Gavin, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, who was seriously hurt when a cab he was riding in crashed into a street car at Ogden and Grand avenues. Father Gavin suffered internal injuries and severe bruises.

Angelino Ansianno, 3011 North Oakley avenue, was slightly hurt when his car crashed into a post at North Wells and West South Water streets.

John Pastinoski, 28 years old, 2536 North Ashland avenue, and his brother, Edward, 21 years old, were severely injured when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a Fullerton avenue car at Leavitt street. Both were taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital.

Break Up Party and Shoot Guest in Leg

FIVE IN FAMILY KILLED IN AUTO BY INTERURBAN

Sixth Is Probably Fatally Hurt on Crossing.

Anderson, Ind., April 19.—[Special.]—Five persons of one family were killed and the sixth probably fatally injured when an automobile was struck by an interurban train on the Union Traction line near Ingalls, ten miles southwest of Anderson, today.

The dead are Mary Cottey, 28, wife of Ralph Cottey, 2318 North La Salle street, Indianapolis; her children, Jennie, 8; Dorothy, 6; Ralph Jr., 3, and Lincoln Cottey, 63, her father-in-law.

The car, driven by Ralph Cottey, was within a hundred yards of the Valentine family home, near Ingalls, where they were to call, when the collision happened at a grade crossing. Cottey, with one hip broken and other injuries, was taken to a hospital at Indianapolis

Admiral Sims to Speak at Milwaukee Legion Dinner

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, will be the guest of honor at the sixth annual birthday dinner of the Alonzo Cudworth post of the American Legion next Thursday evening at Gimbel's Grill, Milwaukee. Admiral Sims will speak on "Preparedness and the Importance of the Submarine and Airplane in Our National Defense."

FIGHT MEASURE TO MAKE COOKS LEARN COOKING

State Legislators Hear Kicks Today.

In room 1030 of the county building this morning five state representatives will line up on one side of the table. They will be Schnackenberg, L. O'N. Browne, La Porte, Thon and O'Toole.

REP. THEODORE D. SMITH.

Opposite will line up another set of men, to wit: Frank Sokolovsky, Nemo Spiropoulos, Nick Stamatapalous, Steve Stathopolous, George Stavropolos, Peter Pappadopolous and others.

Between the two lines will be the gage of war—a house bill by Representative Theodore D. Smith of the Thirteenth district. The bill provides restrictions in the education and subsequent kitchen deportment of restaurant cooks. Among other things, the bill allows that a cook should know as much about his gastronomic trade as a plumber does about installing a bathtub.

Leading Hotels for Measure.

Leading hotels and cafés are for the measure. They like the sanitation features provided, especially that which requires the chef to wash his hands occasionally. But the others are vociferously opposed and will say so at today's committee hearing.

Witness Nick Stamatapolous, interviewed yesterday in his cafe at 2009 West Roosevelt road.

"The foolishest law ever thought up in Illinois," he shouted. "The law should say how we train our cooks! It's none of the business of the state of Illinois how I run my kitchen. That's my business and if my customers like my food what business have the politicians sticking their noses in my kitchen?"

There was no answer.

Leave It to Customers, His Idea.

"Who should tell me how to have my eggs fried and what cook shall do it?" demanded Perikles Papadopolous, 181 East Pershing road. "If my customers like my food they come—if not, not. Laws about my cooks? I'm against them."

Representative Smith last night explained the present system of manufacturing cooks from raw material.

Two weeks after a young man has finished tending grapevines on a sunny hill overlooking the sparkling Mediterranean he lands in the kitchen of a Chicago restaurant.

There he laves dishes for a space, propped up on the sink a locally printed textbook for beginning cooks. And while he bathes the crockery he studies the technique of frying two over hard. A week of earnest study while our hero earns a living erasing thumbmarks from the coffee cups and he's ready to start on a giddy career as a chef.

Woman Passenger Shoots Cab Driver in Argument

A colored woman who hired the cab of Robert L. Harris, 30, 4935 Champlain avenue, colored, yesterday, shot him in the back five times following an argument. Harris may die at the County hospital. Police are looking for the woman.

WOMAN'S FAIR TODAY HONORS STAGE QUEENS

Opens Real Exposition of Feminine Doings.

Today has been set aside for the pioneer profession of woman—that of the stage—at the Woman's World's Fair, which this morning opens upon a week of color and feminine exposition at the Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive.

The official opening Saturday was the prelude of the week that starts today, in which every occupation and interest of woman will be presented for the world to see and meditate upon.

Star Actresses Today's Guests.

At the fair today the guests of honor will be the woman stars from the plays now running in Chicago—Miss Katherine Cornell, from "The Green Hat"; Miss Queenie Smith, from "Be Yourself"; Miss Madge Kennedy and Miss Pauline Armitage, from "Badges"; Miss Olga Cook and Miss Josephine Adair, from "The Student Prince," and Dorothy Stone, Fred Stone's daughter-partner in "Stepping Stones"; Miss Myrtle Shaaf of "Rose Marie," and Miss Clara Moors and Miss Minna Combell of "Cobra."

Tomorrow is cooks' day. The chefs from the city's best hotels will show their faces and even discuss the secrets of their own particular, famous dishes.

Gov. Ross Here Thursday.

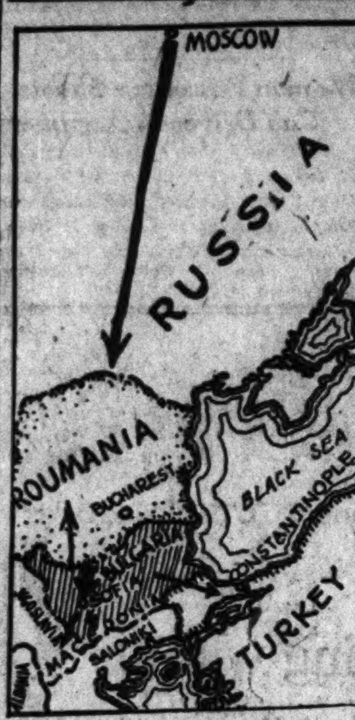
Women's clubs day, Wednesday, will draw to Chicago delegations from the largest women's clubs in the middle west. Thursday is famous women's day when Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman governor, will come from Wyoming to be guest of honor at a luncheon at the fair, which will be attended by a score of the best known women in Chicago.

Friday is girls' day and Saturday will be dedicated to Vice President Dawes. The Vice President will open the closing afternoon of the fair.

BABY DIES OF BURNS.

Burns received April 17 when he upset a boiler of hot water yesterday caused the death of Orlando De Letta, 2, in his home at 1323 Arthington street. An inquest will be held this morning.

THE RED FINGER



The Bulgarian government charges the Sofia cathedral bombing plot, which cost 200 or more lives, was carried out on orders from the Third Internationale at Moscow, and was supposed to be the signal for a communist revolt, which would make Bulgaria a soviet state. Dispatches from other European capitals indicate the Russian bolsheviks hope to use Bulgaria as an entering wedge in the sovietizing of Roumania, Jugo-Slavia, Macedonia, and perhaps the rest of Greece, and finally Turkey.

American Girl Flies Like an Ace, French Pilots Say

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, April 19.—Ruth Nichols, American aviatrix, flew from London to Paris today, and then piloted several big French army bombing planes at Lebourget. French officers and war pilots accompanying Miss Nichols on the flight said that the girl handled the planes like an ace. This was the first time a foreign woman has ever been allowed to maneuver military machines in France.

ALCOHOLISM BLAMED FOR DEATH.

Alcoholism is believed to have caused the death of August Arendt, 54 years old, 815 North Kilbourn avenue, who was found dead in his home with a half empty bottle of moonshine beside him.

JACKIE COOGAN, GOLF CHAMPION, VISITS CHICAGO

One J. Coogan, sporting gentleman, juvenile golf champion of the Del Monte country club, Los Angeles, spent a few hours in Chicago yesterday, on his way to New York.

Now there were a few dozen of people, quite a crowd in fact, who watched the young sportsman pass through the Dearborn street railroad station, who cheered and hallooed at him, under the fond delusion that they were cheering their own Jackie Coogan, film actor. But the estimable Coogan knew better, though he smiled and bowed and grinned at the deluded film fans and let them stay happy in their mistake.

Interest in Films Wanes.

For it seems from a short conversation with Mr. Coogan that golf this spring has become a surpassing and absorbing interest and the fact that he is the most popular juvenile star in filmdom doesn't mean a hundredth as much as the fact that he's beaten all the kids on the Del Monte golf course.

The minute he reached the suite at the Hotel Sherman set aside for him and his father, John Coogan, and their usual camp followers of business agents, bookkeepers, valets, publicity men and what you will, Jackie Coogan dragged out his golf clubs to show Frank Bering, an old family friend, what a swing he has developed this winter. Golf was almost the entire subject of Jackie's conversation.

Press Agents His Hobbies.

When young Coogan has a new hobby everyone knows about it. Last year it was a little motion picture camera—and every one, cab driver or bank president, who crossed Jackie's path, was bombarded with information about cameras. This year it is golf that absorbs the Coogan interest.

A report was circulated recently that Jackie is to leave the films, go to school and prepare for a business career. No direct answer was given to this yesterday, but one member of the party indignantly declared that such a course would be folly.

"His father did have some such a fool notion—but do you think he'll be able to put it across with that child's European rights alone running more than $200,000 this year?"

Cooper Succeeds Martin as A. P. General Manager

New York, April 19.—Frank B. Noyes, president of The Associated Press, today announced that the board of directors had appointed Kent Cooper general manager. He will succeed Frederick Roy Martin, whose resignation, offered some time ago, takes effect within a few days.

"You, too, can possess such beauty as this"
—Charlie White

I have discovered a new 20th century method that has been tried and proven successful in making women beautiful. Hundreds of discouraged women have taken advantage of my scientific system for adding grace to the appearance and restoring a youthful figure. Nineteen years' of personal experience in common-sense body culture has given me expert knowledge as to how to remove surplus fat or develop any part of the body, quickly and easily. I give personal attention to every patient, then turn them over to a woman attendant who gives proper care, bath and a scientific massage. A trial treatment will convince you.

PORTUGAL PUTS DOWN REVOLT; LEADERS IN JAIL

Many Dead, Hundreds Hurt in Street Battles.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LISBON, April 19.—Fifteen dead and 200 wounded compose the total casualties of the Lisbon revolution. The revolution is now ended.

LISBON, Portugal, April 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—After violent fighting throughout Saturday night the rebellious troops surrendered this morning. There were many casualties during the fighting.

The latest revolution was short lived. It sprang into being Saturday morning, and after violent fighting throughout the night the rebellious troops gave up their arms this morning and were confined in barracks.

Estimates of the casualties vary, but all agree that they were comparatively high. There are many dead, and the wounded are reported at "some hundreds."

The actual revolt was under the leadership of Maj. Filomeno Camara, who was supported by cavalry, artillery, and infantry several hundred strong. Maj. Camara's first act was to overthrow the Directory, the governing body, and to arrest a number of officials.

President Hides in Barracks.

President Teixeira Gomes and some of the ministers took refuge in the main barracks and shortly afterwards loyal troops surrounded the rebels at their meeting place, the Paco da Rotondo.

In the meantime serious disturbances occurred in various parts of the city, where bombs were thrown and many persons were killed.

The actual leader of the movement is believed to have been former Premier Cunha Leal. He now is a prisoner in the Carmo barracks of the republican guard. Another of the leaders arrested was the head of the Nationalists.

Not long after the revolt broke out on Saturday loyal troops had drawn a cordon around the revolutionary headquarters, cutting off reinforcements from the outside. At 3 p. m. yesterday troops opened fire on the revolutionists and dropped large quantities of shrapnel into their stronghold. After all night fighting the rebels hoisted the white flag.

General Made Prisoner.

They explained later that they were unable to offer further resistance through lack of ammunition. Many of the revolutionaries were killed or wounded and Gen. Sinel Cordes was taken prisoner.

Commander Camara and Col. Esteves, another leader of the military movement, were arrested today on board the warship Vasco da Gama.

A government announcement says that the revolutionaries had planned to place Cordes at the head of their ministry. A few of those most prominently concerned in the movement have taken refuge in the Spanish legation.

FIELD MUSEUM PARTY NOW IN BANDITS' LANDS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

KALGAN, April 19.—A Mongol courier arriving here today reports that the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History and the Field Museum of Chicago has negotiated the pass safely and probably is passing through the bandit-ridden region now. The courier brings word that Norman Lovell will return to Kalgan alone a week hence with an automobile in which to convey Dr. Charles Brakey, geologist from Columbia university, whose illness abated today, and Surgeon Harold Loucks, who remained to attend him. These will overtake the main party about four hundred miles on the desert, but, being only three, will run a great risk of bandits.

The Christian general, Feng Yu-Hsiang, told THE TRIBUNE today that he had sent five motors loaded with soldiers, hoping to disperse the bandits.

"Owing to the scattering of the main band through the release of the Belgian priest, the bandits now are composed of numerous groups of fifty and upwards, all well armed," said Gen. Feng.

Roy Chapman Andrews, the leader of the expedition, and the rest all wore pistols, with fifty rounds of ammunition.

THE NAYS HAVE HAD IT LONG ENOUGH.

Senator Barr's "terminable permit" measure, under which our local traction utilities could be given a new lease of life during good behavior, has raised an immediate opposition on the ostensible grounds that it is a violation of the principle of home rule. The chief opponents are those who led the attack on the Dever ordinance, now joined by Mr. Dever himself.

We favor the principle of home rule and we are not yet able to express a considered opinion on Senator Barr's measure. The plan of indefinite terminable franchises is not novel and is said to work satisfactorily in some cases. As for condemning the measure on the home rule argument, that would seem premature, unless it cannot be amended to provide for home rule. But even if it cannot be, has the handling of its traction problem by this community been such a success that we ought to go into the trenches to fight, bleed and die for that principle?

We see no cause for enthusiasm over our home management of traction. For ten years and more we have been trying to settle our local transportation problem and the net result is one of the worst traction situations—in fact, the worst—in the country. We have gone from bad to worse under our home rule until our predicament has reached the threshold of disaster to the city's welfare. And we have just added to our record by refusing to accept a plan worked out with the greatest care and vouched for by men whose honesty and public spirit cannot be fairly challenged.

The defeat of the Dever ordinance by the voters was the natural result of submitting to them a project of great complexity which only a relatively small number of citizens could thoroughly grasp and evaluate. An earnest effort was made to explain the ordinance and its workings to the public, but it was virtually impossible to do so. The average man or woman could not be certain in a field which required experience and considerable knowledge of law, engineering, and finance, and therefore the average man or woman could be turned against it by any vociferous charge of fraud. The ordinance was not defeated on its demerits. It was defeated by claptrap and by vague fears and prejudices. This is making the referendum a public nuisance. It is a handy weapon of the demagogue in cases in which the problem is one of complicated and special knowledge.

Presumably we believe in representative government, but if we are not competent to select representatives we can trust, we are not competent for any form of self-government. We ought to be able to choose men we can rely upon to solve complicated public problems which the mass of voters have neither the time nor special training to solve. But in the case of the Dever ordinance a large majority of the citizens who voted turned their backs on the advice and assurances of men of known probity and competence to follow a group of leaders who had proved their inability or unwillingness to solve the traction problem. If a settlement on simpler lines could have been presented, the result might have been different, but with the Dever ordinance referendum the advantage was all with the obstructionist who could awaken vague fears and the loud mouthed politician who could best inflame prejudice. That is making a farce of self-government or home rule.

At any rate, here we are in the political bog where we have been floundering for over a decade. Day by day the city's predicament gets worse. The Dever ordinance, which promised the beginning of a new era and immediate stimulation of the city's energies, more work, more wages, more means of transportation—things both desirable and within reach—was defeated by men whose actual record of futility and obstruction ought to have warned the people to ignore their windy incompetence. Now Senator Barr tries his hand at a simpler plan and again we have a chorus of Noes.

The net result of the new crusade against action will be, we suppose, no action. But if the people of this city have not taken leave of their common sense they will wake up to the fact that ten years of howling No has got them not an ounce of relief and that if they are ever to get any—in fact, if they are not to get deeper into our present mess—they must say Yes to some proposition that will work. So far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned, it believes the condition our traction affairs are in is so dangerous to the city's future and so unnecessarily intolerable that virtually any plan for action that will insure action ought to be adopted. It is no longer a question of an ideal plan, or even the best plan. It is a question of almost any plan we can get that will work, and of putting that plan to work at once.

BRISBANE IS RIGHT: WISCONSIN IS WRONG.

The daily column of editorial contemplation and comment prepared by Mr. Arthur Brisbane of the Hearst newspapers has discovered that the state of Wisconsin has some weird laws of taxation and paternalism. He finds that some "well meaning enthusiasts" are planning to "put all the load of taxation on backs able to bear it." He warns against the tendency, and cites sad examples in a few paragraphs published in our "Editorial of the Day" department.

Although we do not always agree with Mr. Brisbane, we do so in this case. Or rather, he agrees with us. We made the same comment some two years or so ago.

It is true, as he says, that some large manufacturing concerns have already moved out of Wisconsin because of the state government's theory and practice of taxation and paternalism. It is true that others are planning to move out. It is true, further, that some which might otherwise move in are refusing to consider it because of the theories of taxation and paternalism practiced by the Wisconsin state government.

On that point we speak advisedly. "Liberty," owned and published by the owners of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is already making a tentative search for a suitable site for what will be one of the largest printing and publishing plants, if not the largest, in the world. Its location will depend upon labor and living conditions, housing, transportation facilities, geographical position with reference to national population, and other things, including state laws and reputations with reference to taxation and paternalism.

The site chosen may be outside Chicago. It will not be in Wisconsin, although Wisconsin has many advantages, including its position on one of the great lakes, its excellent railroad services, its proximity to Chicago, and so forth. We have made some investigation of Wisconsin tax laws and paternalism. Mr. Brisbane also knows whereof he speaks. He owns some newspaper property in Milwaukee. His gentle rebuke to the "well meaning enthusiasts" is sound.

THE DOCTRINE OF CRIMINAL IRRESPONSIBILITY.

Perhaps we ought to be thankful that the jury in the Munding murder trial did not bring in a verdict of not guilty. So many tears were shed by the defendant and his counsel that they might have floated the murderer of Julia Douglas free. The punishment assigned—22 years, which by reduction for good behavior will be 13 years net—seems to our doubtless old fashioned sense of justice and public interest inadequate for the murderous destruction of a human life. But the community can be grateful to the jury for not succumbing completely to the eloquence of the most successful defender of criminals in the country or getting altogether entangled in his sophistries.

What happens to Munding, who after all only killed one woman because he was jealous, is, however, of less moment to us than the philosophy of moral irresponsibility of which Mr. Darrow is so conspicuous a preacher in courts and out of them. For we can be certain that no society could absorb much of it and survive.

Mr. Darrow's philosophy is less a philosophy than a disease. "Life at its best is dreary," he told the jury in the Munding case. Tell that to any healthy man or woman. It is not so dreary that Mr. Darrow is not frequently employed in saving clients from being relieved of it. Yet Mr. Darrow has a right to his opinion of the inveterate evil of existence, which greater men have held before him. Our objection to his influence is to his doctrine of irresponsibility. None of us, he holds, is justly amenable to punishment under the law because none of us is responsible for his actions. The will we imagine we have is merely the agency of our heredity and our environment. "Picture this poor man" [Munding], said Mr. Darrow to the jury, "as one adrift in a rowboat on the sea of elemental emotion. The sea overwhelmed him, as it has overwhelmed many another, and he sank. He was a poor, helpless victim of environment and heredity and the passion that has driven men mad since Cleopatra's day." Therefore, according to Mr. Darrow, he is not to be held accountable for the indulgence of his passion. There is no such thing as choice or will and there can be no responsibility and therefore no punishment for the acts which our heredity, our environment and our innate passions and appetites, if they are innate, produce.

No race can take that philosophy into its system and not be poisoned by it into degeneration and destruction. No society can act upon it and survive. Mr. Darrow talks about humanity and mercy, but there could be nothing more merciless and inhumane than the sway of unrebuked appetite and unchecked impulse which his ethics condone and encourage. There could be nothing less humane and merciful to the individual than to tell him he need not try to control himself because he is a poor helpless victim of environment and heredity, an innocent in a rowboat on a sea of elemental emotion.

Mr. Darrow asserted that Munding would not kill again. Why not, if he was a helpless victim when he killed his paramour? Why should not any culprit whom Mr. Darrow extricates completely kill again? They are still helpless victims of their environment and heredity, afloat still on the same sea of elemental emotions which overwhelmed them before.

It is said criminals have childlike minds. It is impossible, we believe, to bring up children into decent adults without punishing them when they do wrong. In other words, punishment is a deterrent of violence and criminality and a necessary safeguard in civilized society. We may some day attain a knowledge and control which will prevent crime, but we are a long way from that yet, and we shall not arrive by denying human responsibility. That is a good way to increase crime by withdrawing what checks we now have upon it.

Editorial of the Day

BRISBANE ON WISCONSIN TAXES.

[Chicago Herald and Examiner.]

The state of Wisconsin, especially its skilled mechanics and farmers, should take an interest in taxation.

Well-meaning enthusiasts plan to "put all the load of taxation on backs able to bear it."

Their idea is to make big industries and big merchants pay all the taxes, double the inheritance tax, provide a big fund to pay wages to all unemployed, etc.

That sounds interesting, but the plan as outlined will drive industries across the Wisconsin line into Illinois and other states. The Johns-Manville company, Palm Olive Soap and the great Simmons furniture concern have moved out of Wisconsin already.

Two more of the biggest concerns in Wisconsin now plan to move out. If employers move, of course the workers will follow, for they can't live forever on the unemployment allowance.

If the workers go, who will buy the stuff produced by farmers?

It is possible to overdo taxation no matter how virtuous your intention.

THE SMOKY VILLAGE.

Grafton, W. Va., is a small railroad town. Four or five divisions of the B. & O. railroad meet at that point and shops, roundhouses, and freight yards are much in evidence. It is the coming together of several narrow valleys in this mountainous country that makes Grafton the point of meeting of so many railroads. The configuration of these hills and valleys is also responsible for much of Grafton's smoke problem. At times the sun in the surrounding hills causes the valley to act as a chimney through which the smoke is drawn away. At other times the hills serve as traps to hold the polluted air in the valley. Because the air contains so much smoke and water and because of the chilling effects of the cold ground, fogs are of frequent occurrence. There are only 10,000 people in Grafton and the loss from smoke is estimated at one-third of a million dollars. I do not know what is the amount of total taxes paid, but it is probably less than the cost of smoke.

This estimate of the cost of smoke was made by Mr. Monett for the United States bureau of mines. He thinks it conservative. He bases it on such items as laundry, extra cost of cleaning carpets and rugs, extra depreciation of buildings. He does not consider the cost of the effect on health. In fact, that phase of the subject is not touched on in the Monett report.

It would be interesting to have the results of a survey made by State Health Commissioner Dr. W. T. Henshaw of the comparative prevalence of consumption and other forms of tuberculosis, of pneumonia, bronchitis, sore throat, colds, rickets, and other diseases due to fogs, clouds, absence of sunlight, and dirty air, and an estimate of the cost of these in money, lives, and health to the people of Grafton.

Mr. Monett estimates that 90 per cent of the smoke in Grafton is contributed by the railroads. There are those who claim that the smoke from coal is a preventive of tuberculosis of the lungs. Others claim it is especially causative of pneumonia.

These statements, claims, and charges have been made as an explanation of Pittsburgh's high pneumonia rate and low consumption rate. Grafton would be a good place to get facts bearing on these claims and charges.

Mr. Monett advises against trying to enforce smoke abatement by suits and such procedures. He has found the railroads willing and able to abate the smoke when they were asked to do so. Since the Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington railroad yards control smoke better than any other, firemen trained in these yards were sent to the Grafton yards to train the engineers and firemen there. Since the Cincinnati yards have the best method of firing up engines, a fireman skilled in the use of oil torches for firing was moved from Cincinnati to Grafton to teach the local operatives the method. The railroad established a system of smoke zones on a practical basis and, at the same time, one that eliminated the excess of smoke. Efforts along this line reduced the smoke nuisance of the railroads between 30 and 90 per cent.

HEALTH OF OLD PEOPLE.

H. S. F. writes: I suppose I can be classed with "old people," as in about two weeks, if alive, I will celebrate my 74th birthday. I could not be induced to read a medical book giving rules for an old fellow to follow. I have not had a doctor to "look me over" for years. I just go blundering along in blissful ignorance.

Unless I am out at a party I go to bed at 10. Am soon asleep and usually sleep until 5:30 or a little later, in a well ventilated room. None of my old organs disturb me during the night. Am up and well rested at 6, make the fire, and help about breakfast. Eat a reasonably good old southern breakfast without any of the modern frills. Have never tasted coffee and seldom drink tea. Drink plenty of cool water at meals and other times. Put off drinking whisky. If I could get some good whisky now, would take some about noon each day when I feel tired. I always eat some fruit, cake or candy about 11 each day. Eat a good dinner and a light, cold supper. Have never taken a laxative or used bran or health food. Eat just such things as I like.

Each morning I am in my car by 8 and am on the go most of the day. Just now I am having some houses built and some repaired. Have about sixty houses. Keep no books, but my memory is so good I can tell at any time how each tenant stands. Some days I jump in my car and run down ten miles to my farm. I either ride around horseback or walk for two hours or more, eating a bite while on the go, then I rush back to town (always driving myself) at a good gait.

Of course my pulse is a little quicker, but I always rest two or three hours after such a trip. Have been married forty-three years and my wife is also in fine health. My only child, a daughter, and two grandchildren live next door, so I am happy and contented, realizing that the end may come at any time.

TIME OFF FOR VOTING.

Chicago, April 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there a law in this city which allows an employé two hours off for voting as sufficient time to cast his ballot? F. F.

Yes, but the provisions of the statute compelling the employer to pay for the lost time were held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DISHONEST DENTIST.

Chicago, April 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago my wife had some dentistry work done by a loop dentist, such as filling and a gold crown. I now find out that it is not a gold crown. It has the appearance of copper. Is there any chance to recover damages from the dentist? F. J. W.

If you can prove that the crown is not what it was represented to be, you may be entitled to recover the difference in value, but it seems probable that the proceedings will cost you more than the amount which you will recover.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ALLEY SHOULD BE PAVED.

Chicago, April 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please see what you can do toward bettering the condition of the alley back of St. Paul avenue between Le Claire and Laramie, and the one between St. Paul and Bloomingdale? I have already lost one tenant who could not get his car out of the garage on account of the impassable alley.
H. E. B.

Alley has been filled in with clean ashes and is now in passable condition. If complainant, who states he has lost a tenant for garage on account of condition of alley, would insist upon having it paved there would be no further difficulty. Alley is an unimproved one and filling with ashes is only a temporary expedient. It is impossible to keep an unimproved alley in satisfactory condition in inclement weather.

Superintendent of Streets.

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON. — President Lincoln's body lies in state in the magnificent rotunda of the capitol in charge of the Illinois delegation, which will take it to Springfield. The remains of little Willie Lincoln will be disinterred today to be removed to Illinois along with those of his father.

Never before in history has Washington presented so mournful or grand a scene, and never before has a great nation offered such a heartfelt tribute to the memory of a deceased ruler as that paid to the mortal remains of Abraham Lincoln by the American people yesterday. At an early hour the White House vicinity was thronged with people of all ages and colors.

The colored people were on the ground first, and by a sort of right took possession of the railing wall in front of the President's home. The iron fence was perfectly black with the faces of those whose best friend was lying in death within the granite walls before them. One conspicuous feature was a procession of 200 colored women who marched two by two to the White House. The heads were white with the frosts of age, and they were dressed in garments of all hues of the rainbow. Some were handsome tints, some were in mourning, and some were in red, white and blue calicoes.

Notables from all parts of the country were present when the Rev. Dr. Hale, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, intoned the solemn service for the burial of the dead according to the liturgy of the Episcopal church. The Rev. Dr. Gurley of the Old School Presbyterian church, who had been the President's pastor, read the funeral sermon. After the service the cortège formed and moved to the capitol. The procession was two miles long and occupied one hour and forty-five minutes in passing a given point.

WHY ITALY OUSTED KAROLYI

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, April 19.—The adventures of Count Michael Karolyi on his American visit have awakened considerable interest in diplomatic circles here on account of the same Hungarian nobleman's experiences in Italy during the exciting period when Italy and Jugo-Slavia urged war continually and Gabriel d'Annunzio was operating operatically and romantically and with some bloodshed in Fiume.

Count Karolyi was expelled from Italy, charged officially with spreading Jugo-Slav propaganda, hostile to Italy's interests, in the spring of 1921. At the same time, according to information obtained today from sources connected with the foreign office, the Italian government had reason to believe Count Karolyi had been a friend of Bela Kun, the Red dictator of Hungary, and had visited communist or socialist haunts in Florence and other Italian cities.

Count Karolyi's chief activity in Italy was centered in Florence, where, according to officials, he came with a certain woman, "whose status was not ascertained," as the officials put it, "but who was friendly with the communists in northern Italy." They stopped at a luxurious hotel and made friends among the radical leaders at the time when radicalism reached its height in the Italian industrial center.

The Italian political situation then was complicated by trouble in Jugo-Slavia. Sig. d'Annunzio, who had captured Fiume, had retired and the Dalmatian seaport, with the surrounding territory, was anybody's prize, although negotiations for a peaceful settlement were, as usual, under way without result. Italy was nervous and when Count Karolyi arrived he was immediately suspected. He was suspected also because, as an avowed enemy of Admiral Horthy, he was considered a friend of the communist, Bela Kun.

Of the two suspicions, relations with the bolsheviks and an agent for Jugo-Slavia, the latter was established by the Florence political police, according to official information given THE TRIBUNE today, and Count Karolyi was taken with his companion to the frontier, with a warning not to return to Italy.

PACIFIC SHIP DISPUTE

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, April 19.—The competition between the Dollar shipping interests and the Pacific Mail Steamship company for the purchase of the United States shipping board steamers now up for sale is arousing considerable interest in Shanghai and other oriental ports. The Pacific Mail company, charging a monopoly, is attempting to obtain indorsement for its side of the controversy from foreign and Chinese chambers of commerce.

Outside of Manila, where chamber of commerce action is influenced by the rival steamship lines, according to reports here, no action has been taken in the orient.

J. Harold Dollar, son of Capt. Dollar and the representative of the Dollar shipping and lumber interests in the far east, issued a statement today denying that his firm was seeking a monopoly or had any intention of discontinuing the service at the end of the five year period specified when the shipping board awarded the vessels to his line.

Mr. Dollar also called attention to the fact that his company has been operating ships across the Pacific for a third of a century without any charges of monopoly or unfair practice. He also called attention to the fact that the Dollar line is the only American shipping company which has invested in docking facilities both in oriental ports and in New York, thus showing confidence in the future, and that the present Pacific Mail company is not under the control of the same interests which operated the line prior to the stoppage of trans-Pacific service in 1915 when the La Follette shipping law was passed.

Referring particularly to a resolution passed by the Manila chamber of commerce upholding the Pacific Mail line, Mr. Dollar stated that the action was inspired by agents of rival lines in Manila and Honolulu, and also, it was possible, through influence of foreign far east shipping lines in the orient which are feeling the strong competition of the Americans.

It is reported here today that the shipping board has cabled its agents in the far east regarding the inspiration for the propaganda which is now flooding Washington on the question.

MOSCOW THEATERS CLOSE

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 19.—Only two theaters will be permitted to open in Moscow next season, according to the Moscow Daily Truden, which reports that the soviet government is unable to continue to subsidize Moscow's many playhouses. Only the opera and the Little Theater will be subsidized this coming year. The opera, also known as the big theater, alternately houses communist meetings and congresses and the opera, while the little theater specializes in drama.

During the last week three troupes of Russian actors passed through Riga en route to European capitals to give performances. As in previous years, they must give half their earnings to the soviet government. The artists are pessimistic over the future of the theater in Russia, declaring the people cannot afford to purchase tickets and performances at present are being given for trade unionists and other proletarians to whom the government assigns blocks of tickets. The majority of box offices, the actors report, seldom sell more than half a dozen tickets daily.

The actors also report that they are obliged to return to Russia at the conclusion of their European engagements because the soviet government is holding hostages against their return, and members of troupes failing to report in Moscow before autumn know their relatives will be imprisoned for long terms.

The Latvian newspapers report another local peasant uprising in the Rogachov district, White Russia, where soviet officials failed to keep their promise to supply the peasants with seed grain before Easter, which is celebrated in Russia on April 19. Tuesday the peasants gathered at Rogachov, the county seat, and when the local commissar informed them the grain had not arrived they murdered him, killed fifteen other local communist officials and burned the government buildings. Two squadrons of cavalry and a detachment of Cheka have been sent from Minsk to suppress the uprising.

BOTH SATISFIED.

Here is a resurrected favorite of Frank Tinney. It concerns a woman in the suburbs who was chatting over the back fence with her next door neighbor.

"We're going to live in a better neighborhood," she said.

"So are we," volunteered Mrs. Nextdoor, confidingly.

"What! Are you moving, too?"

"O, no; we're staying here!"—Argonaut.

NEVER CAN TELL.

"How did you come to get that red paint on the front of your dress, Mrs. Mingus?"

"O, I was leaning over Sandy Bevan's fence to look at his chickens."

"But Sandy has a big sign up: 'Wet Paint—Sandy Bevan.'"

"I saw that—but everybody knows what a liar he is."—Tit-Bits.

INDUBITABLE MENDACITY.

Chicago, April 12.—The articles of John Clayton on conditions in Czecho-Slovakia are a real joy. One who has visited that fair land within a twelvemonth cannot but find them indescribably humorous. But when Mr. Clayton essays the rôle of historian and purveys for our edification certain alleged facts of the fourteenth century and after, mirth yields to sadness. Why must Mr. Clayton thus destroy our cherished fancy that in recording contemporary Czech happenings he may be accurate—occasionally?

The concluding paragraph of Mr. Clayton's article can only be charitably characterized as apotheosized bunk. Mr. Wells might possibly cram more errors into an equal space. I doubt if Mr. Clayton could. St. John of Nepomuk (not "Nepemuk," Mr. Clayton) was not "the confessor of Wenzel II." (who died in 1305), but vicar-general of the archbishop during the reign of Wenceslaus IV. It may be that his refusal to divulge to the king confessions of the queen had something to do with John's death. What the documents show is that the vicar-general was hurled off the Karlsbrucke into the Moldau, March 20, 1393, because without waiting for the royal placet he had confirmed a canonically valid election in the abbey of Kladrau. John was canonized in 1729 by Benedict XIII. (not by the Jesuits, who for all of their supposed powers have not till today been credited with the rights of canonization). Contemporary documents record that John immediately after his death was honored as a saint. No "living tongue" was found when John's grave was opened in 1719, as Mr. Clayton relates. (What a miracle that would have been!) His uncorrupt, though shriveled, tongue was, however, found at that date, and if the Jesuits put over this hoax, they were undoubtedly shrewd men.

To attack such mistakes which touch so lightly the life of THE TRIBUNE'S reading public may appear pedantry. Ordinarily one shrugs his shoulders and turns to the Line or the Wake. When, however, Mr. Clayton goes even further than usual in an effort to exercise a nicely nourished bigotry, it is only right to point out that his history is merely the indubitable mendacity of a charlatan.

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON.

Chicago, April 13.—Like many others, I read with indignation a libel on the memory of George Washington by a writer in today's TRIBUNE, who eulogizes Thomas Jefferson at the expense of other patriotic Americans, living or dead. This writer says:

"Compare him (Jefferson) if you will with George Washington. Jefferson sought the welfare of the people, rich and poor alike, while Washington would doubtless have accepted the title and scepter of a king!"

That is easily nailed by reference to any biography of Washington written by an author in possession of the historical facts.

Washington Irving is one of these, and in chapter 22 of the fifth volume of his "Life of Washington" we read of Washington's indignation upon receipt of a letter from a veteran revolutionary officer, Col. Nicola, former commander of Fort Mifflin, who wrote that many of the officers in the army believed that the new government should be founded upon a constitution "admitting the title of king, which, I conceive, would be attended with some material advantage."

Washington, who was then winding up the war (this was after Yorktown) by his siege of New York, replied from his headquarters at Newburgh on the Hudson, rebuking the writer without reserve and saying:

"I am much at a loss to conceive what part of my conduct could have given encouragement to an address which, to me, seems big with the greatest mischiefs that can befall my country. If I am not deceived in the knowledge of myself, you could not have found a person to whom your schemes are more disagreeable."

This does not sound as if he wished to be king. HENRY F. DONOVAN.

ANOTHER TIN-STAR ABUSE.

Chicago, April 13.—You are to be highly commended upon your articles against the tin star abuse.

Another branch of the abuse is the presumption of many star holders that they are entitled to free admission to theaters and other entertainments.

A READER OF FIFTY YEARS' STANDING.

A TYPICAL YOUTH.

Chicago, April 17.—There was nothing the least bit unusual or vicious about the Preston boy, and in jotting down his little escapades he displayed a spirit of braggadocio which is typical of all youth. His fatal sickness was a big cross for him to bear, and he was simply too young to carry it. IRENE SCHOFIELD.

SPIRIT OF FAIR PLAY.

Chicago, April 17.—"The Moral Discipline of Sports" should have been read by every parent and youth in this country. It is true that any one engaged in physical competition or who follows the strict code of the physical culture life has very little time for "mugging," "necking" and "wild riding." Men and women should realize the value of a sound body, which is absolutely necessary in the development of a sound mentality. Clean sports and fair play always is the motto in physical competition. Why can't the newspapers realize the meaning of "Clean Sports and Fair Play"?

It is too bad you did not show a little consideration and fair play towards the parents of "Bobbie" Preston.

J. MIDDLETON.

A VIEW OF THE COLLEGES.

Chicago, April 15.—Some years ago I entered one of the greatest universities and remained there a few months. I matriculated as a window washer and janitor. I observed that many of the students felt their oats. These were the young people whose parents footed the bills. After I quit I became a roustabout in an eating house where ambitious students waited table and strained to make ends meet while striving for an education. And what was the record of these red-blooded, earnest young men? The best! They made good; the records will prove that. They were battling for the right to be men of intellect; they were sincere; they did not waste their health and substance in folly. Perhaps among that worthy crew a great figure in science or literature has arisen to hold aloft the torch of true learning.

This sort of comic is educational in that it gives one a greater sense of appreciation for the natural aptitude of the average child and lends encouragement to the American parent in the rearing of real red blooded boys and girls.

WHY NOT PRESIDENT HINDENBURG?

Wilmette, Ill., April 14.—Why all this fuss about old man Hindenburg running for president of Germany? Two years, not seven, following the ending of the Franco-Prussian war, was not Marshal MacMahon, an obedient servant of the then war lord, Napoleon III, elected president of France, and did victorious Germany raise any objections? Not that I know of, or do you? The conditions seem to me to be analogous now, even if the times are somewhat different. It seems to me some of these so-called great powers in Europe are afraid even of their own shadow.

AXEL W. HULTEN.

EXPENSES TO MIAMI.

Chicago, April 16.—I note, with some amusement, a news item that a committee of our city council, in order to make a selection of certain committees, had to travel all the way out to Miami to do it. Could any one conceive of a private corporation in performing a similar function sending one of its committees out a thousand miles or more away from the home office at the corporation's expense? In order to abate the suspicions that may have been aroused in some of our interested citizens, our city fathers saw fit to state that they wished to be away from unwholesome influence. If so, they might have chosen Gary or Evanston or some other place near by.

I wonder if in making appropriations for expending the taxpayers' funds they will be as sincere in attempting to avoid unwholesome influence? I wonder.

SEEK TO COMPEL FAIMAN'S ARREST IN COURT TODAY

Move Is Preliminary to Shepherd Trial.

A little skirmishing will occur today, preliminary to the trial of William D. Shepherd on the William McClintock murder indictment, called the $1,000,000 typhoid case.

There will be a hearing on the petition before Judge Philip L. Sullivan, in which a mandamus is asked compelling the arrest of C. C. Faiman, who confessed to furnishing Shepherd typhoid germs with which to kill McClintock. Judge Sullivan is asked to order Criminal Court Clerk John Passmore to issue a capias on the indictment voted jointly against Faiman and Shepherd. He is asked to order Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman to serve the capias.

State to Fight Arrest.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage said the state will resist the mandamus as a matter of preventing interference. Faiman is now in the custody of detectives of the state's attorney's office, and State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe said the move is an effort to get Faiman into the county jail, where he might be intimidated to aid the defense of Shepherd.

The inquests over the bodies of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, through whom Shepherd first came in contact with the McClintock $1,000,000, and Dr. Oscar Olson, Billy McClintock's physician, will be called tomorrow and verdicts may be returned by evening.

Denies Taking Ring.

Mrs. Julie M. Shepherd, wife of William D. Shepherd, made an announcement yesterday through her husband's attorneys, William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien. She took exception to a statement of a former housekeeper in the employ of Mrs. McClintock.

This housekeeper said that Mrs. Shepherd took a diamond ring from the finger of Mrs. McClintock after death.

Mrs. Shepherd said she turned the ring over to the Northern Trust company as part of the McClintock estate and obtained a receipt for it. When Billy became 21 years old he obtained the ring and gave it to her and she still has it together with the receipt, she stated.

WOMAN SLAYS GUEST SEEKING TO ATTACK HER

Fighting off the advances of a guest in her home who forced his way into her bedroom last night, Mrs. Louise Kobisea, 35 years old, the mother of four children, struck the man over the head with a stove poker and fractured his skull, killing him instantly.

When John Kobisea, her husband, rushed into the room he found his wife, her clothing torn to ribbons, sobbing hysterically. Joseph Marmolja, 36 years old, 3246 South Wood street, was the victim.

Mrs. Kobisea went into her bedroom to lie down while her husband went to a store. Marmolja, as soon as the husband had left, went into the bedroom and attempted to embrace her.

Retail Store · State, Washington, Randolph and Wabash

HEADING this week's calendar are two events of great civic interest—The Woman's World's Fair, a brilliant exposition of women's accomplishments, and "Girls' Week" with its particular message of widening opportunities. Marshall Field & Company, in hearty accord with the ideals that these two events symbolize, offers cordially the various services of the store—its Rest, Reading and Writing Rooms, its Information Bureau, its postal and telegraph/stations—to the women of Chicago and other communities here to take part in these important activities.

Interest in the Newer Coats Comes Smartly to the Front

NEW arrivals show such deft treatments as these sketched above to accent the importance of front design in Coats. The second model buttons all the way down, from its high standing collar (the fur scarf is detachable) to its fur-bordered hem. Of soft wool, in cornelian with platinum fox, it is priced $165.

The military effect of the Kasha Coat's high collar and long vestee is softened by the cascadelike panels which may be worn closed. Rougette, with gold braid, $110.

At right, lorchene coat, with crepe dress, the latter trimmed with tucks. In navy and chili, navy and beige, chili and tan or wigwam. Furs are smart, $65.

SHEER textures, soft lines, and flowerlike tones in union have caught the essence of grace in these Gowns in the lower panel. The second, of georgette with a charming sway in its front fullness, is a Callot copy—in white, snapdragon, apricot, coral, pervanche blue, orchid, peach, beige, Coolidge gray, most moderate at $75.

The first, a French import, selected by our representatives abroad, has slender skirt panels, and uses beading and raised applique flowers of ribbon for color contrast. In orchid, peach, blue, $125.

The French Salon Emphasizes The Combination of Fabrics

NO more ingenious or pronounced tendency has been observed in the Hats this season than the combination of two fabrics or of fabric with straw or felt. A very rich expression of this mode is presented in the Hat illustrated. The crown, with its winglike effect, uses velvet ribbon of a topaz shade somewhat darker than the semi-transparent real hair brim. A topaz and pearl pin directly in the front accents the dominant tones.

Spring Brings Exquisite Laces for The Bride

ALL the delicacy and great beauty of fine lace belong peculiarly to the bride, her wedding gown, veil and trousseau. A large assortment of exquisite lace galloons, edgings and flouncings has been assembled in the Lace Section. The laces are hand-made and semi-handmade, and include many beautiful lace patterns.

Bridal Veils, scarf shaped or in the court model, may also be seen there.

For the Trousseau Or Filmy Gowns

Arriving just in time to find a place in the trousseau or to interest the home dressmaker are new Calais Alencon Laces. Available in various widths, they may be had in cream, ecru or blonde shades.

Embroidery worked on a foundation of English wash tulle is specially priced at 85c, $1.45, $1.95 a yard and up.

Important This Week

At the Woman's World's Fair

"FASHIONS of the Hour" is the keynote of the Marshall Field and Company exhibit at the Woman's World's Fair, at the American Exposition Palace, chosen as the symbol of the position of women in this organization and as the expression of its service to women. Miniature editions of "Fashions of the Hour" will be given to visitors of the booth.

Daily Fashion Promenades of Vacation Interest

As summer vacation apparel is uppermost in mind at this time, the Fashion Promenades at the Exposition have concentrated on the clothes needed for every type of summer activity—for the European trip, the mountain trail, the sandy shore, the northern woods, the motor road, the bridle path, and the country club.

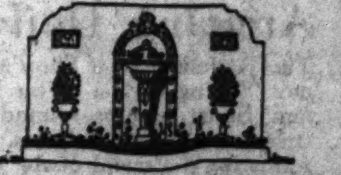
"Girls' Week"

IT is a happy coincidence that Girls' Week should take place during the Woman's World's Fair, when the women-to-be can find inspiration from the tangible results of the effort of women, and the splendid recognition of their accomplishments.

Friday, Girls' Day at The Woman's World's Fair

Several hundred girls of Marshall Field and Company—wholesale and retail—will be guests of the organization on Friday, Girls' Day, at the Fair. The School and Camp Bureau staff will be hostesses at our Booth.

The fashion promenades that day will also be devoted to girls—what they will need for summer playtime, wherever they may choose to go.



Garden Exhibit In the Store

On the Eighth Floor the Garden Exhibit leads to success in gardens and gardening and displays flowers in a profusion of colors.

Flower Beds and Gay Window Boxes

Actual proof of what can be accomplished by planting now is the exhibit of annuals and perennials, forced into bloom in Garfield Park Conservatory and brought here for your inspection.

"The Beginner's Garden"

Today—10 to 12 and 2 to 4—a representative of the West Chicago Parks will be ready to answer any questions relative to the planting and care of a garden.

Miniature Houses and Model Gardens

We have been able to obtain models from the "House and Garden Magazine" and a collection of photographs from the American Association of Landscape Architects.

Sunset Music Is Rainbow in Elmer's Day

Lauds Oriole Orchestra's Twilight Program.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Whether it is a trick of the personal equation or absolute merit, the WEBH 6 o'clock twilight musical by the Oriole orchestra and Glenore D. Capon, soprano, looms up like a rainbow over the day's vast sea of tones.

Whatever the causes, this concert has an atmosphere about it all its own.

It may seem a strong statement, but the Oriole orchestra has recently developed into a veritable radio symphony orchestra. Although the personnel is low in numbers, it is not exceptional at all for them to play standard symphonic music, and for all practical enjoyment and educational purposes the resulting tones over the air are quite like a full symphonic orchestra.

Further, several of the component players are original composers and they are clever arrangers. And they are active workers in both fields.

Some of their original compositions were played yesterday—also a number of their arrangements. A work entitled "Sorrow," by Rachmaninoff, arranged by Victor Young, the orchestra's violinist, was extremely powerful and impressive. In absolute contrast, tonally, the "Waltz of the Flowers," from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" suite, was made as happy and cheerful and about as beautiful as if played by a full symphony orchestra.

The soloist, Glenore Capon, soprano, at this distance was as dainty, delicate, and lovely to hear as one could imagine.

The Chicago Association of Commerce Glee club concert at W-G-N, 2:30, was another high light yesterday. Here is a fine voiced, full toned, well trained group of singers in a program ranging from Palestrina, Bach to "Old Black Joe" and other Negro melodies. The point here is that they did everything so well that it didn't matter what they sang. However, everything they sang was well worth singing. A selection that the writer particularly appreciated was the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's oratorio, "Judas Maccaboeus." The "Paul Revere's Ride" selection was timely.

The piano elimination contest by students of the Chicago Musical college at Central theater, 3:30, W-G-N, must have been as interesting as it was instructive to those interested in pianistic literature.

On the 4 to 5 KYW concert, Oscar Heather, tenor, whom the radio audience is thoroughly familiar with, was heard to fine advantage. Also, Monimia Ruble, soprano, on the 7 o'clock WEBH program should receive extended notice.

KDKA PROGRAM CLEARLY HEARD IN AUSTRALIA

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

SYDNEY, April 19.—The most successful broadcasting transmission from America to Australia was accomplished Saturday evening from KDKA, Pittsburgh, on a wave length of sixty-five meters. A specially arranged program, including Australian artists, was rebroadcast through a Sydney station and heard all over Australia as clearly as if it had been transmitted originally from Sydney. It was also heard in Suva and Jiji. The test was kept secret, avoiding interference. A cornet solo, orchestral numbers, and songs were heard with the utmost clarity. This test shows it is practicable to broadcast regular programs from America.

WOMEN HEAR EDITOR PRAISE WILSON POLICIES

BY KATE WEBBER.

Richmond, Va., April 19.—[Special.]—Democracy is at heart jealous of its superior men, Glenn Frank, editor of the Century magazine, today told an audience composed of delegates to the convention of the National League of Woman Voters. Continued efforts to standardize public opinion will, Mr. Frank thinks, sterilize the mind of the nation. Jealousy by the majority either keeps men of superior minds out of office, or they mask their superiority behind a mountebank manner or a rudeness of speech.

GLENN FRANK.

Gives Praise to Wilson.

Mr. Frank paid praises to Woodrow Wilson. "In years to come," he said, "the blackest page in history will be that when politicians in the senate set aside the vision of Woodrow Wilson!"

"I say this," he added, "despite the fact that I am a Republican—when this country rejected the ideals of Wilson we began a foreign policy near to treason to the human race."

Mr. Frank denounced the habit of writers of despondency of the last ten years, saying they represent the suicide of a social order.

Talks on Peace.

The other speaker, Prof. James A. Shotwell, co-author of the Shotwell-Bliss plan for disarmament, talked on the machinery for peace. Taking as a basis the Geneva protocol, he reminded his hearers that ours is a careless civilization, and that unless we recognize the changed nature of statesmanship we shall be destroyed in a war of panic in which no conferences of peace-minded peoples can limit the scope of horror.

"We must expect failure in the first trials, such as the Geneva protocol. They must be improved through evolution into international law. And that nation which will not go to court through fear that its ideas of justice will be abused is the aggressor."

Historic spots in Virginia were visited by most of the delegates this morning, and many of the large estates were open for their inspection.

10 Killed When Avalanche Buries Train in Siberia

BERLIN, April 19.—[United News.]—Ten persons were killed and at least thirty were injured when an avalanche overwhelmed a train near Irkutsk in eastern Siberia, according to dispatches received here. Rescuers extricated the forty dead and injured passengers from the wreckage and are searching for others.

Loop Traffic Delayed as Boat Keeps Bridges Open

Traffic entering and leaving the loop was tied up for nearly an hour yesterday afternoon when the giant coal carrier schooner M. A. Reed, proceeding up the Chicago river with 4,000 tons of coal aboard, ran aground between Dearborn and Clark streets. The Dearborn street bridge was raised and the Clark street bridge open and, due to the length of the boat, bridgetenders were unable to close either bridge until the schooner had been freed. That task was accomplished by three tugs.

HERETIC BOWS TO MANNING; FEARS FIGHT IN CHURCH

Rector Also Yields, Crowd Is Disappointed.

New York, April 19.—Bishop William Montgomery Brown, the convicted heretic, and the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, the radical modernist, have bowed before the mandate of the fundamentalist Episcopalian leaden, Bishop William T. Manning of the diocese of New York. After dramatizing their threat of defiance of their superior by advertising that Bishop Brown would speak at St. Mark's In-the-Bouwerie this afternoon in spite of the former's orders, The Rev. Dr. Guthrie announced just before the close of the symposium that "in deference to Bishop Manning," Bishop Brown would not talk until Wednesday night and then at a public hall.

BISHOP MANNING.

Church Is Crowded.

Believing that the announced defiance would precipitate a bitter modernist-fundamentalist battle, which probably would result in Dr. Guthrie's trial by an ecclesiastical court, thousands of persons stormed the little east side chapel to hear the Arkansas prelate defend his alleged heresy.

Throughout a two hour service the crowds waited for the former Dixie bishop to deliver his plea. Curtains were drawn before the altar and as Dr. Guthrie denounced at length the ecclesiastical court that had convicted the western bishop of heresy.

Walkout Disappointed.

Dr. Guthrie worked his audience to a dramatic pitch. Then he announced that he and Bishop Brown had decided that the latter should not speak. The disappointment of the congregation was audible. Many rose to leave.

"My sympathies are with Bishop Brown," Guthrie declared. "I planned this meeting knowing that I was within my rights. I know my canons. The canons of the Episcopal church are out of date.

"But because Bishop Manning has made it apparent that it will displease him, Bishop Brown and I have agreed that it is wisest not to carry out the program as announced."

EDWARD N. HURLEY TO LOSE $9,000 BY TAX DECISION, CLAIM

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, wartime chairman of the shipping board and present member of the foreign debt funding commission, is expected to lose a pending appeal from an income tax ruling of the commissioner of internal revenue as a result of the decision of the Supreme court last Monday in the Flannery case.

EDWARD N. HURLEY.

The Supreme court's verdict will cost Mr. Hurley something like $9,000, according to attorneys of the internal revenue bureau.

The Supreme court in the Flannery case held that a taxpayer in computing a loss in the sale of stock acquired prior to 1913 cannot claim a loss greater than the difference between actual cost and the sale price even though the value as of March 1, 1913, might have been greater than the cost.

Mr. Hurley sold his stock in the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company in 1920 for $67,267. It actually cost him $102,115, and its value as of March 1, 1913, was $117,050. In making a deduction from gross income Mr. Hurley claimed as a loss the difference between $6,267 and $117,050.

'MA' FERGUSON HEEDS MOTHER'S PLEA FOR SON

HAVANA, Cuba, April 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—When Miss Dorrance Ferguson, daughter of Gov. Miram A. Ferguson of Texas, was in Havana several weeks ago as guest of the city, Senora Catalina Ordovas de Silva, a widow, begged that she intercede in behalf of her son Manuel, who was in the Texas penitentiary. The widow told Miss Ferguson Manuel was serving a long sentence, that she was very poor and had a young daughter to support. Miss Ferguson promised she would tell her mother of the case.

Pardoned for Burglary.

Austin, Tex., April 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Manuel de Silva, serving a twenty-two year sentence imposed in Harris county, Texas, in 1918, for theft and burglary, was pardoned by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson April 13. The governor's proclamation shows the pardon was granted on an appeal of the Cuban consul general at Washington.

HEROINE OF THE CONFEDERACY DIES IN NORTH

New York, April 19.—Mrs. Victoria Elizabeth Rembert Hall, 88, a relative of John C. Calhoun and other famous men of the old south, died at her home at Southampton, Long Island, yesterday. Death came as the result of a fall last December.

She was related to Lyman Hall, first governor of Georgia and a signer of the Declaration of Independence; John C. Calhoun, Gen. William Porter Rembert of the confederate army, and Senator and Gen. Robert Toombs of Georgia.

Mrs. Hall was born at Elberton, Ga. In the civil war, while still a young girl, she saved Gen. Toombs from the Union forces by seizing the bridle of a commandant of a detachment of Union troops, holding him back until the general had escaped. In consequence of this her home was burned.

Tokio Has Most Severe Quake Felt in a Year

TOKIO, April 20—[By the Associated Press.]—The most severe earthquake experienced in a year in Japan occurred in the Tokio region at 45 minutes after midnight this (Monday) morning. A second quake was felt at 5:30 o'clock this morning. No damage was done by either tremor.

Film Star Reports Loss of $75,000 Gems in Taxi

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Clara Kimball Young, the motion picture star now appearing in vaudeville, reported the loss of $75,000 in jewels tonight to the police. Miss Young said the jewelry had been left behind in a taxicab.

MARY A. JUDGE, RESIDENT HERE 75 YEARS, DIES

Mrs. Mary A. Judge, for seventy-five years a resident of Chicago, died yesterday at her home, 729 Brompton place. She was the widow of Thomas E. Judge, who was the first secretary of the sanitary district and was an election commissioner for fourteen years. Her father, William G. White, was the first engraver to locate in Chicago and her girlhood home was in State street opposite the present site of Marshall Field & Co.

Mrs. Judge was present at the national convention that nominated Lincoln. She was the mother of the late John M. Duffy and of Frank L. Judge, Mrs. E. K. Gleason and Frances C. Judge.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the home and at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church. Burial will be at Mount Carmel cemetery.

CHICAGO BUSINESS COLLEGE

Announcement
OF A CHANGE
IN MANAGEMENT

THIS popular business school is being operated under new ownership. It is now owned by Mr. R. W. Bryant of Buffalo, N. Y., under whose efficient management the Bryant & Stratton College of Buffalo has become one of the largest, best, and most prosperous schools of the country. His acquisition of the Chicago Business College insures a new period of prosperity and usefulness for this school. The same high ideals and the same efficient service to its patrons which built up the Buffalo school and which characterized the Chicago Business College in the heyday of its usefulness under the direction of the late Mr. Frederick B. Virden and his estimable wife, L. Mae Virden, will be maintained.

Mr. M. Roy London who has been a highly successful department manager in the Buffalo school is coming to Chicago as principal and local manager of the Chicago Business College. Mr. London is a man of staunch principles and keen business ability. The many friends of this college will rejoice to learn that the management has fallen into such capable hands.

WHEELER RAPS POLICE JUDGES FOR RUM FINES

Only Advertise Bootlegger, Dry Exponent Says.

Bootleggers are crafty business men and police court judges are their advertising agents, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, told the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston yesterday.

"Petty fines meted out to bootleggers by some judges are only cheap advertising of their business," Wheeler asserted. "We must not fine but confine bootleggers."

Admitting weakness in enforcement, Mr. Wheeler declared the prohibition laws comprise the most beneficial social policy ever adopted by a nation.

"To stop the leaks in the dry dam and to inform the people of the great benefits obtained even with partial enforcement are the two principal goals of the prohibition forces," he said. "The diversion of 6,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol is the principal menace to prohibition.

"The courageous fight of the coast guard to stop rum smugglers should be supported by an appeal to other nations not to allow their territory to be used as a base by criminals plotting to violate our laws.

"The froth and the dregs of our social life are still involved in liquor lawlessness. The sober, decent people of the nation must teach the weakling and the crook that neither booze peddlers nor booze drinkers can rule America."

PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN DISPUTE ABOUT BIG SHIPS

Washington, D. C., April 19.—The 3-4 split in the shipping board has grown so acute over the sale of the five President-type ships of the California-Orient line that President Coolidge is understood to have addressed a letter to Chairman O'Connor requesting a report.

The executive previously had indicated that he considered the sale a matter for the board to dispose of and assumed that in accepting the bid of the Dollar interests over that of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, which has been operating the vessels, the board had exercised its best judgment.

The action of Vice Chairman Plummer and Commissioner Thompson in placing minority views before the District of Columbia's Supreme court yesterday, with indications that the commission's differences would be aired during the injunction proceedings against the sale initiated by the Pacific Mail, however, apparently caused the President to abandon his hands-off policy.

MODERN GIRL BEST OF AGES, PASTORS HOLD

Decry Talks of the Decline of Youth.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Young people in general and girls in particular received the O. K. of Chicago pastors yesterday. It was girls' week Sunday and the beginning of a week of activities in the interest of girls in the schools, clubs, and churches.

Dr. John Thompson devoted his morning sermon at the Chicago temple, Clark and Washington streets, to the subject, "The Modern Girl—Her Rights." He said middle aged women are restless and fretful and pleaded for self poise in the rising generation. He declared cigaret smoking by girls was not a question of morals but a question of physical deterioration.

Stands Up for Youth.

Dr. William Chalmers Covert, who addressed 1,000 Presbyterian young people yesterday afternoon at the Chicago temple, was outspoken in commendation of the present generation of young people.

"In spite of all criticisms," said Dr. Covert, "there never was a generation of young people cleaner in morals, with more intellectual capacity, and of better disposition toward others than the generation just coming into the place of power."

At the close of Dr. Covert's address Dr. Henry Seymour Brown presented plans for the raising of $2,500 for a young people's class room building at Camp Gray, near Saugatuck, Mich., where the Presbyterians own 150 acres of land and where, Dr. Brown said, "there are sixty-two varieties of singing birds."

That Indictment.

"I have an indictment against young people which is no doubt true," said Dr. Thompson in his sermon. "It describes the young people as frivolous, careless, indifferent to the church and the welfare of society. It is a severe arraignment. I once read it to an audience and an elderly lady who sat on the front seat kept bobbing her head with approval until I stated, 'This document was printed in 1868, when you, dear old fogies and hypocrites, were the young people.' Then the old lady stopped bobbing her head.

"Trust the young people. I never liked to do my courting with the lights burning brightly, and as for a chaperon, I wanted one who was nearsighted and totally deaf. I think young people are the same today.

Tribute to Modern Girl.

"I think the modern girl is the best product any age has seen. She has the right to her own social, intellectual and spiritual life.

"There are perils for girls. Last night I was on the street at 2 o'clock in the morning and I saw a young girl walking without an escort. This is dangerous. The girl who smokes cigarets changes the tone of her skin until she begins to resemble the yellow race. Girls mature earlier than they used to. It is just as religious to fall in love as it is to pray, but there is danger in this early physical and social maturity if unaccompanied by moral balance. I am hoping that the Chicago temple will be a place where young people can meet socially, have a good time and retain their self-respect."

Labor Owned Bank in New York Doubles Capital

New York, April 19.—The labor-owned Federation Bank of New York plans to double its capital by increasing it to $1,000,000, probably the first week in June, it was announced today. President Peter J. Brady said the bank's resources had reached $9,500,000 and that it had become the largest American Federation of Labor bank on the continent.

Pierce-Arrow trucks would not be the world's finest built motor trucks if less attention were paid to details.

for instance—

The camshafts have four bearings each, instead of the usual three, which results in longer wear, smoother running and greater rigidity. The valve lifters are the roller type—more expensive to make than the mushroom type, but vastly superior.

There are scores of other examples.

T. W. A. sells business quickly, without loss

"I was delighted with the results that I received from my Tribune Want Ad. I ordered it for a week, but the response was so prompt that I was able to sell by the third day. There were about twelve replies, all from interested prospects."
Miss Van Dusen, 144 E. 67th Street.

MILLINERY-HEMSTITCHING DEPT.—FOR Sale—Or Rent—Established in thriving dressmaking shop 6 years; light and cleaning furnished. Hyde Park 5130.

This case very aptly illustrates the solution of a problem that occasionally confronts the owner of a business. Miss Van Dusen stated that she was forced to sell on short notice, and therefore had to reach interested prospects without delay, or accept less than her business was worth. Tribune Want Ads reached the very people she sought, and enabled her, through the promptness of their response, to sell profitably, even though the sale was governed by haste.

This is no unusual achievement; there is a constant public interest centered on Tribune Want Ads at all times. An owner, to benefit by this attention, needs only to divert it to his offer. Consistent use of a Tribune Want Ad that carries a clear message will accomplish this, and, with a number of interested prospects at hand, selling is easy and swift.

BRIAND WANTS ARMS QUESTION LEFT TO LEAGUE

[Copyright: 1925: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 19.—Aristide Briand, the new foreign minister, returned to the capital today from a week-end fishing trip at his country place in Normandy. He announced that under his régime the foreign policy of France would be based on that of the league of nations. Briand is now France's chief delegate to Geneva.

ARISTIDE BRIAND.
[K. & H. Photo.]

While, as Briand said, he is not yet ready to discuss what he will do in the new ministry he will really begin to occupy tomorrow, acquaintance with his record and his ideas and experience as statesman and politician permit one to gather a few ideas as to the effect of a Briand policy reposing in the league.

In the first place, the new foreign minister will favor all disarmament proceedings being conducted through Geneva. As he has said frequently, he believes that, to be successful, efforts toward limitation of armaments must be conducted by a permanent organization rather than through spasmodic conferences.

Opposes Washington Parley.

Briand's belief that the league should handle the disarmament problem applies not only to land forces, but to naval forces as well, and this means that he is opposed to another naval conference in Washington. This does not mean that he would not accept an invitation if President Coolidge issued it, but it does mean that he will discourage the sending of an invitation.

Briand, at the personal appeal of Secretary of State Hughes, accepted the small capital ship ratio allowed to France at the first Washington conference, and ever since he has been suffering from having done so. The first Washington conference largely contributed to costing him his premiership three years ago.

Insists on Security.

On the issue of security Briand will be firmer than Herriot and more consistent. He is not among that small number of French statesmen who place much faith in Germany. When he was foreign minister, three years ago, he worked for a military alliance with England, and just before he fell he obtained at Cannes from Lloyd George a promise for a treaty of protection which represented far more than England has offered since.

A collection of photostatic copies of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," the only one of its kind in the world, will soon be completed at the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday.

The study of this collection, according to Prof. John M. Manly, head of the department of English, marks a new epoch in the efforts to make a scientific critical text of the poem, one of the greatest treasures of English literature.

Hitherto, scholars working on the original texts have been forced to search through England, France and Italy. Now they will be able to consult the manuscripts in the same place.

FRIENDSHIP OF CHINA DECLARED U. S. KEY TO EAST

Schurman Urges Yankees to Keep Good Will.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, April 18.—Jacob Gould Schurman, who is retiring as minister to China to become ambassador to Germany, at a farewell luncheon attended by more than 200 Americans, declared the friendship of China's 400,000,000 is the most important element in Pacific affairs. He said America has this friendship now, and that it must be retained at all hazards.

J. G. SCHURMAN.
[K. & H. Photo.]

He said American interests in China vary, and there are many viewpoints and conflicts of opinion, but all are agreed on one essential, that the friendship of the Chinese for America and the Americans must be preserved, and this is essential for the success of all of our effort in the far east.

Radical Chinese Not Feared.

Mr. Schurman devoted considerable attention to the American missionary and educational work during this most important phase of American endeavor in China, owing to its pure altruism and devotion to the spiritual, moral, and intellectual uplift of the Chinese people.

He said he was not greatly disturbed by Chinese radical agitation against American missionaries' work because the anti-Christian agitation was inspired by ignorant atheism and prejudice, and the American missionary and educational work was too firmly established in the good will of the Chinese to be adversely affected.

Must Meet Nation's Standard.

He said, however, the missionaries must adapt themselves and their institutions to the new conditions and conform to the Chinese government standards. When the schools conform to the government specifications the government has no right to interfere in religious or moral teachings.

Mr. Schurman in his four year term has visited every American consular station, and he said he believed he was leaving China with the general good will of the American citizens.

TWO DIE, $500,000 LOSS AT PEORIA IN GALE AND FIRE

Wind Hits Velocity of a Hurricane.

Peoria, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—Two persons are dead and damage of more than $500,000 is estimated as the result of fire and wind, during the heavy storm which swept over the city this morning.

The Isaac Walker hardware store was entirely destroyed with the loss of at least two lives in a fire started by a bolt of lightning and damage there is estimated at over $400,000.

Other Stores Hard Hit.

More than a score of store fronts were partially wrecked when heavy plate glass windows were blown in, and damage from the storm throughout the city is estimated at more than $100,000, with telephone and light wires down everywhere.

The two dead men are Frank Hammel, 50, and George Wonder, 53, both watchmen. The watchman at the Miller Lumber company is missing.

Struck by lightning, the hardware plant, a five story brick building, burst into flames, and when its boiler exploded it crumpled like an egg shell, trapping Wonder.

Church Is Destroyed.

The Wesley Methodist church was destroyed by lightning and wind. Great damage was suffered by the McKinley school building.

The storm broke with its greatest fury shortly after 3:30 a. m., followed for a half hour by continuous lightning. Hundreds of Peorians fled to their cellars or out into the open.

Damage in Pekin, across the river from Peoria, is estimated at $50,000.

BUSINESS MEN O. K. 4 CHANGES IN BANKING LAW

Washington, April 19.—[Special.]—A referendum of the business organizations composing the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on amendments to the national banking act similar to those embodied in the McFadden bill was announced today.

The referendum will be based on a report by a committee of the national chamber making four recommendations.

They follow:

"That a national bank should be permitted, under regulation of the controller of the currency, to have branches within its own city if a state bank in the same city is permitted to have branches.

"That national banks should be given indeterminate charters, subject to forfeiture for cause and termination at the will of congress.

"That national banks should be authorized to deal in investment securities on a basis not inconsistent with the generally recognized principles of sound banking practice.

"That national banks should be authorized to make mortgage loans on city real estate for periods not in excess of five years."

The report on which the referendum is based was prepared by the advisory committee of the finance department of the chamber, the chairman of which is Fred I. Kent of New York and which includes Arthur Anderson and Roy C. Osgood of Chicago.

MASTERY

HERE is a man, W. L. George, whose books are best sellers on two continents. "He is a genius," you say. "Mastery was easy for him; he had no obstacles."

But wait a minute. For years he was a failure. He knows the five reasons why he was a failure. With a frankness which is extraordinary he sets them down.

You have read many rules for making the most of your life; here are five infallible rules for making the least.

1. Be shy. W. L. George was shy. To cure himself, early on three successive mornings he made himself walk into a department store, march to the children's department, and ask for one yard of red baby ribbon!
2. Be impatient. "In the old days," says Mr. George, "I was impatient with objections. Now I allow my client to exhaust himself with objections. That is your chance—the psychological moment when your customer has made such a vigorous attack on you that he doubts he is right."
3. Work too hard. Do you plan your time for loafing as carefully as your time for working? "Too many people work all the time, and are surprised when they become jaded or confused," writes Mr. George. "I coped with that by planning definite periods of idleness every day, which I never give up."
4. Forget things. W. L. George could not remember faces. Then he learned a trick that cured him. You will be surprised how quickly you, too, can master it.
5. Talk too much. "Try to be impressed," Mr. George advises, "instead of impressive." Once he forced himself to let a friend talk for twenty-seven minutes. At the end of it he gritted his teeth and said, "Oh, do go on!" And the other man talked for nineteen minutes more!

You may agree with Mr. George's "rules," or you may not. But one thing is certain. You will find some echo of your own life in them—something to check you up on your own plans and progress, something stimulating.

For this is the distinctive service of The American Magazine—every reader finds himself in its pages. "I have experienced that in my own living," he says. "This magazine is real, it is LIFE."

Ask yourself—

Would you ask him to give you references? Richard E. Reeves says it wouldn't be a bad idea. Page 16.

it a gavel was carved and encircled with gold for Vice President Dawes to use in—and on—the United States senate.

In presenting the gavel, Mayor Curley said he thanked his God that presiding over the United States senate was a "real full blooded every day American descended from a patriot," and then he told the audience of the wood this gavel was made from, adding, "believing this man may require some such medium as this for the senate, which seems not adways amenable to sense and reason, we present with it—this magic wand or club—which may enable him to bear it in on even the senators that there are certain essentials to good government which rise superior to the success of party policies."

Forced to Make Speech.

Then cheering so insistent that Gen. Dawes, who had sworn he would not make a speech today, just had to in order that the exercises might go on.

When he rose, they turned up all the lights in the beautiful hall and he said, "When a man gets up to make a speech he hasn't prepared he is much more interested in seeing the audience than in having the audience see him.

"About this gavel—it's precious to me because it comes from sacred timber—timber from this hall that has been, that is, the great intellectual battleground of America, a place for the establishment of principles through discussion, and my message here is to ask you here to rededicate yourselves—here in this holy place—to the preservation of those principles which your ancestors died to establish."

Pershing Gets One, Too.

Pershing was given a gavel, too. He was in uniform and he was grandly cheered when he rose, after being introduced as "the man who showed Americans how to walk among kings and still never to lose the human touch or the American simplicity."

The general insisted that the lesson of the anniversary we were celebrating and of the lives we were honoring was obvious. Those patriots of Boston and Lexington and Concord believed in preparedness. "And are we," he asked, sharply, "are we to forget that we have won all that we have in America today by force? Are we to forget the patriotism, the devotion of the sires who wielded, in a holy cause, the force they had organized and had prepared?

"They knew the worth of readiness. They were practically trained through frontier life and Indian warfare for the mighty task of nation building which they had to meet."

'Tomorrow Gen. Pershing will ride with an impersonator of Paul Revere in a reënactment of his famous ride, while Vice President Dawes will accompany the horseman representing his great ancestor.

Ex-Governor and Senator of Maryland Is Dead

Baltimore, Md., April 19.—John Walter Smith, former Democratic governor and former United States senator, die dtonight after an illness which began March 28. He was 80 years old.

WOMAN ADMITS POISONING AT RATE OF 1 A YR.

St. Paul, Neb., April 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Mrs. Della Sorensen, 28, of St. Paul, who was arrested yesterday on charges of killing by poison seven persons, three of them members of her own family, over a period of seven years, today signed a confession before County Attorney Dobrey.

"I have made this confession voluntarily and of my own accord, because I want to tell the truth, and because I am sorry for what I have done," Mrs. Sorensen said.

The list of victims' includes her daughter Minnie, 3; her daughter Deloris, a nursing baby; her first husband, Joseph Weldam, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Wilhelmina Weldam.

She also poisoned two of the children of Wetzel Cooper, her sister-in-law, and Ruth Brock, an infant.

Despite her confession, Mrs. Sorensen will not be prosecuted. Dobrey announced that she was mentally irresponsible and will be taken to the state insane asylum.

Magnesia Now a Joy to take

The new way, leading doctors now say, to take milk of magnesia—mintrated to multiply the benefits of old forms.

That is refreshingly delightful to take.

That multiplies the already remarkable benefits of plain milk of magnesia.

That is made in a laboratory of international note and endorsed by highest medical and scientific authority.

Now, as a part of a general health movement, a test is being offered. Simply use the coupon.

What it is

The name is Mintrated Cream of Magnesia.

It relieves stomach gas in fifteen minutes.

That is one place where plain magnesia failed.

It acts to correct the lack of "acid balance" in the stomach and the bowels, conditions to which 80% of your common daily discomforts now are traced.

It relieves most trying cases of constipation.

It acts to neutralize excessive stomach acids.

It clears the intestinal tract of its poisons.

It stops stomach gas in less than 15 minutes.

It is not habit forming. Even when taken every day. A method in safe contrast to habit forming pills and drugs.

The cool of mint

It relieves indigestion quickly, amazingly. And is a delight to take. That is due to its mintrated property. The property no milk of magnesia embodies.

Children love to take it. Every mother knows what this means.

A bottle free—obtain it

In justice to yourself and yours, make the test at our expense.

How Tribune readers respond to used car offers

"There were so many replies that I could not keep track of them. People telephoned all day Sunday and most of Monday and Tuesday, and several called at once as soon as they were told the address. The car was sold for the advertised price on Sunday morning."

Mr. Sam Coleman, 4543 Ellis Ave., said this about his Tribune Want Ad. He had ordered the Want Ad for Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, but needed it only one day.

His success shows that there is a good, brisk demand for used cars, and that this demand can be directed to any individual offer through the use of Tribune Want Ads. The Tribune, with its enormous circulation, carries daily messages to a great army of readers whose responsiveness indicates that they are keenly aware of the buying advantages offered to them through The Tribune Want Ad Section. A Tribune Want Ad, carrying a clear, comprehensive message to these readers, will bring them to your door.

Walgreen Builds $5,000,000 yearly sales with newspaper advertising

WHAT? Advertise neighborhood drug stores in a medium of such enormous circulation as The Chicago Tribune? Shrewd business men and other friends argued to C. R. Walgreen with conclusive logic that it was business suicide.

Mr. Walgreen figured differently. He began buying newspaper space in the face of this gloomy advice. What happened?

Walgreen sales are doubling every two years!
In 1924 they passed 5½ million dollars!

The history of this progress is vitally interesting to every sales organization. In 1916 the Walgreen chain included nine stores. Their business totaled $270,000. Here is the development since then:

	No. of Stores	Total Sales Volume	Sales Per Store	Increase in Sales Per Store
1916	9	$ 270,000	$ 30,000
1918	14	600,000	42,860	$12,860
1920	23	1,550,000	67,400	24,540
1922	29	2,475,000	85,300	17,900
1924	49	5,650,000	115,300	30,000

AS SALES for each store grew, increases in volume per store became more difficult to achieve. In 1920 Walgreen stores averaged sales of $67,400, which is about three times the revenue of the ordinary Chicago drug store. Yet Mr. Walgreen was not satisfied. He was not alone interested in adding more stores. He saw the greatest opportunity for profit in boosting their individual sales over $67,400 annually. To accomplish this, newspaper advertising was begun in 1921.

During that year only a small volume of advertising was used. The News received the largest lineage, with the American second and The Tribune third.

Actual results were carefully checked. They encouraged a vigorous campaign the following year. And they prompted a revised schedule.

Walgreen Lineage in 1922, 1923 and 1924

	Tribune	American	Herald & Examiner	News
1922	26,681	15,940	1,728	10,538
1923	86,656	32,874	0	0
3 years	277,385	101,792	19,052	21,974

Salesmanship or antiquated precedent might have influenced the first purchase of lineage in 1921. But evidence of selling power dictated the succeeding schedules. Note that The Tribune is receiving more lineage than all other Chicago newspapers put together. Six days against six, that stands. The burden was carried by the week-day issues of The Tribune. Of the total less than one-sixteenth appeared on Sunday.

Still more interesting is the fact that during these three years of advertising the already high volume of sales per store increased $30,000 a year. This was the total sales volume per store in 1916.

If the 49 Walgreen stores of 1924 had averaged $67,400 (as the 23 stores did in 1920) the total business for the year would have been $3,702,600. Two million dollars in additional business testifies to Mr. Walgreen's judgment in employing newspapers to build up volume of sales per store.

He has little to say about advertising. He gives you a table of figures and says: "That tells the whole story. The way we spend our money shows what we think of advertising and of The Chicago Tribune.

"Of course, conservative business friends have told us that we were spending too much in advertising. They proved to us quite conclusively that we couldn't afford to pay your rates. But results speak for themselves.

"Our advertising helps increase our volume. As volume increases, our overhead decreases, enabling us to give greater values to our customers.

"Here is an interesting sidelight. Before we advertised, each new store was expected to be a burden on the business for a year. Then we might hope to have it pay its way. Now we do a thriving business in every new store from the opening day. Our advertising has filled every neighborhood with people anxious to trade with us."

Do you sell your product through retail stores? Then this successful experience of a store owner should prove conclusively the kind of advertising that will sell more of your goods over the counters in Chicago.

Whether your business is a bank or a factory, The Chicago Tribune may fit into your needs. It is worth talking over with a Tribune man. Ask one to call.

This Map ◀ shows the 48 merchandising districts of Chicago; also Evanston and Oak Park. Each dot represents 500 subscribers to the week-day issues of The Chicago Tribune. In circles are shown the number of Walgreen stores in each district as of March 15, 1925. Note how they parallel Tribune circulation.

Brides' Week

Today and the days that follow throughout the week, this store takes upon itself the charming task of outfitting the bride of this springtime. From the wedding gown, which is "the climax" of the trousseau, to the smallest accessory of her wardrobe, here's everything.

For her new home, the same particular thought has been taken, evidenced in those sections of this store devoted to the needs of the home. And for those with a bride to shower or to gift, here is many a lovely article whose fine quality is an ever-gracious tribute.

For the Bride and Her Wedding Party Come
Hats with a Picturesque Grace

Charming hats that blend their beauty of color in harmony with the pageantry of the bridal group and carry out in flower wreaths or ribbon garniture the color plan.

And Just in Time for the Bride to Choose The Mode Presents a Delightful New Fashion

Hats with velvet crowns and, for contrast, wide brims of straw veiled in misty tulle and with a narrow band and bow of silvery ribbon, such as the one sketched.

Here, too, are smaller hats, dashing and smart for the journey. And soft hats of felt or felt combined with Bangkok straw in rainbow hues to choose for sports and morning wear.

Fifth Floor, South.

To Be Selected for the Trousseau
Silk Girdles of Different Types

Here are slender girdles for sports or negligee. And those designed to confine the figure more closely and serve as foundation for more formal fashions. Of this type are these

Step-in Girdles, $10 Of Silk Elastic

A Brassiere of Lace, a Step-in Girdle Complete an Attractive Combination, $10

The lace brassiere is detachable from the step-in girdle, which is made of satin with sections of elastic. This is a most advantageous feature. Sketched at the right. $10.

Negligee Garter Belts of Rose Colored Silk, $7.50. Dainty Garters, in Many Styles, 75c to $2.50 Pair.

Third Floor, East.

Silk Hosiery Exceedingly Fine
The Bride Includes in Her Outfit

This important item of the trousseau may be chosen from assortments here. So varied in color that every need, it would seem, is met.

Silk Hosiery with Lace Clocks, $3.50 and $5

Very fine sheer hosiery, all-silk and full-fashioned. These stocking are made with open lace clocks and are priced according to quality, $3.50 and $5 pair.

All-Silk Chiffon Hosiery, $3 to $4 Pair

In white and many different colors, one may choose this hosiery in either the chiffon weight or service weight. Priced accordingto kind, $3, $3.50 and $4 pair.

First Floor, North.

The Bride Finds Fascinating Choice in White Silks and Wool Fabrics

White—not only for the wedding gown, but for every phase of fashion, from the simple little sports frock to the loveliest of summer evening dinner frocks.

In the White Silks—Crepes, Satins, Charmeuse, Taffetas, Brocaded Satins, According to Kind, $1.95 to $7.50 Yard

One may choose crepe de Chine, all-silk, firm and fine, at $1.95 to $3 yard. Canton crepes at $3.50 to $6 yard. Beautiful white chiffon voiles at $2.25 to $3 yard. And the new, very smart, silk-and-wool bengalines at $4.50 to $7.50 yard.

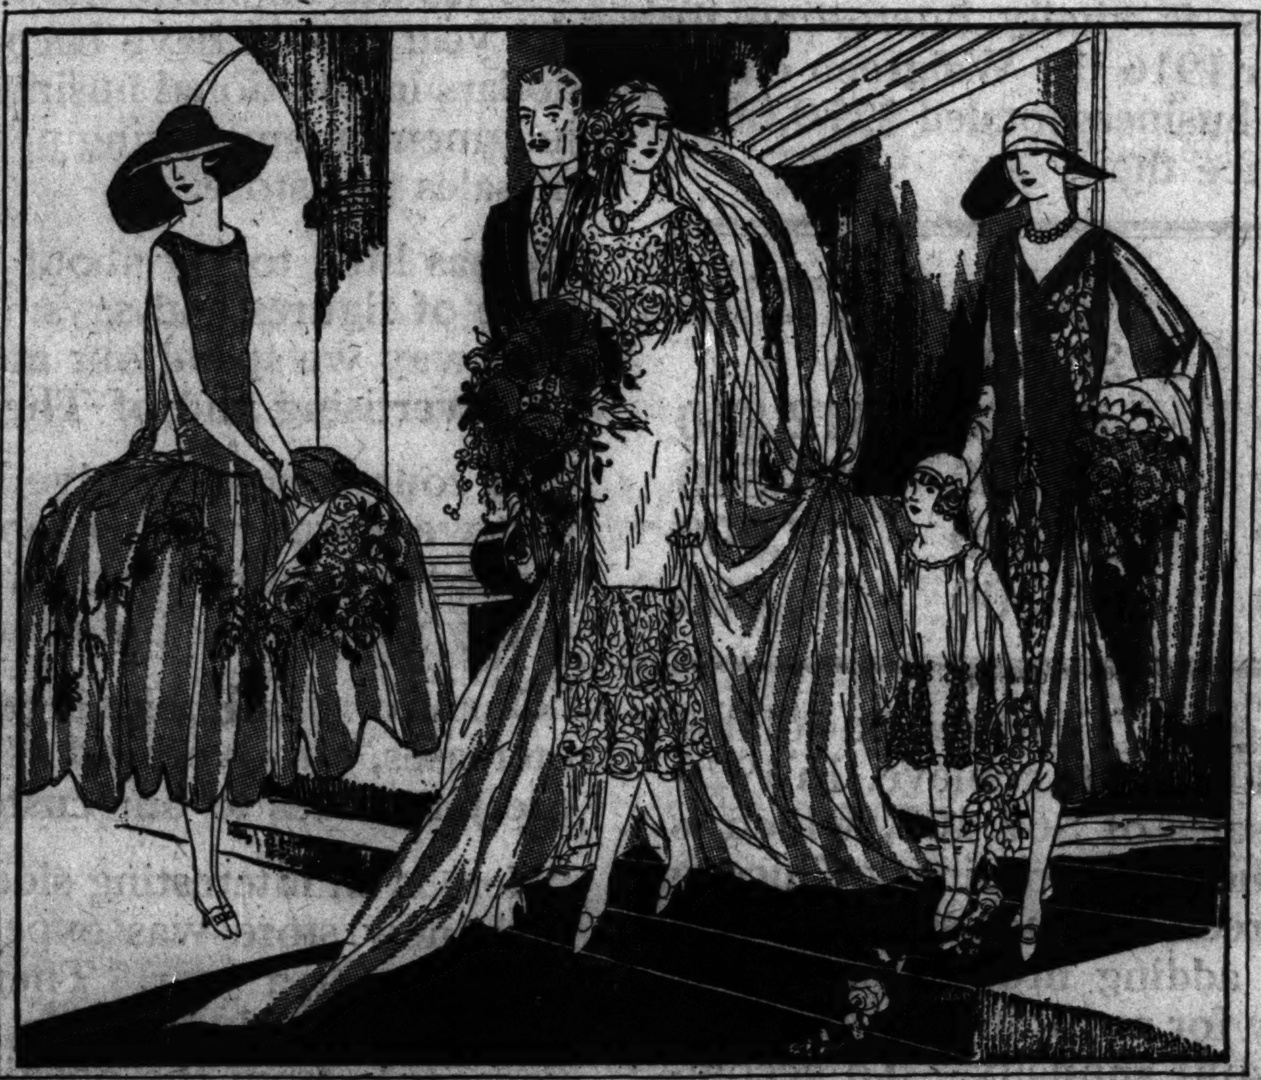
Indeed, so varied are these assortments, so all-inclusive in the weaves, that practically any plan of expenditure the bride may have set for herself may be met with great success.

In White Woolens, Charmeens and Kashmirs, $7 Yard White Flannels and Homespuns, $3.50 Yard White Broadcloths, $6 Yard

Then there is the lovely fabric called "Jeweltone," at $9.50 yard. The "Yamara" cloth, new with the season, at $7.50 yard. All these fabrics are 54 inches wide and exceedingly fine.

Vogue-Royal and Pictorial Review Patterns in a Section Conveniently Close to the Fabric Sections.

Second Floor, North.



For the Spring Bride and Her Maids
Frocks to Create a Lovely Pageantry of Color

Frocks whose stateliness and grace suggest the romantic charm of an older day interpreted in terms of modern fashion. For the bride is the frock sketched, with its deep Bertha of silvery lace. $195. For her who departs from the white frock comes one of blush-rose marquisette.

Here, too, the bride finds that each item of her trousseau has been considered with modes for every hour of her day. Smart sports frocks of flannel or colorful silks, $25 to $55. Lovely airy frocks for evening are of lace or flowery chiffons often with the long sleeves.

For the Matron of Honor—the Chiffon Frock, Sketched at Right For the Bride's Maids—Taffetas Frocks, Strewn with Pearls

An intricate pattern traces its way over the filmy panels of the frock for women. The flowing sleeves may be caught at the wrist in a knot or float in graceful panels. $150.

There is a charming elaboration on this suit. Vivid patterns of embroidery are worked on the coat of black satin, while the frock beneath is of beige colored silk with a long cascading jabot of lace. For misses. Sketched at the right. Priced, $145.

Smart Coats of Satin with Fur Serve with Many Costumes

Very important in the complete outfit are such coats as these. They are made distinctive by the rippling revers that suggest a jabot and the deep band of red fox at the bottom. Sketched at the left in the panel. For misses. $100.

Fourth Floor, North, South and East.

The Bride's Trousseau Lingerie
Of Silk, Lovely with Lace and Hand-Work

Of the finer sort, these are. Charming in design and with delightful new details of garniture—laces, unusual bandings of color, fine touches of hand-work that set them apart as for the bride. For they meet the special standards of the trousseau.

Night-Dresses of Lustrous Crepe Satin, $26.75 Envelope Chemises with Lacy Panels, $18.75

The night-dress, right center, has a yoke of lace and embroidered net—the bottom is frilled with footing. In white and pastel shades. $26.75.

The envelope chemise, at center, is also of crepe satin. Slight gathers are set into the bodice top. $18.75. Night-dress to match, $25.75.

From France Come These Beautifully Embroidered Night-Dresses of Heavy Crepe de Chine, $37.50

An unusual yoke of fine silk lace is run with narrow ribbons. Lace, too, edges the deep armholes and a tracery of embroidery trims the front of this night-dress. Sketched right. $37.50.

Graceful Negligees of Chiffon and Lace, $29.75 Negligees of Tinted Chiffons at $33.75

Third Floor, North.

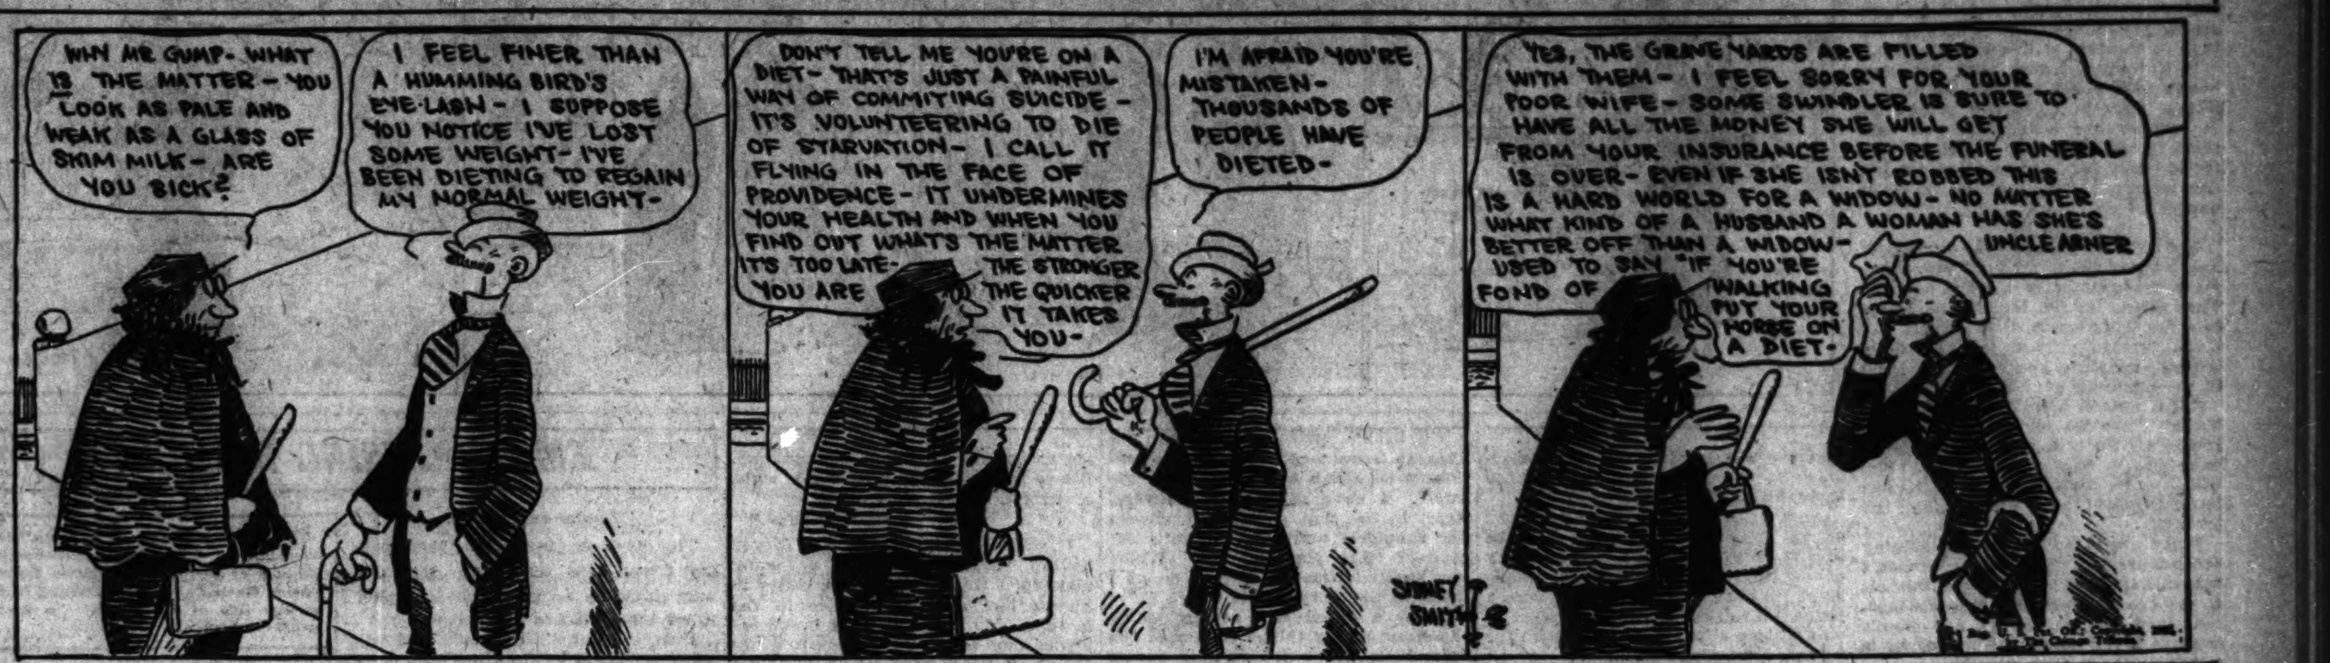
THE GUMPS—OMIT FLOWERS



WHY MR GUMP- WHAT IS THE MATTER - YOU LOOK AS PALE AND WEAK AS A GLASS OF SKIM MILK- ARE YOU SICK?
I FEEL FINER THAN A HUMMING BIRD'S EYE-LASH - I SUPPOSE YOU NOTICE I'VE LOST SOME WEIGHT- I'VE BEEN DIETING TO REGAIN MY NORMAL WEIGHT-
DON'T TELL ME YOU'RE ON A DIET- THAT'S JUST A PAINFUL WAY OF COMMITING SUICIDE - IT'S VOLUNTEERING TO DIE OF STARVATION- I CALL IT FLYING IN THE FACE OF PROVIDENCE- IT UNDERMINES YOUR HEALTH AND WHEN YOU FIND OUT WHAT'S THE MATTER IT'S TOO LATE- THE STRONGER YOU ARE THE QUICKER IT TAKES YOU-
I'M AFRAID YOU'RE MISTAKEN- THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE HAVE DIETED-
YES, THE GRAVE YARDS ARE FILLED WITH THEM - I FEEL SORRY FOR YOUR POOR WIFE- SOME SWINDLER IS SURE TO HAVE ALL THE MONEY SHE WILL GET FROM YOUR INSURANCE BEFORE THE FUNERAL IS OVER- EVEN IF SHE ISN'T ROBBED THIS IS A HARD WORLD FOR A WIDOW- NO MATTER WHAT KIND OF A HUSBAND A WOMAN HAS SHE'S BETTER OFF THAN A WIDOW- UNCLE ABNER USED TO SAY "IF YOU'RE FOND OF WALKING PUT YOUR HORSE ON A DIET."

Robert E. Pinkerton, author of "White Water," the thrilling new daily serial starting this morning, has written two previous Blue Ribbon serials for The Tribune. "Indian Blood?" published first in The Tribune, became a best seller when published later as "The Test of Donald Norton." "The Fourth Norwood" was another Blue Ribbon serial. Pinkerton's experience in the north woods has included jobs as cook on a log drive, lumberjack, trapper, fisherman and forest ranger. "White Water" is filled with the picturesque action of the north woods. It is a fascinating story of love and adventure.

WHITE WATER

BAD RIVER.

In some places Bad river deserves its name, though it is no worse than many another stream forced to traverse the great, unyielding Laurentian shield. Rivers in the vast, fertile plains of the states invariably are well mannered. There is something placid and conventional in their quiet reaches and graceful bends, in the smooth, strong flow of silent waters.

But Bad river, like its numerous fellow streams, is a shouting, swaggering rowdy. Mad, heedless, boisterous, it expends amazing energy tearing and ripping ineffectually at its granite bed, hissing past great bowlders, boiling and seething in countless eddies, hurling itself with rash courage against hills of solid stone.

Yet Bad river conforms with the land through which it finds its tumultuous way. It is rough, savage. No peaceful stream could accord with the frost splintered rocks, with the jagged outlines of the spruce ridges, with the weird gloom of the thick swamps. Bad river is not only of the north but a symbol of it.

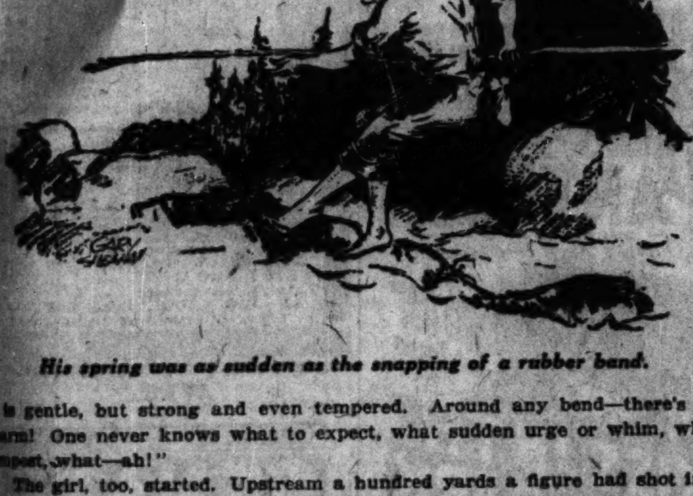
Something of this passed in a hazy, lazy manner through the mind of the girl who sat beside the stream one summer afternoon.

She did not speak of her thoughts to the man and woman just behind her, and she was startled when the woman said:

"It has all the qualities a woman loves in a man."

The girl did not move. She understood perfectly what lay behind the remark, and she knew the man would not comment.

"It is as irrepressible as youth," the woman continued, "as unconscious of its real strength. It has moods, fierce and ruthless sometimes. Up there it is gentle, but strong and even tempered. Around any bend—there's its charm! One never knows what to expect, what sudden urge or whim, what tempest, what—ah!"



His spring was as sudden as the snapping of a rubber band.

The girl, too, started. Upstream a hundred yards a figure had shot into view from behind the wall of rock and spruce around which the river turned. Its appearance was doubly startling because the man seemed to be standing on the surface of the swift water. No craft was visible. Little waves slapped over his white, bare feet.

The sun, low in the northwest, found a crevice in a huge white cloud and shot a shaft up the river, picking out the figure as does a stage spotlight. It was a golden shaft, tinged with red, and as if along its almost level beams the man came swiftly.

The stream there was strong and deep, its surface unbroken. Bad river sometimes paused to catch breath, stilled its clamor for a moment, yet even in the straight, silent places it retained a suggestion of its mercurial nature.

"He's on a log!" the girl whispered.

The man was rushing toward them. He was close enough now for the three to note details. His trousers were rolled almost to the bulge of the calf. A gray wool shirt was buttoned to the neck. Brown hair, wavy, almost curly beneath the brim, seemed to thrust a small felt hat to the back of his head. His face was undisturbed, emotionless. He was too far away for them to see his eyes, which were held by the river.

But it was his body, and its pose, that was as arresting as his sudden appearance. Grace of line, of posture, were the more striking because of complete unconsciousness and marvelous fitness. In the rushing stream, his craft so small it barely showed above the surface, he stood as unconcernedly as if on the granite bank and as motionless as a bronze cast. The log, which a rabbit's weight would have set spinning, rode as steadily as a great ship.

Straight on along the shaft of red gold light he rushed. The sun found gold in his hair and, the girl imagined, flecks of reddish brown in hazel eyes. Still he had not moved. A pole, roughly trimmed, rested on the log in front and hung loosely in one hand. But he was as motionless as is a huge cat ready to leap.

The girl was conscious that she had ceased to breathe and that the woman's breath had suddenly been expelled in an almost soundless rush of rapture.

It was beauty of a startling kind: the beauty of a man's perfect grace in body and outline, of warm colors, swift movement, mystery; a picture in a fitly savage setting, a glimpse of the reckless spirit of the wilderness. Suddenly each sensed a tensing in the other two.

"My God!" the woman whispered, hoarsely, and the girl felt strong fingers bite into her shoulder. She wanted to scream and could not.

Directly in front of where they sat, a fact she had forgotten in the savage beauty of the picture, the smooth flow of the water ceased. Great bowlders drove the current to the center, and there, with a roar and a snarl, the water leaped out and down into a caldron. Straight toward the brink the man rode his log.

He was only thirty feet away, and still he had not moved. The pole hung loosely in his right hand. The log seemed to leap ahead. In an instant he would be over the falls.

His spring was as sudden as the snapping of a rubber band, and with as little preparation. In midflight the pole was swung over to his left hand and out of the way. He alighted on a great, flat bowlder beside the cataract, crouched for a moment of recovery, and then sprang out and down, his white feet twinkling over the black rocks on shore.

In the stream his steed had turned end over end, then paused, dived, catapulted above a huge, curling wave, was now rushing through the white water of the rapids. Bad river was making a plaything of the sixteen foot log.

The man ran on, leaping from bowlder to bowlder, no two steps alike except in their flashing precision. He still held the long pole, and occasionally he glanced at the log racing beside him.

At last the rapids shot the log out into a swirling, foam cluttered eddy, but as it leaped the man's white feet touched it. For a moment they twinkled while the log spun beneath them, and then suddenly they were still. He rested one end of the pole on the forward end of his craft, let the other hang loosely from his right hand, and, again motionless, startlingly graceful, he sped on down stream.

"Did you see his shoes?" she asked in a voice hinting at hysteria.

"Of course," the man answered. "He tied them to his suspenders behind, so they would be out of the way. Couldn't ride a log with shoes unless they were corked."

"But they looked so funny, bobbing there when he ran."

Only the woman did not speak. She alone had seen what the girl had imagined—that there were reddish brown flecks in hazel eyes. She was still staring at the motionless figure down stream.

The girl, too, stared. Her hysteria was gone, but something else had taken its place, a strange, disturbing, unaccountable feeling.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Thomas J. Waringle, 320 East 53d street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What is your opinion of men's fashions of the present day?

Where Asked.

Jackson boulevard at Wabash avenue.

The Answers.

Mrs. H. S. Gray, 154 East Ontario street, housewife—I don't know what to say. I believe they are all right, except the balloon tie that one occasionally sees. I believe women generally look upon men as practical men of affairs, whatever their walk in life, and they are expected to dress in a practical way.

Mrs. Fayma Snyder, 17 East Erie street, student—They are a whole lot better than they used to be years ago, in Washington's time, when they wore lace, high collars, and knickerbockers. Both men and women are wearing sensible clothes today. The subdued colors of the men's suits this year are very pleasing.

Harry Garard, 428 17th avenue, East Moline, Ill., boilermaker—I am wearing the most approved fashion right now. Powder blue, English model, straight trousers, big cuffs; double breasted straight bottom vest round bottom coat, two buttons—the last word in looks and comfort.

Mrs. A. R. Weatherley, 5406 South Michigan avenue, housewife—I highly approve of copying the prince of Wales style. However, when the shieks carry that style to extremes they meet with anything but approval, in my opinion. I don't like flashy clothes for men; sensible conservatism is always preferable.

Miss Lois Stephens, 17 East Erie street, student—It looks to me as though men are as vain as women. I suppose they have to keep up with the women. Considering the differences in individual makeup, I suppose men's fashions of today are all right, else they wouldn't be in fashion.

Capacity Audiences Hear McCormack and Chaliapin in Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Some high points in yesterday's melodic marathon:

1. John McCormack at Orchestra hall, final appearance of the season and a request program; 180 songs listed on the program, 500 people on the stage, 1,000 or so turned away. The great tenor at the top of his form, singing as many of the 180 as time allowed before his train left; the audience unanimously willing to have him sing a few more and miss the train.

2. Feodor Chaliapin at the Auditorium, also a final appearance, in a benefit performance for a Chicago nurses' headquarters. Something like $10,000 in the house, which means a comfortable net sum for the cause. Chaliapin, following his custom of announcing his songs by number, also following his custom of magically converting a concert stage into drama by the wave of an eloquent hand and the tone of an unfailingly gorgeous bass voice.

3. Esther Dale in song recital at the Blackstone. A rather astonishing interpreter of songs possessed of a soprano voice not quite as astonishing, though pleasant.

4. Heniot Levy in piano recital at the Playhouse. A well known and highly respected artist, pedagogue, and composer of this city, playing some of his own works, also a new transcription by Leopold Godowsky of Bach's B minor sonata for violin, dedicated to the one who thus introduced it; also a Chopin group and various other specimens of the best piano literature.

5. Fritz Renk, violinist, and Otto Beyer, pianist, at the Studebaker. Heard in César Franck's great sonata for their instruments, which they played correctly though in a high degree unglowingly. Later added three more players to themselves, and to this string quintet background for the rendition of Richard Strauss' music, Alexandra Carlisle Jenkins read Tennyson's "Enoch Arden," not heard here since the late Max Heinrich used to do it with piano accompaniment.

THE HAWK

By DANE COOLIDGE

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

INSTALLMENT XXV.

THE HAWK ALMOST LOSES A PARTNER.

Cavey Hooten waved his hand, and as he passed out of sight Dull Knife Arrants came riding down the mountain side. He charged in at a gallop, his hat gone and his eyes staring, his shirt torn to shreds by the brush.

"Where you hurt?" he demanded, stepping down off his horse and advancing anxiously toward the Hawk; but as he saw their shamefaced glances he stopped in his tracks and glared at his partner accusingly.

"Oho," he said, "you've kissed and made up again, eh? Won't you ever learn nothing? What about Red Pipkins and Connolly? Didn't I tell you, all the time, she was making a fool out of you? And she led you right spang into their ambush!"

"I did not!" denied Anita, indignantly.

"You did, too!" retorted Dull Knife. "I knowed what you was up to—you can't fool me with them sighs and smiles. And saying all the time you'd never forgive him if he had the crust to kill Old Cheaters!"

He laughed derisively, and the Hawk spoke up.

"I didn't kill Cheaters," he said.

"Well, who did, then?" demanded Dull Knife. "You was certainly right up there and trying."

"I'll admit that," answered the Hawk; "but Cavey Hooten was up on the wall, and he beat me to it by a hair. He just hollered down and said so."

"Well, good for Cavey!" said Dull Knife, approvingly.

"Yes, and I don't think it's fair," went on the Hawk, "to say that Miss Morgaridge was responsible. I mean for Pipkins and Connolly—they must have been sent out by Cheaters."

"Yes, and she was sent out by Cheaters," burst out Dull Knife, angrily. "But I see I'm about as popular around here as a wet dog at a wedding, so I'm going to quit you—right—now!"

He stepped up on his horse and sat staring up at the mountain side where the posse was gathered in a knot.

"Well, anyhow," he observed, "we broke Ben Snipes of a danged bad habit."

"What was that?" inquired the Hawk.

"Killing people," replied Dull Knife, grimly. "But I reckon you're hopeless, so we'll have to let you live. Well, here's where I lose a good pardner."

He swung down from the horn and held out his hand, but the Hawk met his staring eyes gravely.

"No, you don't," he said; "not if I lose my girl by it. I'm your pardner, and always will be."

"Nope. You quit me, back there, like a beef steer heading for water, and I reckon you'll do it again."

"I was wrong," confessed the Hawk, "and you saved my life, Dull Knife. I couldn't shoot, pinned under that hawse."

"Well, you're welcome," grumbled Dull Knife, "but don't do anything rash. You'd better talk this over with—her."

He glanced back at Anita, who was watching him angrily, and threw the spurs into his horse.

"See you later," he said, and dashed off.

"O, I just hate that man!" cried Anita, passionately. "He—said I was sent out—on purpose."

"Well, you were," answered the Hawk; "but, of course, it wasn't your fault—you were trying to save my life."

"Yes, but he practically said I was trying to get you killed, and—and you shook hands with him after that!"

"He's excited," said the Hawk; "you don't understand. But I'll shake hands with Dull Knife any time."

"Then you won't shake hands with me!" declared Anita, rebelliously. "He's nothing but a big murdering brute!"

"Very well, then," flared back the Hawk. "But I'll never quit my pardner. You don't know what a good man he is."

For a moment she stood staring at him, her dark eyes flashing with resentment, and then she bowed her head.

"O, Dove," she pleaded, "please don't quarrel with me now. You're hurt, and I came to help you. Just lean on my shoulder and let me lift you into the buckboard—you know that I love you, don't you?"

"I certainly hope so," responded the Hawk, putting his arm about her shoulder and hobbling toward the buckboard, "but——"

"We'll talk it over later," she soothed. Then, with a strength he had not suspected, she lifted him up into the seat and started the restive grays. They went flying up the road, and as the gray sagebrush flitted past them she drew closer to the Hawk and sighed.

"Now tell me about Dull Knife," she said.

"You haven't heard," he began, "about the fight back there, when Red Pipkins and Connolly tried to kill me. That's why you don't understand about Dull Knife. We quarreled—you heard us—when I promised to go back with you; but Dull Knife didn't hold it against me. He followed along behind me, and waited. I came over that last ridge, and there, right below me, were two men aiming to shoot. I didn't have time to move, but just as they pulled the trigger my hawse threw up his head. The bullet killed him instead."

"O, Dove," she cried, clutching his arm apprehensively. "Why didn't you tell me before?"

"Why, we quarreled before I could," answered the Hawk.

"I'll never quarrel again," promised Anita, after a silence. "But you were going to tell me about Dull Knife."

"He heard the shots," continued the Hawk, "and he knew just what had happened—only, I suppose, he thought I was dead. But I was pinned under my hawse, and my pistol was lost, and every time I reached oveh to try and get my gun Red Pipkins and Connolly would shoot. They were running up to finish me when here came Dull Knife oveh the hill, and—well, he killed both of 'em right there. That's why I say he's my friend."

"O, did Dull Knife kill both of them?" she cried. "Then you didn't kill anybody, did you?"

She stopped the grays to give him a kiss and then an ecstatic hug. "O, I'm so glad," she said. "I'm so glad and, just think—you didn't kill anybody!"

"Neveh did," admitted the Hawk. "Started out to more than once, but something always happened to prevent it."

"But, now that it's all over, aren't you glad that Dull Knife did it? There's no use pretending—I know you are!"

"Yes, I'm glad," he said; "but not if Dull Knife gets all the blame. We started out to——"

"O, I'll be nice to Dull Knife," she promised. "I'm so happy I just love everybody. The next time I see him I'm going to give him a big kiss—for saving your life and everything."

She glanced up at him laughing, and the Hawk smiled back grimly.

"No, you can give me the kiss," he said.

Camp Fire Girls to Open Conferences Here Today

Charles Robbins, president of the Chicago council of Camp Fire Girls, will extend the welcome of the local branch of the organization to the guardians and executives gathered for the national conference, which opens this morning at the Congress hotel. Mrs. Morris Shafroth of the national board of directors will preside. The grand council fire, the main event of the week, will be held this evening at Orchestra hall, and will be open to the public. Ceremonials of the Camp Fire organization will be presented by 250 girls, with 500 more in ceremonial gowns occupying the balcony and assisting in the songs.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

THEATER

Although the actors' union, like love in "Pinafore," levels all ranks, some actors are not as good as others, and the cast sometimes has a deal to do with what is written down as a play. . . . The case of "Sally, Irene, and Mary" is pertinent, so far as I know. I didn't see the piece when it was made known here, early last season, in the Great Northern; but my immediate predecessor in reporting the drama, a kindly and a lenient gentleman, broke down and cried like Clarence Darrow in a jury-trial when told by the managing-editor that the usages of print and the decent character of THE TRIBUNE combined to thwart him in his desire to say what he felt about the show. Although thus put upon and frustrated, he did pretty well, I remember, and, while keeping within the law and the proprieties, wrote lines that made a sinecure of the box office job in the Great Northern.

Encountering "Sally, Irene, and Mary" last night for the first time, I descried in it no reason for rage. It was a pleasant, artless, rambling little cantata about the translation of three nice, dancing, dirty-faced kids from Cherry Hill to Murray Hill via Broadway theaters bearing such patrician names as the Vanderbilt, the Knickerbocker, and the New-Amsterdam. A theater-man picks them up, a dramatist writes rôles for them, and in four years each is in receipt of the statutory thousand dollars a week. Yes; and Jimmie Dugan, who always danced with Mary when the organ-grinder played and loved her so much that he gave his apple-cores to her, turns plumber, goes into politics, buys a Ford, drives over to Broadway to call on her, and wins her from a chap with a Rolls-Royce, although Sally mates with a chap named Percy and Irene with one named Clarence. Yes; and Mary's mother and Sally's mother put on airs and try to ritz Jimmie's mother, who reminds them that they shared with her a single clothes-line for the Monday wash. Yes; and other things in kind.

"Sally, Irene, and Mary" was for many months a prosperous entertainment in New-York, whose inhabitants have explained that Chicago needed Mr. Eddie Dowling and the original cast in order fully to understand the piece. And here in the Garrick are Mr. Dowling, Miss Louise Brown, and many others who, if not original, are at least as good as those who were original need to have been. . . .

Mr. Dowling plays his sentimental plumber as an amiable, earnest young hick, and doesn't appear to be exerting himself as he makes good. Miss Brown, the Sally, does a pas-seul more skillfully and engagingly than Miss Marilynn Miller did hers in "Sally": and Miss Brown is lovely to observe. D. J. Sullivan gives a racy sketch of an old stage-doorman; and Mrs. Dugan is acted to the nines by the veteran who has carried through many an operetta, good and bad, the fine old Irish name of Josie Intropidi. . . . And so on, with pleasant songs and dances here-and-there, including a comic quartet, with witty hoofing in the olden manner, by the stage-doorman, the night-watchman, and two dressers who once had been in the chorus.

This-and-That of the Stage.

Miss Laurette Taylor and John Drew are to be in the cast of "Trelawney of the Wells" in a revival soon to be put on in New-York by the Players, who have taken to doing something in this line annually. The Players is the club endowed by Edwin Booth: its place is in Gramercy Park, far from the present theater-district; and its members have ever aimed to maintain an attitude of uppity as opposed to the gay traditions of the Lambs. . . . Miss Taylor is to be Rose Trelawney, the rôle acted in the first American performances by Miss Mary Mannering. (Miss Barrymore afterward acted the part in a brief revival.) Mr. Drew is to be Sir William Gower, first acted here by Charles Walcott. . . . Miss Hilda Spong, the late E. J. Morgan, William Courtleigh, and the late Harry Woodruff were other members of that first cast, which, I recall, gave a bully performance. I am of the belief that the late John Mason took over Mr. Morgan's part when the comedy was given in Chicago.

Douglas Fairbanks is said to have made an offer of $100,000 for a play recently shown in New-York, "Cape Smoke," on condition that the name be changed to "The Witch-Doctor." . . . The easy guess is that his offer (if made) is for the screen-rights; for the play is not classified among the season's successes.

This Picture Made by One Little Player

'Dangerous Innocence' Is Otherwise Bit Stodgy.

"DANGEROUS INNOCENCE."
Produced by Universal.
Directed by William Seiter.
Presented at the Randolph theater.

THE CAST:

Ann	Laura La Plante
Maj. Seymour	Eugene O'Brien
Ann's Mother	Hedda Hopper
Her Father	William Humphreys
A Horrid Man	Jean Hersholt

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The nicest thing about this picture is Laura La Plante. She is just charming all the way through—hasn't one unnatural moment nor one unpretty moment. Which, I should say, is rather handing the lady a bouquet!

"Ann's An Idiot," by Pamela Wynne, furnished the inspiration for the picture. The author's title is intriguing, and to me the film name is not. I'm not sure I'd be especially keen about the picture if Miss La Plante hadn't shed the right of her presence upon it. But she did—and I am—rather—for just that reason.

Ann, a naive and unsophisticated product of English schools where she has just completed her education, is dispatched by her aunt, who for years has carefully guarded her that she may remain untouched by the world, on the S. S. Carpathia to join her parents in Bombay.

On the voyage she completely loses her heart to a certain Maj. Seymour. The major, discovering her to be the daughter of the woman with whom he had once carried on a short but desperate flirtation that ended abruptly upon her telling him that she was married and had a daughter, [illegible] even though he is mad about her.

But Ann will not be eluded. She follows him with the persistency and adoration of a little dog and, finally, through her almost unbelievable innocence, gets him tangled up in a situation that makes the major realize that he must ask her to marry him if her reputation is to remain untarnished.

He is rapturously accepted.

The announcement of the engagement, however, meets with no rapture from the mother, clinging jealously to a vanishing youth and [illegible] to her own charms. Ann's father, however, though he knows about the bygone affair, understands his wife and sees no reason why, if after six months Ann and her major feel the same, they should not have each other.

Ann and the major agree to wait the period named—unengaged so far as the world shall know.

In the meantime a poisonous chap who has known of the affair between the mother and the major gets in some work that—well—see the picture for the rest of the story.

I found Mr. O'Brien's major a rather chill and tiresome proposition; Jean Hersholt's horrible buttinsky is a good characterization and William Humphreys as the father is nice. Hedda Hopper has little to do that suits her. Photography, etc., are all right. BUT—— Little Miss Laura La Plante MAKES the picture. Congratulations to her on a most exquisite bit of work!

CLOSEUPS.

Warner Brothers are now dickering with Richard Tauber for the light opera, "The Waltz King." If terms are reached Ernst Lubitsch will direct.

Another novel of modern youth has been bought for screen purposes. "The Plastic Age," by Percy Marks, is now being adapted by Schulberg Productions.

Mrs. Dever to Preside at Girls' Booth at Fair

Mrs. William E. Dever, who has been actively interested in [illegible] this week, will have charge of the Girls' Week Federation booth at the Woman's World's Fair today.

Looks as if Woman Is a Poor Loser in Most Games of Life

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Are we women the poor losers stock brokers accuse us of being?

We are not welcome in the stock market for the simple reason that we are women—and willing to take advantage of the fact should losses arise.

If a woman trades with her husband's money she is not liable for her losses. Her husband can bring suit to recover her losses, and 'tis said there is no broker who would not prefer to repay her losses and return her her margin rather than go to court over it.

Not only are women considered poor losers but they are credited with being mean troublemakers into the bargain. They swing on the broker and blame him for their losses, even though the stock reports printed in their daily papers exonerate him from any hand in the misfortune.

"If a woman loses," says a Chicago broker, "it's no one's fault but the broker's. Such a woman can cause more gossip than twenty men. She will shout to high heaven that she has been trimmed and she'll name the broker."

There are a few bright and shining exceptions, however—a few women's accounts that are regarded as desirable as are the accounts of reputable business men, but, as a rule, a woman's account is not wanted, because she is a woman and a poor loser.

In a recent investigation on the divorce problem, judges all over the country were canvassed. They report that three-quarters of the divorce cases are started by women. Some report the percentage of the divorces obtained by women as high as 90.

That looks as if they're not game losers in another market, doesn't it? The alimony they fight for might be taken as another count against woman's ability to take her losses standing. We have heard judges say, too, that the women with the least grievances, matrimonially speaking, ask the highest alimony.

Another procedure in which our sex shows poor sportsmanship is the breach of promise suit. To my way of thinking, this is the cheapest female sport we have among us. If I were a judge, I'd run out of court any woman who'd come seeking financial balm for a broken marriage troth.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Acts Like a Flirt.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a fellow, 18, and I am going with a girl two years my junior. I love this girl very much, but at times I feel indifferent toward her, because, although she seems to be affectionate to me when I am around, I have been told by different fellows that she kisses any fellow that would ask her for one and she likes to attract other fellow's attentions when she is talking to me in the street. I have mentioned it several times to her, but she merely shrugs her shoulders and asks, 'What's the matter? Are you jealous?' Would you kindly advise me what to do, as I love this girl very much? W. B."

If she is indiscreet in her actions on the street, doing things to attract the other boys, they will look upon her as a flirt and treat her as one, feeling she deserves no better treatment. Try to point this out to her, assuring her it is not from a jealous motive, but because you are really fond of her and wish to see her respected by all her friends.

Best to Give In.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young woman of 22 years and have been married three years. My husband is 24 and good looking. He won't let me bob my hair or use any makeup except powder. All my girl friends tell me to cut my hair and use makeup. Please tell me if my husband is right or wrong. He is good to me. "EVELYN."

If your husband disapproves of you having your hair bobbed or using makeup, I think it would be better to humor him and keep peace in the family. You would not get much enjoyment out of a bob if it were to cause friction in the home, and as you have to live with your husband and not your friends, it is better to please him, don't you think? If he is good to you you can afford to give in to him on this point, Evelyn. He may overcome his objections to it later on.

Parish Young Men's Dance.

The young men of St. George's parish will give an entertainment and dance Wednesday evening at the parish hall, 3917 South Wells street.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Looks and Looks.

The other day my not so good looking friend was telling me that she was going to a certain photographer to have her picture taken.

Believe me, there's a case where a two meaning phrase was taken the wrong way, that is, judging by the look she gave me. L. P.

Dentist Suffers, Too.

My most embarrassing moment occurred recently while having some dental work done. Being nervous, I imagined every operation to be a great deal worse than it really was, and every nerve seemed tense.

I was forced to relax, however, when my dentist bravely smiled and said: "I don't mind how hard you bite my finger as long as you don't bite it off."

Unconsciously I had been biting his finger, and he had evidently stood it as long as he was able. G. O.

Both Were Surprised.

My father owns a tobacco store, and after school I sometimes help him, attending to the customers and taking care of the shop when he is out.

One day as I was reading in the back of the store, the little bell on the shop door rang, and when I looked up I saw a shabbily dressed man standing by the counter.

I thought he was a beggar, and I went to the cash register to take out a few pennies to give him, but you can imagine my embarrassment when, upon my offering him the money, he smiled and said, "No girlie, thank you, I want to buy half a pound of tobacco." E. A. H.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Stuffing Pies.

C. H. Conklin, who has been sending me welcome first hand information about Pennsylvania Dutch cooking, has just now sent me a description of "Stuffing Pies." The following would be more interesting if the long letter that came with the recipe could be quoted entire, with its list of incidents and a little essay on the digestive powers of the boys of seventy years ago and those of their out of door living elders.

The stuffing used for these pies is labeled as one for roast goose or duck. It is mashed potato colored to a nice golden yellow with egg yolk and containing finely chopped onions. The dough used for the pies is potpie dough, "not spongy, but flat and heavy." Roll out to the size and thickness of a common dinner plate, then place the potato filling on half of the disk, making it not less than an inch thick. Fold the other half over and crimp the edges, making a regular turnover pie of it.

Do not cut vent slits in the dough. Gently drop the pies into boiling water and boil till dough is done. Remove from water with a skimmer and place on a platter, then pour over the pies as much browned butter as will suit your taste and pocketbook and serve.

Mr. Conklin tells a tale about his grandmother's visit to one of her daughters who had six children, and before she could get her wraps off these children began to dance and yell, "Grandma is here; goody! Goody! Now we will have some stuffing pies!"

Foreign Consuls Are Important Part of Society in Chicago

BY NANCY R——.

What an interesting and valuable addition to Chicago society is formed by the little group of foreign consuls and their families, lent us, as it were, by the other nations of the world! And what an important part they play in Chicago's social and sociable life during the time they are here.

From Scandinavia have come two sets of our most delightful consulate guests—the Carlo de Dardelles, who, with their two lovely young daughters, have taken up their abode at 1317 North State street, and who are gay and much sought after, not only as the representatives of Sweden but for their charming selves; and the Raymond Balmans, who have come hither from Denmark. Their ménage at 87 East Elm street is the rendezvous for many smart and cosmopolitan gatherings.

M. Antonin Barthelemy, the French consul general, and his wife and daughter, who have been in Chicago for some years now, have fitted into a most popular niche here, and are always carrying on with the things that keep Chicago the wide-awake, up and coming burg it is. The French vice consul and his wife, the Henri Didots, have also taken an interested part in our little whirl.

Col. H. A. Richards, consul general for Great Britain, has been in England all winter on leave, but there may be double cause for rejoicing on his return to us this spring, for it's possible his wife will accompany him, to make Chicago her home.

Then there are such other attractive young men as Bojidar Pouritch, the consul for Jugo-Slavia; John Popovici, who held the Roumanian post until late this winter, and who left for Washington with a host of friends here regretting his going, and R. Antonio de la Cruz, representative for us of sunny Spain.

Signor Leopold Zunini, consul general for Italy, lends us far less of his time, socially speaking, than did three of his predecessors—Count Giulio Bolognesi, who with his charming wife, the former Rosa Garibaldi, will probably have an apartment here for next winter; the long, languid, good looking Signor Lodi Fé, who was captivated with American and English life and ways; and Signor Guido Sabbetta, the consul here some ten or fifteen years ago, a great friend of Hobart Chatfield-Taylor's, and the man who really started the vogue for foreign consuls in Chicago.

Day's News in Society

The Bryn Mawr college music department and auditorium will benefit by a performance of "Latch Keys," a staircase play by Miss Alice Gerstenberg, to be given on May 1 at the residence of Mrs. William H. Scriven of 104 Bellevue place. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Herman M. Adler, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Richard Bentley, Mrs. John L. Cochran Jr., Miss Clarissa Donnelley, Mrs. Stephen Gregory, Miss Gerstenberg, Mrs. William B. Hale, Miss Harriet Houghteling, and Miss Janet Paulding. The cast for the play will include Mrs. Hempstead Washburne, Mrs. Russell Barnitz, Miss Helen Gilbert, Miss Florence Harris, Hempstead Washburne, Loring Coleman, and Ernst von Ammon.

The Junior Friends of Art will hold their annual spring meeting at 2:30 o'clock today at the Blackstone hotel, according to an announcement by the president, Miss Olga Menn. The engaged girls who are members of the organization, Miss Anna Cusack, Miss Martha Ericcson, Miss Helen Hopkins, and Miss Elizabeth Teich, are to be special guests. The program will include vocal solos by Miss Olga Cook and Lucius Metz, a monologue by John McMahill Jr., and a spring style show by some of the smart modistes.

Mrs. George Halleck Taylor, who has returned from a sojourn in the east, announces the annual sale of sweaters, hats, and sport clothes at the White Elephant Rummage shop on Wednesday. Mrs. Charles G. LeForgee will be in charge, and will be assisted by Mrs. Thomas Cowles, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. James E. Baum Jr., Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Howard Bartling, Miss Dorothy Marston, and Miss Helen Gurley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour of 1300 Sheridan road and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner of Lake Forest were among the Chicago passengers sailing from New York for France on Saturday.

Mrs. A. Volney Foster of Lake Forest has returned from a short trip to New York City.

Mrs. Maude Radford Warren, a former Chicagoan, is at the Fortnightly club during her week's stay in the city as the guest of the Woman's World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Simpson of 219 Lake Shore drive have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Hale Hamilton of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Fetzer of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to John Hulbert Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parmelee Sherman of Troy, N. Y. No date has been set for the wedding. The announcement was made at a luncheon on Saturday at the Drake hotel for members of Miss Fetzer's sorority, Alpha Phi.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Perry Belmont will open her house at 1618 New Hampshire avenue for a bridge and mah jong party Thursday afternoon. This will be the first time this season that Mrs. Belmont's ballroom has been used for entertainment, and the courtesy has been given to the Woman's National Democratic club.

Delegates to the D. A. R. convention, delegates returning from the League of Women Voters' convention in Richmond, and those coming to the quinquennial conference of the International Council of Women will attend.

Mrs. Fred A. Britten, wife of Representative Britten, had a company of six at luncheon at the Shoreham yesterday.

Mrs. Milton J. Boucher gave a bridge tea Friday afternoon in her apartment at the Woburn, in compliment to Miss Peggy Fuller and Miss Sally Maack of Chicago, who are the house guests of Col. and Mrs. Lawson Mayo Fuller.

Regarding Cigarets for Women from the Beauty Standpoint

by Antoinette Donnelly

Sticking straight to the beauty side of things—leaving the moral question out for the time being, if there is one—is cigaret worth it?

If you say it is, then that's your business. Mine to tell you what to do about the consequent discolored teeth and nicotine stained fingers and other unlovely defects due to the habit.

Yellow finger tips are a blemish, no question about that. To avoid them the only sure and certain way is to use a cigaret holder. If this does not appeal, you will have to give your hands regular attention to keep the stains away. Pumice stone is useful, if used regularly and before the stain is too marked. Once it is ingrained more drastic treatment must be resorted to. A strong solution of peroxide of hydrogen should be rubbed on with a tiny piece of cotton wool. Let it stay on for five minutes, and then rinse off with cold water. A still stronger measure is to mix pumice stone and peroxide, dip a nail brush into the mixture, and scrub.

If you let cigaret smoke circle around fingers freshly enameled or varnished it will turn the varnish to a dusky brown.

Brushing the teeth with ordinary dentifice will not remove smoke stains. You must use a bleaching patse of peroxide of hydrogen mixed with precipitated chalk until a paste is formed, apply, and let it remain on a few minutes. Then brush thoroughly. The too frequent use of this is not recommended. It's hard on the tooth enamel.

To remove that clinging smell from the hair the best you can do is to brush it well, adding a drop of perfumed brilliantine to the brush.

Smoke when you are hungry and your digestion troubles begin!

Keep at it long enough and you develop a husky, irritable, and generally uncomfortable feeling about the throat.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MOTHER: YES, CROSSED EYES may be straightened in the young without glasses. It would be well for you to take your little boy to a specialist and let him advise what should be done.

PEARL G.: RED LIDS ARE DUE to using the eyes in a poor light, reading in street cars or on trains, or in bed if the light is not properly adjusted. The light should be placed so as to come directly over the left shoulder. Again, they may be due to long, late hours.

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Words of Warning.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A young man with a lavender suit containing a red stripe writes for advice in picking the rest of his outfit to go with the suit. For him and others who have similar suits, the following words of warning are issued. A suit of this coloring takes extreme care in the combining of accessories. A dark blue suit, for instance, is more or less foolproof so far as the arranging of colors is concerned, because it is so simple in itself. But when you get into lavender and red, you've got to use caution.

Of course, the lavender used in suits is one of those indefinite colors which look almost as much gray or powder blue as lavender, but with red in it there is an elaborate start towards a color scheme which will not permit of the adding of many other colors. It is best to stick to white or light gray shirts, with the ties containing no other colors than red, gray, dark blue, or some shade of lavender or purple, and by all means not all these colors at once. I advise that no green, brown, or tan be allowed into the color schemes.

A possible scheme would be white shirt, and striped tie of navy blue and red. Or a foulard tie of red with tiny blue figure would be possible. A light gray shirt with tie of lavender and gray could be worn. It is not necessary to have red in the tie at all.

E. G. wants to know if he can wear a light blue-gray top coat at the age of 43, or if such a coat is for youth only. Does E. G. actually think he is old? He can wear a blue-gray for many years to come, provided it is a becoming color to him.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mother Tells Problem.

"I have reached the stage where I don't know which way to turn. We have five children of school age, girls 9, 7, 6, and boys 13 and 11, and I have been forced to keep them at home from school part of the time lately because of lack of clothing. It takes all my husband can earn to buy the food and pay for the grocery bills. Am I asking too much to ask for drapes or curtains, as well as clothing for the children? Everything is so bare. Thank you for anything you may be able to do for us. "W. C. B."

This mother has a real problem to keep her home together and to make ends meet. She will be willing to call for anything you may wish to donate.

Stroller Much Needed.

"I wonder if any one in your column has a stroller to pass on to me? I cannot afford to buy one although I need it badly to take my baby to the infant welfare. I shall be glad to call for one if it is offered. C. J."

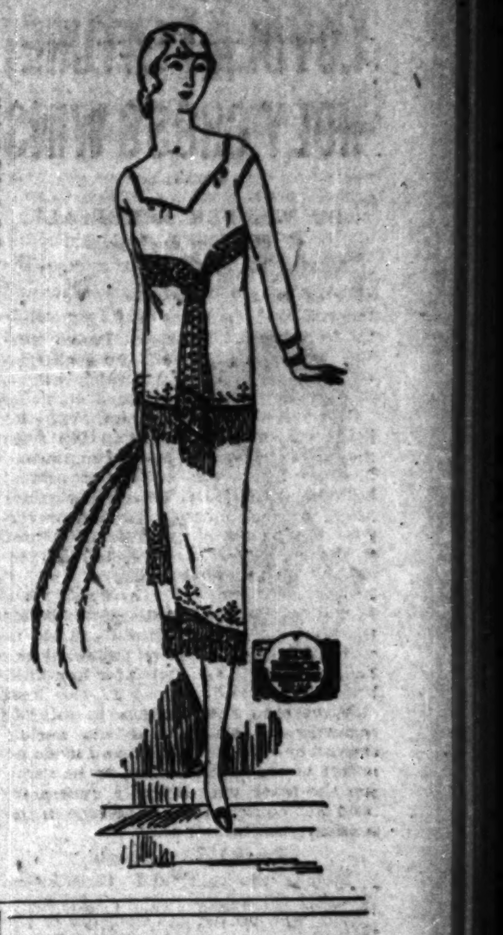
Patou Calls This Dinner Gown "Recamier"

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—It was a long time ago that we took the "direct" out of "directoire." Direct! Nowadays we approach the delicate theme in just about the same spirit as a wife confides to her husband the cost of her Easter costume or as a husband prepares his wife for the little evenings of cards "with the boys." The designers always do a great deal of faltering and clearing their throats when they attempt the high waist line of either the empire or directorie periods. Nevertheless, they keep on stammering, and each season presents us with some temporized account of these periods.

Patou, in creating the dinner frock sketched here, which he dubs "Recamier," has been on the whole much more intrepid than the usual adventurer with that line that causes so many women to blanch and quail. He has reproduced for you the long, graceful line of the great French beauty's epoch, and he has given you in the adorable short sleeves and in the neck line a faithful replica of Mme. Recamier's mode. Only the fringe and embroidery at the hip line are a concession to popular prejudice.

The frock is made of white satin. Its draped skirt is fringed in beads—violet, pink, green, and clear crystal—and this fringe is repeated at the hip line and as a finish for the knotted band defining the empire high waist. This band is of self-material, sprinkled with beads of identical colorings, and the beads are again utilized in a delicate tracery of embroidery.

NURMI VICTOR IN LOYOLA FEATURE; HOLY CROSS WINS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

LLOYD HAHN.

Making his first outdoor appearance in America under adverse weather and running conditions, Paavo Nurmi, the sensational Finnish runner, defeated his countryman, Willie Ritola, in the 3,000 meter run, feature of the first annual set of relay games of Loyola university held in Grant park stadium yesterday.

The flying Finn, who permitted his countryman to lead and break the wind for him until next to the final lap, covered the distance in 8:49 2-5, considerably slower than his world's record of 8:22. In fact, Nurmi made no effort to crack the record, as he came on the track with a heavy undershirt and was content to win the race in the easiest possible manner.

Track Heavy, Rough.

Despite the cold and threatening weather the majority of the 5,000 spectators who braved the elements to see Nurmi were rewarded with a pleasing exhibition. The heavy rain of the early morning had left the course in soft condition and when Nurmi appeared for the race, the pole course was badly cut up. In fact, he shook his head in protest as he came out to warm up and it then was apparent he would make no effort to better any records.

At the crack of the pistol Ritola went into the lead and Nurmi followed directly behind him. He permitted Willie to break the strong wind which blew from the north and down the back stretch. Nurmi was content to hold this position until there were two laps to go. On next to the last lap he passed Ritola on the north turn and started to pull away until he was fully twenty yards in advance of Willie when the finish line was crossed. He was given a rousing cheer by the crowd and presented with a floral wreath, but he absolutely refused to pose for pictures. He simply gathered in his outside running togs and went to his dressing quarters. Other runners in the event, including Basil Irwin of the Newark A. C., dropped out of the race and Nurmi and Ritola were the only starters to finish.

Scholz Flashes Speed.

Jackson Scholz, the former University of Missouri sprinter, who is competing for the New York A. C., chalked up the best performance of the day when he won the special 100 yard dash in :09 4-5. In winning the event he defeated Cyril Coaffee of the I. A. C., one of the joint holders of the world's record for the event, by at least four yards. Hermansen of the C. A. A. was third.

Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. defeated Jimmy Connolly of Georgetown university in the special one mile race after an interesting contest. After Joie Ray of the I. A. C. had dropped out of the event at the end of the first lap because of a pulled tendon, Hahn and Connolly settled down to a great battle. They alternated in taking the lead, but in the dash for the tape after rounding the last turn Hahn had more reserve and won by four yards in 4:34 4-5.

Plant Wins Walk.

Willie Plant of the Morningside A. C., one of the world's leading walkers, gave a sparkling exhibition of his ability by winning the three mile event in comparatively easy fashion. His walking form was faultless and he covered the distance in 22:09. Ugo Frigerio, the Italian pedestrian, failed to put in an appearance and officials of the promoting institution announced he was taken sick in New York last week and will sail for Italy in the near future.

In the special one mile relay between Holy Cross and Georgetown, the former won after one of the best relay races seen in this section in years. The teams alternated in taking the lead and on the final relay Asher of Georgetown had a yard advantage on Tierney, the last Holy Cross runner. They held back until they rounded the final turn for the dash to the tape. Tierney had just a little too much in reserve and beat Asher to the tape by a yard in the fast time of 3:26 1-5.

Oregon Aggies Beat Marquette.

The Oregon Aggies, who won the four mile event in the Kansas relays last Saturday, had little trouble to defeat Marquette over the same distance yesterday. The western quartet won by nearly a lap or a quarter of a mile, while Georgetown was the victor over Marquette in a two mile relay.

In the high school relays, Loyola won two races, Marquette one, and St. Ignatius the other. De Paul, strengthened by Rosen and Stephenson of the I. A. C., won the two college relays, while Marquette took two races in the university division.

About 5,000 track and field enthusiasts saw the event which would have attracted at least 20,000 had the weather been favorable.

Short Skirts and Cameras Worry British Net Body

[Copyright: 1925: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 19.—Brevity of skirts worn by young tennis players, rigidity of views held by elder ones and enterprise of press photographers of late years has presented a problem to lawn tennis authorities in England. The problem has been solved in case of British hard court championships just concluded at Torquay by a total banning of the camera man.

Peoria Three Eyes Club Trims Illinois Giants

Peoria, Ill., April 19.—Bill Rodgers' Peoria Tractors made it two straight over the Illinois Giants of Chicago here this afternoon, 6 to 2. Gardner, a big righthander from the Eastern league, twirled six rounds for the winners and allowed but three hits.

ATHLETES HAMPERED BY INSECURE FOOTING; SUMMARIES OF MEET

INSECURE footing hampered athletes in every event of the Loyola university relays at Grant park yesterday. The participants in the field events, particularly the high jumpers and pole vaulters, were unable to make creditable performances due to the poor condition of the field. The case of Harold Osborn of the I. A. C. is especially noteworthy, the tri-color star just being able to clear the bar at 5 feet 5 inches. The complete summaries follow:

WEST DIVISION.

McKinley at Marshall.
Austin at Crane.
Tuley at Harrison.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

There will have to be plenty of rain to dampen the ardor of ten high school teams which are anxiously awaiting the opening of the City Public High school baseball season this afternoon. If the weather man is not unkind, the south and west sections of the circuit will blast open their schedules, two games being booked in the former division and three in the latter.

Practice games have scarcely divulged the strength of any of the nines which make their initial bow today, and so each entertains high hope of finishing the season with a sectional title or, even better, the city championship, which means the honor of representing Chicago against New York's best prep aggregation. Last year Schurz captured the city crown and beat the Gotham champ to climax the season.

Bowen Faces Morgan Park.

Bowen, which predominates in the south section, appears the class of its division. The Boilermakers will face Morgan Park in the opener, while Parker tackles Calumet. In the west Austin and Crane should furnish an interesting battle. Other west section games will bring together McKinley and Marshall and Tuley and Harrison.

Probably the biggest of the opening games will take place tomorrow afternoon when the north section swings into line. Schurz, 1924 title holder, will mix with Lane Tech in what is expected to be the biggest game of the division. Intensive rivalry exists between the Techs and northwest siders, the sectional title always shifting from one to the other.

Both Have Good Records.

Lane has finished a long, strenuous practice siege with but one defeat, while Schurz has gone through its preliminary games in easy style. The Techs have two dependable hurlers in Thorp and Sommerfield, but last year's champ depends largely on the able arm of Simpson.

The Catholic league tomorrow enters the second round with four games, and two division B Suburban league contests are also carded.

HOPPE, LIKE U. S., AWAITS PROMISE OF FRENCH COIN

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Willie Hoppe, the former world's 18.2 balkline champion, who was here today, said he was anxious to make the trip to France to take part in the proposed special billiard match which would bring together himself, young Jake Schaefer, Roger Conti and Edouard Horemans, but he would insist upon a guarantee. He said as yet neither he nor Schaefer had received an answer from their demand of $2,500 each and expenses for the trip. Hoppe still is on tour with Schaefer and his present schedule, he said, would keep him busy until early next month.

It also was disclosed Schaefer, in the event he does not go to Europe, may join Hoppe in meeting the players who finish among the first four in the three-cushion league.

121 WILL SEEK U. S. MARATHON CROWN TODAY

Boston, Mass., April 19.—Long distance runners of many nationalities, from Canada and from many sections of the United States, were gathered here tonight on the eve of the running of the 29th annual American marathon race of the Boston Athletic association tomorrow over a course of 26 miles, 385 yards, from Hopkinton, Mass., to Boston. The winner of this year's race will carry off the national A. A. U. marathon championship.

A sturdy field of runners was included in the list of 121 who sent in their entries for the feature marathon of the United States. Heading the roll is Clarence H. De Mar, 37 year old Melrose veteran, who has won the event four times—and successively for the last three years.

Three other former winners, Frank Zuna, Newark, N. J., plumber; Carl Linder, Quincy, Mass., and Bill Kennedy, East Portchester, N. Y., are entered, together with such stars as Frank Wendling, Buffalo; Whitey Michelsen, East Portchester, N. Y.; "Chuck" Mellor, Chicago; Willie Kyronen, Finnish-American A. C., New York; Wallie Carlson, Boston; Ralph Williams, Quincy, and Schou S. Christensen, of the Illinois A. C., Chicago.

PLAN TO SHORTEN OLYMPIC GAMES TO SIXTEEN DAYS

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—That some method of compressing the Olympic games into a shorter period of time will be adopted when the international authorities assemble at The Hague next month was made patent at the meeting of the Olympic authorities of this country in the Hotel Astor when delegates were elected and various methods of shortening the program discussed.

The program of sports is to be restricted to sixteen days, either by reductions in sports or the number of competitors. That America expects the number of sports to be reduced was indicated in the decision to instruct the delegates to fight alone for ice hockey on the winter sports program.

The American delegates will go abroad instructed to contend for the retention of a point system of determining the triumphant nation. America, realizing the strength in numbers, will oppose a reduction in the number of competitors.

SPARTA TRIMS HARVEY IN PEEL CUP BATTLE

Sparta Union soccer eleven earned the right to enter the Peel cup semi-finals by defeating Harvey, 3 to 1, in a second round contest at 27th street and Kostner avenue yesterday. More than 2,000 fans witnessed the contest.

Harvey started well enough by scoring the first goal of the contest, less than three minutes after the game got under way. Anderson shot the Harvey goal. Then shortly before the first half ended Sparta evened the score on a penalty kick.

Sparta assumed the offense at the outset of the second half and had the ball in Harvey territory almost the entire period, Kratochvil and A. Burger scoring the two winning goals. Lineup:

PENN RELAYS WILL ATTRACT RECORD ENTRY

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19.—[United News.]—The annual Pennsylvania relay carnival, to be held on Franklin field next Friday and Saturday, will attract probably the biggest number of athletes ever participating in one event in the United States.

More than 650 teams are already entered for the various relay championships, and in addition there are a few hundred entries for individual events.

In addition to participation by eastern colleges, Oxford and Cambridge will be represented in various events.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

by Frank Smith

IN our mail yesterday there was a plea for a return match between Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Stanislaus Zbyszko for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world. This fan is a glutton for punishment, but he explains that he always got a kick out of this pair on the mat although he never saw Zbyszko win.

The last time the veteran Pole won from Lewis he did so in a one fall match under rules promulgated at the eleventh hour by the eccentric William Muldoon who ruled the New York athletic commission with an iron hand. The wrestlers had agreed to wrestle one fall to a finish with pin falls only to count, but Muldoon opined differently and at 7 o'clock the night of the contest stepped in with the edict that rolling falls were to count. The result was that once Lewis' shoulder tipped the canvas and a referee named by Muldoon's commission stopped the bout and awarded the match to Zbyszko.

Lewis and Zbyszko have wrestled numerous times since, but on each occasion the "Strangler" was returned the victor in a decisive manner. What is the use of foisting a return match of this pair on the public? We can't see it, and all the arguments that the backers of this pair could put forth would not change our position. The fans might just as well push their money under the door and go home for a good night's rest, then read in the morning papers, if the papers were represented at the ringside, that Lewis again defeated Zbyszko.

The managers of these wrestlers might take the match some place where the fans haven't heard of their previous meetings and get away with it, but certainly they wouldn't have the bravado to attempt to promote it around here.

We reiterate that a match between Lewis and Wayne "Big" Munn would stand the fans on their heads and if both men were fit the boys who pay the freight would get an exciting run for their money. The bout might not last more than half an hour, one way or the other, but there would be enough thrills dished up to satisfy the most hungry mat fan.

CANUCK BOOTERS LOSE TITLE GAME TO EASTERN TEAM

Fall River, Mass., April 19.—[Special.]—Playing under decidedly unfavorable conditions and before a disappointingly small crowd, the Canadian club of Chicago was defeated, 3 to 0, by Shawsheen, Mass., in the final of the annual National Soccer Challenge cup competition of the United States Football association here today.

The day was raw and unsuited to good football. It rained continually through most of the second half. The visitors showed strength in only one position, left full back, held down by Houghton. The work of Goalkeeper Neate was far off color. The defense as a whole, was ragged and the offense weak.

Shawsheen showed far from its best, missing many golden opportunities. Smith tallied after thirty-five minutes, working through the half back line and driving from 20 yards out. The ball lobbed into the goal as the Chicago guardian stood flat footed. Five minutes later Hannah of the visitors tripped Carrie in the penalty area, and Purden converted the resulting penalty kick. Soon after play was resumed Carrie waded through the back field and tallied Shawsheen's third goal.

The gate left a $1,500 deficit on the game. Lineup:

Murdock	G.	Neate
Ross	R. F. B.	Hannah
Mills	L. F. B.	Houghton
Nixon	R. H. B.	Anderson

ANNOUNCE RULES FOR PUBLIC GOLF LINKS TITLE MEET

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—The conditions under which the fourth amateur public links championship of the United States Golf association will be played have been announced by the secretary of the U. S. G. A., H. H. Ramsay. The event will be held at the Salisbury Country club, Garden City, L. I., Aug. 4 to 8, inclusive.

In addition to the individual championship there will also be settled the team championship.

Entries for the individual championship must be received on or before July 20 and each entry must be accompanied by entry fee of $5. Entries should be sent to the United States Golf association, 110 East 42d street, New York City.

The first qualifying round of eighteen holes will be played on Tuesday, August 4, and the second qualifying round on the following day. The lowest thirty-two scores for the two rounds will constitute the championship flight.

The event is open to amateurs who are not members of nor enjoy privileges at a private club maintaining and supporting its own golf course.

Any player who is in doubt as to his eligibility may ascertain his status by communicating with one of the members of the public and municipal courses committee of the U. S. G. A. The member from the Chicago district is A. T. Packard.

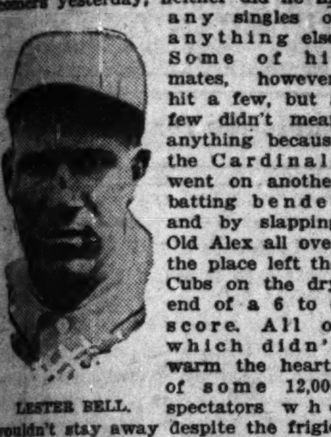
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.



LESTER BELL.

Mr. Charles Leo Hartnett hit no homers yesterday, neither did he hit any singles or anything else. Some of his mates, however, hit a few, but a few didn't mean anything because the Cardinals went on another batting bender and by slapping Old Alex all over the place left the Cubs on the dry end of a 6 to 0 score. All of which didn't warm the hearts of some 12,000 spectators who wouldn't stay away despite the frigid atmosphere and threats of rainfall.

To see Mr. Alex get thumped was bad enough, but to behold the Bruins so feeble with their bats they could send only one runner as far as third base, was decidedly worse. This state of affairs was brought about by some excellent pitching by the angular Leo Dickerman, who, with the aid of a whale of a sharp curve, good speed and some help from his mates, escaped with only four singles against his record. And to add to the discomfiture of everybody but himself and his mates, Dickerman piled up eight strikeouts.

Cards Bunch Their Hits.

Alex was by no means a punk pitcher but the Cards managed to do considerable damage in the run column because they bunched their hits. For three innings they couldn't even get a man to base and the outlook was good but the next frame changed everything. Four of the visitors hammered the ball in that frame, three scoring. One of the four smashes was Lester Bell's third home run in two days. In the fifth the Cards let two hits go to waste, but in the sixth they cut loose with three more for a pair of runs and then got a bargain tally in the ninth on a couple of singles and a fumble by Friberg, who tried his hand at short in the final chapter.

An unusual feature of the Cards' attack was that the hard socking Rogers Hornsby got nothing for his efforts. He was up four times to try his skill against Alex and the only real threat he made came in the eighth, when he drove a dangerous looking fly to deep right center. For a moment it looked good enough for a homer but the speedy Heathcote backed against the screen, reached up and pulled in the wallop. That was one of the few feature plays of the day, others being turned in by Mueller, who saved Dickerman some embarrassment by flagging four rakish drives in succession in the third and fourth sessions. Mueller also made himself a nuisance with his bat.

How They Scored.

Alex's rough ride in the fourth started with a slow roller beaten out by Blades. He was forced by Holm and Hornsby skied to left but Bottomley delayed the end of the inning by knocking one against the bleacher in left for two bases, Holm scoring. Then Bell hoisted his homer into the left field seats and that made three runs. Mueller followed with a double but died on second.

Bottomley also figured in the two runs shot across in the sixth. He led off with a single and Bell lofted to Heathcote. Mueller came through with his second long smash, the ball caroming off the right field fence for three bases, Bottomley scoring. Mueller sauntered home on a safe rap by Gonzales. Mueller crossed the pan again in the ninth. He singled and so did Gonzales and the run scored when Friberg mussed up a grounder that should have retired the side.

The one time the Cubs had a real opening in front of them was the fifth. A hit by Friberg, an error, and pass to Grimm loaded the corners with one out. Alex tapped to Bottomley and Friberg was forced at the plate. McAuley grounded out to end the round. After that the Cubs didn't get a man to second base.

CUB NOTES

THE Cardinals will finish their stay here today, tomorrow's scheduled battle having been called off out of respect to the late Charles H. Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn club.

Bob Barrett was trotted out to bat for McAuley in the eighth. He let one of Dickerman's sharp curves go past unmolested for the third strike. Bob then went to third base and Friberg moved over to short.

Owner William Wrigley celebrated the return of winter by parking his spring hat and recalling the iron kelly to active service.

Statz was completely buffaloed by Dickerman's curve. The tiny center fielder permitted himself to be called out on strikes in three successive appearances at the plate. In his fourth time up Statz grounded to short and forced Miller, who had singled in the ninth with two out.

Charley Grimm made half the hits off Dickerman. One was a scratch that rolled under the pitcher's hands in the third frame and the other a clean drive to center in the seventh.

Over the fence they go

FORTY-ONE players in both major baseball leagues knocked out fifty-four home runs in the first six days of play, with "Gabby" Hartnett of the Chicago Nationals, who hit five circuit blows in as many games, wearing the mantle of home run king in the absence of "Babe" Ruth, who is sick in a hospital.

The totals, which includes games of yesterday, show Flagstead of the Boston Americans and Bell of the St. Louis Nationals standing second to Hartnett with three homers apiece. In the American league, Williams of St. Louis, Goslin and Judge of Washington and Crouse of the Chicago White Sox each collected two four baggers, while Wright of Pittsburgh has an equal number. GIANTS' HOMERS BEAT ROBINS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 19.—Home runs by Wilson and Kelly played a big part in New York's second successive victory over Brooklyn today, 4 to 3. McQuillan held the Dodgers to six hits and received brilliant support.

DOCTORS ADVISE RESTLESS BABE TO KEEP RESTING

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth remained in his state of inactivity at St. Vincent's hospital today, showing steady improvement physically, but moving in the other direction mentally. As the Babe becomes sounder in body he grows more restless and anxious to return to the diamond. However, there was little hope at the hospital tonight that he would be able to join the Yanks until after the first of next month.

Mrs. Ruth and their daughter, Dorothy, were the only visitors allowed at the bedside of the famed slugger today. However, telephone calls asking of the great batsman's condition continued to pour into the hospital.

Browns Turn on Sox, 11 to 4, and Mr. Ball Has Quiet Day

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

St. Louis, April 19.—[Special.]—The Browns beat the Sox today, and Owner Phil Ball won a clean cut and decisive victory over the bleacher crowd. There was no riot when the battle ended. The crowd of perhaps 14,000 went home happy. The Browns had won their first game of the year. The score was most emphatic, 11 to 4.

Mr. Ball sat in his box smiling as his players continued round after round to drub the White Sox. There were few cries for Jacobson, the Brownie holdout. His young substitute, Mr. Bennett, found that everything was jake out his way before the game ended. The crowd was cheering for him. He got a single, a double, and a home run. The latter blow was as long as anything Jacobson ever hit in his life. Cheers followed from the bleachers and the stand.

Browns Get 19 Hits.

Mr. Ball just sat calmly in his box and chuckled. Everything was breaking well for him. The Sox pitchers really were awful. The Browns gathered nineteen base hits. Three of them were homers, Ken Williams and Eugene Robertson getting one each, along with young Mr. Bennett. There were four two baggers. They seemed to hit everything the Sox pitchers served them.

Charley Robertson began on the slab. He was in deep water from the start. His slow ball didn't fool anybody, or else he couldn't get it over, and when he gave them the fast one they socked. He lasted four innings and then a pinch hitter went up for him and he took a shower and beat it. Little Mike Cvengros came forth. He walked the first batter in the fifth. The next one singled, so did the third one, and then McManus doubled. Only two runs got home, however, because Mike's mates turned a double play to pull him out of the hole.

Falk Clouts Homer.

They wouldn't have done it, but the Browns were foolish on the bases. Little Mike gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth and young Kenneth Ash took the slab job. In the sixth he shut the Browns out without a run—something neither of the other two could do. But in the seventh young Bennett put on his heroic home run drive, and in the eighth Eugene Robertson staged his with one man on the bases, so Mr. Ash had his troubles, too. The Browns sure were in a batting mood.

All this time "Dixie" Davis, the veteran slabman of the Browns, was just breezing along. He didn't seem to have a thing. They never do when the other fellows can't do anything with them. Chances are he had a nice curve, a fine change of pace, a good fast ball, and control. The Sox gathered eight blows. The only one that was worth shucks was a home run by Bib Falk in the second. It tied the score. The score was tied for nearly five minutes. It was about that long before the Browns went to bat again. A neat rally was put on by the Sox in the sixth. They scored three runs and needed only four more at that stage to tie the count. Walks to Collins and Harris, with a two bagger by Kamm, a couple of errors by the Browns, and a sacrifice fly by Crouse enabled the Sox to do all that. After the sixth they were null and void.

HARTZ WINS SPRINTS WITH 135 MILE PACE

Culver City, Cal., April 19.—Harry Hartz drove to victory in the American Automobile association sprint program here today, winning the final heat of fifty miles in 22 minutes 11 seconds and thereby breaking the world's record for the distance. His speed was 135.2 miles an hour.

Peter De Paolo finished second, Fred Comer third; Frank Elliot, fourth; Bennett Hill, fifth, and Robert McDonough, sixth. The other five who started the final heat failed to finish.

The fifty mile record smashed by Hartz in his winning sprint was Tommy Milton's Beverly Hills mark of 26:1.92, hung up Sept. 2, 1922. It was not the only record to fall. Leon Duray in the first four qualifying twenty-five mile sprints, which preceded the fifty mile dash, broke Milton's 1922 Beverly Hills record of 13:1.49 by winning in 11:10. He had scarcely hung up the new mark, however, when Peter De Paolo took first place in the twenty-five mile heat in the still better time of 11:6.60. The third and fourth heats developed no new records, though the slowest time was better than the 1922 mark.

Milton, who had qualified in the sprints to defend his 1922 title in the fifty mile dash, developed engine trouble in the early laps of that heat and was forced to the pits. De Paolo was forcing the winner closely at the finish.

Earl Cooper furnished the thrills for the 25,000 spectators in the fifty mile event when he was pressing Hartz closely for first place within two laps of the finish, went into a skid on the south turn, pivoted seven times and stopped alongside the fence. He was traveling 134 miles per hour when his mount became unmanageable.

SOX NOTES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 19.—[Special.]—Red Faber is slated to hurl against the Browns in the third game of the series tomorrow.

Bib Falk's homer in the second inning was a corking drive that went over the right bleachers.

There is a rumor going around that a deal is on the fire between the Browns and Washington, whereby the Senators will get "Baby Doll" Jacobson. Whom the Browns would get in such a deal is not known.

President Ban Johnson of the American league was present again today and took a chance once more on sitting in Mr. Ball's box. Six uniformed officers stood in front of the box.

There is a suspicion here that when Mr. Jacobson reads of what happened here today he'll take the next train for St. Louis.

Our Mr. Archdeacon had all the home folks out today to see the game. He went to bat as pinch hitter in the sixth and was called out on strikes. Not so good.

TAYLOR BATTLES SMITH TONIGHT AT EAST CHICAGO

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., a strong contender for the bantamweight title before he injured his right shoulder nearly a year ago, and Midget Smith of New York will meet in the windup of the boxing show at East Chicago tonight. They will box ten rounds and weigh 121 pounds at the Mullen gymnasium this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

It will be Taylor's first appearance in the ring in months and his future will depend largely upon how he uses his right hand. If he punches straight with his right, he should go through the fight in a satisfactory manner. If he starts to twing with his right, the shoulder may pop out again and Bud's fighting days will be numbered, as he has undergone a long siege of treatment by a New York specialist.

Chance for Title Go.

While Smith cannot be rated the fighter he was a few years back, when he met Joe Burman at East Chicago, he is considered good enough to give Taylor a real battle tonight. Bud's timing of blows and judgment of distance will not be perfect because of his long layoff and he will be called upon to do a lot of defensive boxing, in the early rounds especially, as Smith will be boring in at all times. If Taylor wins the popular decision he will be in line for a number of important matches, including a shot with Phil Rosenberg, the world's bantamweight champion.

Mickey O'Dowd of Muncie, Ind., and Frankie Callahan of Columbus will meet in the eight round semi-windup at 135 pounds. Al Moore and Al Mathews, two heavyweights, will open the show in a four round engagement. Dan Gaspara and Danny Kahn, local 155 pounders, meet in one of the six round preliminaries, and Paul Allen and Bobby Cooper, featherweights, in the other.

Gardner to Referee.

Jimmy Gardner, the well known welterweight of fifteen years ago, will referee the main event, while Packey McVey of East Chicago will handle the other bouts.

A regular train will leave over the Illinois Central from the Randolph street terminal at 6:40 o'clock this evening.

Jack Dempsey, the retired world's heavyweight champion, accompanied by his wife, is due to arrive in Chicago today. Dempsey may have something to say about the boxing situation, but the general opinion of those closely identified with the boxing racket is that Dempsey never will enter the ring again in defense of his title.

Sammy Mandell of Rockford, claimant of the world's lightweight title, will meet Joe Azarella of Milwaukee in a ten round bout in Milwaukee tonight.

E. J. McKEEVER MADE HEAD OF BROOKLYN CLUB

New York, April 19.—Edward J. McKeever automatically becomes president of the Brooklyn National League Baseball club as a result of the death of Charles H. Ebbets, it was announced today. Mr. Ebbets held a half interest in the club, the other 50 per cent being shared by Edward and Stephen McKeever.

MUDDY TRACKS HALT WORKOUT OF DERBY NAGS

Louisville, Ky., April 19.—[Special.]—Today was an off day in the schedules of most of the thoroughbreds in training here for the Derby. A heavy rainstorm broke over the tracks early this morning and lasted for several hours and fewer horses than on any day within the last month were given workouts, and a majority of these were finished before the rain began. Both ovals were turned muddy in a short space of time.

Long and slow exercise gallops, and walks around the stable sheds were the order of the day with the Derby candidates, with the exception of Harry Payne Whitney's Bridesmaid and the Cincinnati stable's Ragtime, each of which breezed a half mile. The Whitney filly was full of fun, covering the four furlongs in :48 4-5, in handy fashion.

Bridesmaid on Edge.

Bridesmaid went the first quarter in :24. This miss is sharper now than at any time during her racing career and it will take a lot to beat her in the Ashland Oaks at Lexington on next Saturday. Ragtime turned in an easy gallop, and his four furlongs were timed in :50 2-5.

Trainer William J. Speirs seems to fancy the latter part of the day to bring out Our General, William Ziegler Jr.'s Derby hope, as he sent him a half mile in :51 2-5 on Saturday afternoon. This marked the second gallop for the Sir Martin colt since he came here and both times he performed in the afternoon.

Light Work For Quatrain.

Quatrain was given only walking exercise this morning and he did not seem to favor his right front foot as much as on the previous two days. Owner Frederick Johnson went to Lexington and during his absence his stable foreman is in charge of affairs. Johnson is due back tomorrow and it is expected that he will announce a successor to Trainer Tom Harmon, who resigned Saturday, immediately upon his return.

Whether Quatrain's ailment is serious enough to affect his training will be known shortly, as tomorrow is his regular workday. When Harmon was training him it was his custom to give him an opener of three-eighths or half a mile the day before the colt worked, and Quatrain's absence from the track today gives the impression that he will not get his usual workout tomorrow.

DERBY FAVORITES AMONG 69 NAMED FOR PREAKNESS

Baltimore, Md., April 19.—[Special.]—A total of sixty-nine nominations has been received for the $50,000 Preakness stakes, which will be run over the mile and three-sixteenths course at Pimlico, Friday, May 8, it was announced today by the Maryland Jockey club. The Preakness, first run in 1909 at a mile, is for 3 year old colts and fillies, geldings not being eligible. It is a weight for age race, and has attracted the cream of the 3 year olds of the country.

More and more the Preakness is regarded as the final trial for the Kentucky Derby, which it precedes this year by eight days. In it are named all of those which are considered to have a chance in the Churchill Downs classic.

In Motordom

By J. L. JENKINS

A FEW more steps in the development of the Diesel, or fuel oil injection type engine, will result in its adaptation into the automotive field, in the opinion of engineering authorities who went into the technicalities of the subject at the last meeting of the Western Society of Engineers in Chicago.

Phillip L. Scott, consulting engineer for the Super-Diesel Tractor corporation, led the interesting discussion, which brought out publicity for the first time the possibilities of this economical motor in relation to the vast field of motor transportation. He outlined the history of the oil engine from the day, more than a quarter century ago, when Diesel completed his first stationary engine, on through its application to the marine and rail transportation fields and through his last eight years of experimental work which has been on automotive adaptation of the Diesel principle with direct fuel injection rather than carburetion.

The remaining drawbacks to converting the present day Diesel monsters to automotive use, he declared, are weight of the units and the problem of developing high speed and flexibility in this type of power plant. The injection engine, he added, is an entire success in its present fields, develops twice the power per fuel used as compared to the auto cycle engine, is practically foolproof, and is rapidly nearing the automobile adoption goal.

THE QUESTION BOX.

CHICAGO. — [To the Editor.] — Some of us are having a little dispute over the names of a certain fish, namely, the silver bass. Is this so-called silver bass caught in Fox Lake, Ill., also called a crappie? Has the "crappie" another name?

DR. DAVID O'SHEA.

Answer.—It would be necessary, of course, to see a specimen of the so-called silver bass to identify it properly. Nearly every popular game fish has dozens of names, some of which mean nothing and only confuse a fisherman.

There are two species of sunfish known as crappies. One has a rather long, compressed body, silvery olive in color, mottled with dark green; the dark marks having a tendency to form narrow vertical bars. This is the white crappie [Pomoxis annularis]. This species is quite light in color and has all kinds of names including silver bass, white crappie, and ringed crappie. It has six dorsal spines. You can open up the dorsal fin [the one on its back] and count 'em. The cousin of this pale crappie is the darker handsomer crappie called the calico bass. The body is less elongate, everywhere spotted dark green or blackfish with much irridescent color all over it. But colors are confusing so look at the dorsal spines of this fish for sure identification. This good looking crappie has typically seven [or eight] spines compared to the six of the pale species.

THREE NAGS WIN FOR OWNER IN DAY

PARIS, April 19.—E. Martinez de Hoz, a South American horse owner, today carried off the honors at the Longchamps race course. Three of his horses won races, two of them at long odds, while another finished second.

Jockey Semblat was in the saddle. He brought the colors of the South American first under the wire astride Nyo, Belfonds, and Frisette, and rode Tricard to second place. The aggregate purses won were 176,000 francs.

EXPECT BIG ENTRY FOR MEET.

GEN. THATCHER WINS FINAL TIJUANA STAKE

San Diego, Cal., April 19.—Gen. Thatcher, the Nevada stock farm stable's crack campaigner, won the Au Revoir handicap of a mile and a sixteenth, feature event of the final day's program at the Tijuana race track, near here today, over a field of six other horses. Fabian, from the McGill barn, was second, with Dr. Clark, owned by Baron Long, third.

Gen. Thatcher equaled the track record of 1:44 3-5 in winning easily. His main rivals, Sunspero and Spic and Span, were scratched.

Thistlewood made it a double for the Nevada Stock Farm by taking the La Goldrina handicap of six furlongs, secondary feature on the closing card. Right On Time was a fast going second with Swingalong third. The time was 1:11 4-5.

A good sized crowd turned out for the final day's racing and remained until the sun had almost gone down with the running of the final race.

The meeting which closed today was the banner one since the border track opened. It ran for 125 racing days, during which time about 1,140 races were run with about $1,000,000 offered in purses.

FARM and GARDEN

FLOWER COMBINATIONS FOR PRIVATE BACK LAWN.

IT'S planting time for flowers that are to be grown on the lawn or in outdoor porch boxes.

There are two kinds of lobelias suburbanites use. They put the robust or trailing forms in window boxes or hanging baskets and plant the dwarfs around big beds of flowers or in masses. Some start the dwarf lobelia seeds in boxes and transplant the seedlings to the open later to get an even mass.

There are also two kinds of marigolds that go together nicely on the private lawn. The orange and lemon shaded Africans are the tall ones that make a good showing along the back border. The plants should be set a foot and a half apart. In front of the tall African plants set a narrow border of dwarf marigolds. They come up in little bushy masses studded with yellow, orange, mahogany, and crimson blossoms. If set twelve inches apart they form a solid edging along the strip of tall plants.

WARREN BREAKS 99 TARGETS AND COLLECTS FRUIT

W. G. Warren assured himself of his breakfast grapefruit for a long time yesterday by breaking 99 out of 100 targets in the Irrgang shoot for members, 16 yard rise, at the Lincoln park traps yesterday afternoon. The Irrgang prize is twenty-four cases of fresh fruit, grapefruit, apples and oranges.

Warren's 99 topped the members among the more than 100 shooters at the traps, but he was tied by F. Huseman, a visitor.

S. Chidley, who was third in the Irrgang shoot with 96, won the doubles event, twenty-five pairs, 16 yards rise, by breaking 44 of the 50 birds. In two team challenge matches, in classes A and B, the challengers were defeated. Scores:

Irrgang shoot—Warren, 99; Huseman, 99; S. Chidley, 96; C. D. Thomas, 94; Hugh Mitchell, 93; H. M. Riley, 92; J. W. Eggermann, 91; Joe Donlon, 91; C. F. Taylor, 90; Ed Hall, 90.

Challenge team shoot, class A—W. G. Warren, 98; H. M. Riley, 94; C. G. Burmeister, 95; S. Chidley, 94; Stephen Fay, 94; team total, 475. C. D. Thomas, 92; G. F. Hamilton, 97; C. F. Kemmerer, 81; C. Jones, 82; Eric Hall, 88; team total, 440.

The New York Times.

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—The events of last week which preeminently marked out the character of the financial situation were the emphatic decline in money rates, the steadiness of the foreign exchanges, the advance in the price of high grade investment bonds, the halt in stock market speculation, and the failure of wheat prices to hold above $1.50, notwithstanding the $2 price of six or seven weeks ago.

Considering retrospectively the last three months, it cannot be doubted that the outburst of daring speculation for the rise in January caused the precautionary tightening in money. It was a movement which, if successfully continued, as in 1919, would have diverted to speculation the surplus bank resources. If "trade boom" of the kind imagined three or four months ago had also materialized, withdrawal of capital from the market for fixed investments would have been inevitable. Financially speaking, we should again (as in 1923) have left Europe to drift.

Expect Steady Progress.

This prospect definitely is changed. Trade and industry are not expecting formidable reaction, but they have adjusted themselves to normal and steady progress, in which a large production will be continuously distributed, through a transportation system working with high efficiency, to the merchants and consumers as their needs prescribe. So far as present indications show, there will be no overaccumulation of unsold stocks of goods, no bidding by merchants and middlemen against one another, no "perpendicular rise" in prices such as might eventually bring a difficult readjustment and would certainly jeopardize our position in foreign trade.

This is, on the whole, a gratifying outlook. If it is not what Wall street describes as "stimulating," it is, at any rate, free from the hazards of violent changes. It will give opportunity for developing to the best advantage the results of the highly profitable season in the agricultural south and west, the two sections of the country whose unfavorable condition during the two or three last years has repeatedly obstructed the country's normal development.

Car Loadings Show Gains.

Meantime the volume of business which actually is under way is once more indicated by the exceeding of all the season's reocrds in freight loaded on the railways, and by the fact that exchange of bank checks in the whole country is running 10 to 12 per cent above the amount reported in any previous corresponding period except 1920, when prices of goods in April averaged 39 per cent above their present figure.

The fiscal troubles of France are one of the numerous paradoxes in the sequel to the war. A British industrialist lately made the point that England, which had not been invaded in the war and which had now brought its currency virtually back to gold parity, is in a worse case industrially than either France, whose manufacturing district had suffered military devastation, or Germany, which had allowed its currency to become worthless.

Britain Fails to Improve.

The reason was that France had reconstructed the ruined industrial north with a thoroughly up to date manufacturing plant, and that German industry, rightly distrustful of cash surpluses and large cash dividends when the mark would be worth far less tomorrow than today, had reinvested its excess earnings in the property, whereas England had today only the old fashioned plant of 1914.

Now, however, France is confronted with the other side of the reconstruction question. It rebuilt the devastated north on the basis of short term internal bond issues, which, theoretically, German reparations were supposed to cover. Germany, however, did not pay. Its cash remittances on that account are conditioned, even under the Dawes plan, on such a foreign trade export surplus as should facilitate deliveries of foreign exchange, whereas the trade of the two first months in 1925 produced an import excess of $278,000,000.

Internal Loans Maturing.

What France, therefore, is considering is the maturing from time to time of the internal debt contracted to raise the [illegible] francs or more which were spent for reconstruction.

The present French taxation revenue is more than six times what it was in 1913; even on a gold basis it is double the prewar figure, and but for the increase of [illegible] francs since 1918 in interest on the public debt, the budget would produce a handsome surplus. But the debt charge stands; the maturing short term bonds, if not refunded or renewed, have to be paid in cash, and this is undoubtedly why the government has had to ask at least the authority for additional borrowing at a pinch from the Bank of France.

It is a case in which abundant sympathy will go to France, for nobody ever questioned the wisdom and the necessity of the reconstruction expenditure, and everyone understands why the French taxpayer instinctively resents a largely increased burden to meet requisitions [illegible] Germany is, by treaty, pledged to [illegible]. The situation, however, as with President Cleveland's tariff policy, is a condition and not a theory. The French people being what they are, the outcome [illegible] necessitate the increased taxation, [illegible] the German settlement again post-

LONDON MARKETS MADE NERVOUS BY FRENCH AFFAIRS

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, April 18.—The trend of dull, colorless business this week in the London banking and trading district had its first real flash of excitement from across the channel, where Paul Painleve's new French cabinet in general—and Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux in particular—already is accounted as responsible for the upward lunge in continental money and continental securities and properties. Apparently the foreign issue is about to play a star role in the next business period. The uninteresting condition of domestic trade pending the budget announcement is bound to add impetus to cross channel operations, which are even now gathering momentum.

Financial papers in London seem to favor the return of M. Caillaux. While the conservative dailies are more or less wrapped up in business, they are foretelling a sudden smash in store for the new cabinet—the weekly money publications are nearly unanimous in hailing M. Caillaux as a man who it is possible to expect may be able to open a better phase in the international business outlook.

Look for 4 Per Cent Yield.

The gilt edged market is believed sure to benefit from the fact that a comparatively small volume of British debts is scheduled to mature this year. Investors in long term loans are looking forward to the possibility of reaching a 4 per cent yield. If this materializes, the government may well undertake to redeem its 5 per cent war stocks.

The industrial division was featured this week by frantic speculation in textiles, chiefly Courtaulds, which soared to £5 [$25] before profit taking brought them down to their former level, a little over £4½.

Oils suffered this week all around, domestics and foreigns alike dropping to new low records, which was largely attributed to local selling at the windup of the fortnightly account, with money getting increasingly difficult.

Freight Traffic Drops.

Freight shipments dwindled with the attendant lowering in the price of rates, all leading home railways depressing this department further. Despite the fact that Easter traffic was exceptionally heavy, bringing in an encouraging report on the passenger side of the business, the steadily dropping freight transportations sent rails downhill until many roads approached bottom prices.

EVERYBODY knows that we make thousands of loans to people with incomes of from $100 to $300 a month.

Last month we made over 200 loans to persons with incomes ranging from $4,000 to $20,000 a year.

The installment repayment plan is the reason for the wide application of The Morris Plan.

Just divide the amount of money you want by 50 or 12 and you have the weekly or monthly installment required on a Morris Plan loan.

And you'll see in a minute how it is possible to meet your indebtedness out of earnings or income.

It's Dependable—
—if it's a Fitch Rating

Fitch Security Ratings Alone Forecast the St. Paul Defaults Through Its Rating Symbols

Fitch Ratings on the St. Paul "Junior" Issues, published in the Fitch Bond Revisions, were dropped on October 1st, 1924, from "B," a speculative rating, to "C," an unmistakable warning to Fitch-served investors.

Prior to October 1st all competing services rated these issues two grades higher than Fitch, and since then Fitch ratings have been FIVE grades below those of competitors. A $20,000,000 loss in market values anticipated.

Last month, when the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway System passed into a receivership because it couldn't pay the interest and foreshadowed a default in principal on its junior bond issues, the subscribers to the Fitch Bond Revisions Service had had plenty of time to protect themselves. They were able to switch their funds into bonds rated highly by the Fitch organization.

Thus warned, these fortunate bond owners were protected from the sweeping fall in St. Paul bond values, which is expected to exceed $20,000,000.

It wasn't guesswork that set these vital signals of financial danger, drawing the receivership's teeth for the benefit of Fitch-served investors. Statistical science, plus a close knowledge of the governing facts, were applied by the Fitch security annalists in the routine performance of their daily work, automatically revealing the true condition of a great railroad's finances.

As conditions change, the Fitch experts are constantly raising and lowering the Fitch Ratings to keep them faithful to the facts. Thus they reveal the probability of risks and uncover new opportunities, often for the exclusive information of Fitch clients.

If you realize how much you need truly dependable investment protection service, you should make yourself acquainted with the Fitch Services for Investors at your earliest convenience.

To gain a clear knowledge of the investment guidance you can get from the Fitch services, send for Descriptive Letter CTA, a free copy of the Fitch Weekly Bond Record and the current list of Fitch Revised Bond Ratings.

SINCE 1885

the name of Fitch has been connected with dependable services to leading Banks, Investment Bankers, Insurance Companies and large Private Investors.

GRAIN HOLDERS PUZZLED; PRICES SWING WIDELY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There is a lack of confidence on the part of scattered holders of grains, a liquidating movement by holders of May contracts of all grains, with activity among elevator interests, anxious to have May holders liquidate to enable them to get in their hedges at a profit.

Many see a most unsatisfactory situation all around, because of the limited cash demand on one side, the lack of stability of values necessary to induce large buying, and a limited speculative short interest. Added to the situation is the uncertainty regarding the outcome of the winter wheat crop, especially in the southwest.

Wild Price Fluctuations.

Price fluctuations are wild, within a wide range. The close Saturday on May wheat was off 14⅝c as compared with a week ago; July off 8⅛c, and September 4⅛c. May corn lost 4⅝c, July 3¼c, and September 3⅝c. Oats lost 1¼@⅝c, with September leading, while rye finished 5⅛@11⅝c lower, the latter on May.

The provision trade did not escape the liquidation and depressing influences. Lard finished 52½@60c lower for the week, while short ribs were 15@25c lower and bellies 15@70c lower for the week.

The cash demand for wheat is disappointing from an exporting standpoint, although there is a little business under way all the time.

Good Stocks in Northwest.

No. 2 red winter wheat is scarce at 20@25c over May. There are premiums on hard winter and spring wheat. There is nearly 50 per cent of the visible supply, or around 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, at Minneapolis and Duluth, and lighter stocks at Chicago than there should be, considering the volume of trade, and some northwestern wheat may move to Chicago. Wild fluctuations, 18⅛c on May and 10⅛c on July in Chicago last week, represented a professional trade, as the outsiders cannot afford to operate in a market that changes 6 to 7 cents in a day, advancing one day and declining the next. The milling situation in the flour trade is unsatisfactory, and a hand to mouth policy is pursued in buying.

May Wheat Around $1.47.

May wheat closed Saturday at $1.47⅛@1.47½, or 9c over the July. At one time during the week it was only 6c over, and some people predict that it will go to a discount under July. The July finished at $1.38⅛@1.38½, and September at 1.30⅝@1.31. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Sentiment Mixed.

A large distributor of corn in the Missouri river territory expressed himself as a believer in present prices of cash corn, and says that were prices to recede to any extent there would be a material improvement in the cash demand. Others, however, are bearish and are said to be short, not only on their hedges against cash corn holdings, but have sold May within a week in an effort to force general liquidation of sufficient volume to enable them to buy in their shorts and their hedges to advantage.

In a move to get May corn prices down letters have been sent to operators in outside markets where there is supposed to be considerable interest, warning the trade against taking in cash corn on May delivery, intimating that the grain might get out of condition, and that they would not finance it.

May corn had a range of 10 cents last week, and the close was $1.06¼, or 4⅝c, with liberal changing from May to July around 4½c. July closed at $1.10⅝@1.10⅝, and September $1.10⅝@1.10½. Prices for the week follow:

Oat Changing Near End.

A few close observers in the oat trade say that the bulk of the May hedges have been transferred to July. Others, however, assert that there are still liberal amounts to be turned over. Changing operations have been on a big scale for a month, and liberal spreading between May and July has been under way. Considering the break in other grains, oats have held remarkably well.

May closed Saturday at 41c, July 42⅝@42⅛c, and September 42⅝c. Prices for the week follow:

Rye Clearances Liberal.

Exports of rye are liberal and stocks ample. Non-visible supply points are transferring their stocks into the visible, and supplies are ample for the present demand. Crop prospects on the whole are fairly good. May rye dropped from $1.19½ to $1.06¼, and closed at $1.08. July closed at $1.08⅝, and September at 98⅛c.

Provision futures closed around the lowest of the week. It is said that the big packers who engineered the recent break have made little money on the decline, while the speculators have lost considerable. One of the smaller packers says that business is disappointing, and that they are losing money. The cash trade is moderate, and shipments of products are below last year's. Prices for the week follow:

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1925: Fairchild News Service.]

NEW YORK.—Gray goods trading broadened over the week-end and the better demand sent prices ahead. The 64x60 and 68x72 sold in good volume. Prices follow: For 64x72, 5.35 yards to the pound, 9½c; 68x72, 4.75 yards to the pound, 11¼c; 72x76, 4.25 yards to the pound, 12⅝c; 80 square, 4.00 yards to the pound, 13⅝c.

NEW YORK.—Burlap trading was quiet over the week-end, but prices held firm on the receipt of strong and active cables from the primary center at Calcutta. Nearby afloat goods attracted the most interest. Spot 8s were 7.60c and the 10½s were 9⅛c. April shipments were 7.20c for 8s and 9.70c for the 10½s.

SUBSIDIES AND RADICALS BRING STRANGE RESULT

BY SCRUTATOR.

President Coolidge's plea against confiscatory inheritance taxes has found small favor among certain circles of our endowed liberals. It is difficult for some of us mere burgeoisie and proletariat to escape being amused when reading the protests against impending plutocracy, from those who happen to be maintained by whatever of plutocracy we already have.

Looking over the literary and statistical output of some of the foundations and endowments leads to wonder. What would some of their founders think of the antics of their brain children now? Why is it that with the exception of money devoted to scientific research and undergraduate education, so many of these funds seem to come under the control of folks who, by every test of phrase and vocabulary, are socialistically inclined? Is it because the life of the endowed is such a near approach to the static, noncompetitive ideal of socialism that they are just naturally attracted to such berths, while the more individualistic will have none of it?

Anyhow, it is easy to see that in a few years we are going to have a merry intellectual time of it with all these foundations. It was almost funny some time ago to read one day a blast from a politician against the subsidization of learning by the rich, and to pick out of the next day's mail two expensive books put out by rich men's foundations severely criticizing the labor policies of corporations, in which other rich men were interested, including one corporation identified with a man of great wealth, who has given scores of millions to his own foundation. Recalling the politician's early history and the generally accepted tale that another big business man invested half a million in promoting his career and policies, made the situation all the more interesting.

Sometimes it is difficult for the man of no wealth, when reading the denunciations of wealth by subsidized idealists, to refrain from the wish that it might be possible, for a period at least, for the endowed to carry out their vaunted policies regarding their endowers, and to strip them of their coin. It would be fun to see some of the endowed making a living like the rest of us, functioning as members of the proletariat instead of patronizing it at some one else's expense.

Only the consciousness that such a wreck of property rights also would harm the proletariat and lesser bourgeoise, quite as much as the rich, gives pause to such a train of thought. Few of us are probably much concerned about the rich for other reasons, and there are men, a growing number of men, who wonder whether some philanthropies of the rich are not reacting more harmfully upon self supporting members of society than the widely heralded follies of other groups of the ultra wealthy.

Missouri Pacific Railroad.

M. M. W., Dixon, Ill.—The Missouri Pacific Railroad company is issuing $25,000,000 first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series E, due 1955, making a total of $66,942,000 bonds now outstanding under this mortgage. These bonds are secured by a first lien on 3,299 miles of road, and by a refunding lien on the remaining 3,435 miles, subject to $125,931,500 prior lien bonds. They are also secured by a lien on $22,703,000 par value of preferred stock of the Texas and Pacific Railway company. On completion of present financing these bonds will be outstanding at the rate of about $26,500 per mile on the mileage on which they are a first lien. Income for 1924 available for interest on these first and refunding mortgage bonds, adjusted to present conditions and after deducting interest on debt prior to these bonds, rentals and taxes [other than income taxes] amounted to $13,247,294, or 2.22 times the annual interest charges on the present funded debt other than such prior debt (excluding interest on general mortgage bonds which are junior to the first and refunding mortgage bonds), which interest charges amount to $5,942,773. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

Ambitious Salesmen Wanted.

THE EQUITABLE LIFE OF N. Y. [Burnham Bldg. Branch] has a place in its selling organization for ten additional men.

We are one of the largest companies in the world.

We do not compensate our men by salaries or advances, but by training them to become insurance experts and self sustaining.

The kind of men we want are not men who have had insurance experience, but men who have made a success in whatever they have undertaken, but do not feel that their efforts are being properly rewarded.

We do not want men who want a soft snap and who have not the vision to see the wonderful opportunities in this great business.

Ask for Mr. Alfred Holzman, Suite 1230 Burnham Bldg., 160 N. La Salle-s., before 12 a. m., or phone State 1261 for a later appointment.

An Opportunity for Five Real Estate Sales Managers.

The interest in Florida is growing by leaps and bounds. We have the best and most complete sales proposition you have ever seen, a wonderful kit and a contract that is a knockout. If you want to make some real money for yourself and your clients, call Mr. Davis, Central 6223, for appointment.

And Now You've Looked over the field of available jobs, telephone Harrison 6044 and make an appointment leading to the most profitable and best paid non-selling job of all; full or part time.

ARE YOU THE MAN?

Does an income of from $50-$200 per week interest you. Those are the earnings of our men during the past month and some of them are new men, recently added to our organization. This company is now conducting an aggressive advertising campaign and offers a real opportunity to a number of earnest and energetic men. Our men receive a thorough training in our business and are given real help in obtaining business which enables them to earn right from the start. Come in and have a real talk about our business with MR. JOYCE, Room 903, 109 N. Dearborn.

AUTOMOBILE BODY SALESMAN - TO sell commercial auto bodies and all kinds of repairs and painting on both commercial and pleasure cars. ITALIAN SALESMEN.

Automobile and Insurance Exp. is a great asset for you in my business. If you desire to get into a bigger and better selling field I will assure you greater income. Address Y L 452, Tribune.

I WANT SEVEN SALESMEN WHO WANT TO EARN $10,000 A YEAR OR MORE.

These opportunity seekers must be high class, clean cut, intelligent, well educated specialty salesmen, between 25 and 35 years of age.

We now have over fifty salesmen in the field, and new class will fill our territories.

Our high man, fully experienced, earned over $1,800 in March. A man with only two months' experience earned over $850. A deaf man earned over $800-he can hear "yes" but not "no." Average for entire sales force $378-many weak sisters and beginners among them.

This is a specialty line for doctors and dentists, rather technical, but complete instruction and training is given. As soon as you demonstrate sufficient knowledge and ability for the intelligent presentation of our products you will be assigned a territory and placed on a drawing account commensurate with your ability.

Salesmen must have good clothes, an agreeable personality, and be able in a diplomatic and convincing way to obtain a close at the first interview. Men who have successfully sold ideas, stock or bonds can qualify. Demonstration is tangible, thoroughly practical, and fully proven, and every doctor or dentist is a prospect.

I WANT A FEW MEN, NOT over 23 yrs. of age, gentiles and single, who are really interested in their future. Outside work and long hours. Salary and expenses to start. Call 10 a. m. Monday. Ask for R. E. KERL, 323 S. Wabash-av.

ITALIAN SALESMEN. BIG OPPORTUNITY.

A well known company is in need of 5 men to fill in vacancies. Men who have sold Insurance, Groceries, Clothing, etc., will find this very profitable; exp. in our bus. not nec.; quick promotion to right men; ref. req. See MR. SIGNORILE, Gen. Mgr., room 848, 29 S. La Salle-st.

MARRIED LADIES. $5.00 PER HOUR.

Many married ladies would like to make extra money by devoting only 8 to 10 hours a week to something they are fitted to handle and which would bring them $50.00 per week for their efforts.

We have engaged Lila Farrell, the nationally known Character Analyst, to select several married ladies to handle our special work. We have found that the majority of the married ladies selected by Miss Farrell have earned in excess of $5.00 per hour in their spare time. Come in and let Miss Farrell tell you whether you are capable of earning this money with us.

This Character reading service costs you nothing, and should be worth much to you. Call after 10:30 a. m., today, room 922, 77 W. Washington-st.

We have an unusually interesting opportunity for ambitious women to earn from $50 to $200 per week showing a line of lingerie that every woman buys because it is the loveliest and best garment buyable at the lowest price. Ideal summer work for teachers. Immediate reply desirable. Call between 9 a. m. and 12 noon, FRED K. HIGBIE SUPPLY CO., 360 N. Michigan-av., R. 1102, or from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. at Booth 217, Woman's World's Fair.

Without Cost or Obligation

We will give a course in salesmanship that will fit you for a better and greater future to a small class of women without cost or obligation on your part. This class is being conducted by one of the best teachers in Chicago. We will also give a few of the class an opportunity to earn enough money for their vacation this summer, without interfering with their present employment. For further information and application blank Address Y I 225, Tribune.

LEGAL NOTICES.

PURSUANT TO AN ORDER OF THE CHANcery Division of the High Court of Justice dated 17th March, 1925, made in the Matter of the Estate of William Henry Symes deceased (late of Parkstone in the County of Dorset, England, who died on the 4th February, 1924) and in an action Symes and another v. Symes and others 1925 S. 108, whereby the following Inquiry was directed, namely:

1. "An inquiry whether Ernest James Henry "Symes is living or dead and if dead when "he died and if he survived the Testator "who is his legal personal representative "but if he predeceased the Testator then "whether he was ever married and whether "he had any and what issue and if so which "of such issue if any survived the Testator."

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons claiming to be entitled under the said Inquiry are on or before the 1st January, 1926, to send by post prepaid to Arthur George Symonds a member of the firm of Messrs. Symonds & Sons, Solicitors of Dorchester, Dorset, England, their full Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions and full particulars of their claims or in default thereof they will be excluded from the benefit of the said Order unless the Court or Judge on application otherwise orders.

CLAIMANTS are to attend personally or by their Solicitors before Master H. W. Jelf at the Chambers of the Judge Room No. 318, Royal Courts of Justice, Strand, London, W. C. England, on Wednesday the 13th day of January, 1926, at twelve o'clock noon being the time appointed for adjudicating upon the claims. A Claimant not residing in England or Wales must send with particulars of his claim the name and address of a person in England or Wales to whom notices to the claimant can be sent.

DATED this 2nd day of April, 1925.

HERBERT W. JELF, Master.

NOTE. The said Ernest James Henry Symes was last heard of in Denver, Colorado, United States of America in or about the year 1904.
